Samuel the Child of Prayer

Samuel came into this world and was given existence in direct answer to prayer. He was born of a praying mother, whose heart was full of earnest desire for a son. It was a prayer accompanied by a solemn vow that if he should be given, he should be “lent to the LORD,” and true to that vow, this praying mother put him directly in touch with the minister of the sanctuary and under the influence of “the house of prayer.” It was no wonder he developed into a man of prayer. We could not have expected otherwise with such a beginning in life and with such early environments. Such surroundings always make impressions upon children and tend to make character and determine destiny.

Had he been born of a different sort of mother, had he been placed under different surroundings, had he spent his early days in contact with different influences, does anyone for one moment suppose he could have easily heard the voice of God calling him to His service, and that he would have so readily yielded his young life to the God who brought him into being? Would a worldly home, with worldly surroundings, separated from the church of God, with a worldly-minded mother, have produced such a character as Samuel?

Samuel knew God in boyhood. As a consequence he knew God in manhood. He recognized God in childhood, obeyed Him, and prayed unto Him. The result was that Samuel recognized God in manhood, obeyed Him, and prayed unto Him. If more children were born of praying mothers, brought up in direct contact with “the house of prayer,” and reared under prayer environments, more children would hear the voice of God’s spirit speaking to them, and would more quickly respond to those divine calls to a religious life. Would we have praying men in our churches? We must have praying mothers to give them birth, praying homes to color their lives, and praying surroundings to impress their minds and to lay the foundations for praying lives. Praying Samuels come from praying Hannahs. Praying priests come from “the house of prayer.” Praying leaders come from praying homes.

Church Matters Gary Miller

Disagreements and church splits can be disillusioning, both to those within our churches and to seekers. How can people with different views and gifts work together to achieve Jesus' vision of church unity?

In Church Matters, Gary Miller compares the current state of the church with God's original vision as seen in the Book of Acts. His examination of God's purpose for your congregation is a thought-provoking challenge to complacency and to the conflicts and struggles that keep us from reaching others with the Gospel.

Answers to Prayer

George Mueller

We all know God hears and answers prayer. But how many of us have launched out in faith as George Mueller did? Mueller obeyed the Lord's leading and began several orphans' homes, depending entirely on God to supply what was needed. He asked no one for money, but made his needs known to God. A challenging record of how God answered prayer.

Tell Me the Stories of Jesus Caleb Crider

This hardcover Bible story book is a beautiful way to help children learn to love Jesus. The seventy stories from the life of Jesus—each illustrated with a full color oil painting—are designed to be read aloud to children. Each story includes three questions that promote interaction about the story.

In a time when so many Bible story books include fictional details and cartoon-like pictures, Tell Me the Stories of Jesus will become a trusted family favorite. These simple stories and touching illustrations begin to form in children's minds the outlines of a picture that will be filled in as they grow—the picture of Jesus as a caring, understanding, and trustworthy Friend.
