Alone With God

By G.D. Watson

We have to be alone with God in finding personal salvation. Others may be used as instruments in bringing conviction, light, help in various ways; but there comes a crisis, both in the work of regeneration and of sanctification, in which the soul must be detached from others, and deal only with God. How utterly impertinent are human words in such a crisis!

We must meet our Jesus singly; we must apprehend Him for ourselves; He must speak to us with His own voice. In such an hour we gaze on the salvation promises, such as, “Thy sins will be forgiven thee,” or, “I will, be thou clean”; but the words on paper need to be imparted into our consciousness, and to do this, they must be re-spoken into us by the Holy Ghost. No true soul will be satisfied with an inference of salvation, or a dead legal imputation of holiness, or the opinions of others as to our state; nothing less than God alone pouring His assurance into our spirits will answer.

The dear Redeemer Who loved us from eternity, and “formed us for Himself,” will not leave the pining soul to the secondhand tinkering of others; He will closet us with Himself, and re-speak into us those living words out of His Book that have been spoken to seeking souls in every generation of the world. God longs to give each of us a perfect personal assurance of His perfect salvation. But we must be alone with God.

“God longs to give each of us a perfect personal assurance of His perfect salvation.”

JOY FOR MOURNING

Anne Miller

Anne was articulate, poised, and appeared to have her life put together. But her life was held together by the glue of control—control over an inner world devastated by the sin of sexual abuse.

Joy for Mourning is not light reading. It's about something ugly, tragic and disturbing, but it offers inspiration and comfort to those struggling with the aftermath of abuse and gives insight and understanding to people who endeavor to help the hurting.

WHEN CHURCHES TRY to help community children, many resort to vacation Bible school. But two weeks seem like a very short time. Can it make a difference? Meet Micah and Morgan, two volunteers who take on the challenge of an urban Bible school.

As they get to know Jasper, the wrestling maniac, whose dad comes home drunk; and Amber, the silent loner, whose mom is in jail, these young teachers look into the eyes of despair and realize they are fighting in Satan's territory. What started as a project to help strangers becomes a battle for souls with eternal consequences.

This fast-paced story is based on true accounts, yet it reflects every neighborhood with empty faces and broken homes. As you watch Micah and Morgan face challenges that tempt them to despair, you will find a story that could be yours. Their victories could be your story too.
