to UCR

To the University of California — the student body, the faculty, the people of Riverside, the Riverside Chamber of Commerce, who with their gift of the bagpipes have helped start our traditions. To the Regents of the University of California, who have given us the opportunity for a liberal education — to everyone who has had a part in helping to establish UCR as the school it is and someday will be, the staff of the TARTAN dedicates this first edition.

President Sproul

ROBERT GORDON SPROUL,
President of the University of California

The 1955 edition of the UCR yearbook is for each of its readers a permanent tie with things past. It constitutes the final record of the successfully concluded under-graduate careers of the members of the class of 1955, and documents the contributions made by the first class to graduate from the new College of Letters and Science on the Riverside campus of the University of California in the initial development of that College. That these contributions show rich promise for the continued growth of the new College is to the credit of all students, and especially to the members of the senior class to whom we look for leadership in student affairs. It is my hope that the printed words and attendant pictures of the UCR yearbook will retain for you clearly, even through the haze of years that must necessarily accompany the attainment of other goals, a memory of at least a portion of your University life.

Robert G. Sproul

Provost Watkins

GORDON S. WATKINS,
Provost of the University of California
at Riverside

Publication of the 1955 TARTAN marks another delightful experience in the development of the College of Letters and Science on the Riverside Campus of our distinguished statewide University of California. Appearing for the first time under its permanent name, the TARTAN serves as an inspiring symbol of a deeply interested and seriously minded student body.

Every graduate of an American college or university recalls the pleasant associations and experiences which the yearbook of his alma mater made available to him. Likewise, the TARTAN will often remind the members of the Class of 1955 and our whole student body of delightful days profitably spent in a college in which education of genuine quality is the primary concern. You will cherish possession of this first edition of the TARTAN.

Fall at UCR. During an impressive dedication ceremony our school came of age, became recognized and accepted throughout the land. On that day, for the first time, we became a school.

The first week at UCR was a busy one, full of studies and the excitement of meeting new people and making new friends. The Hello Picnic was held on the Citrus Experiment Station grounds and was a very successful evening. The women were given a special treat by the AWS in the form of a tea and fashion show. There they saw the latest fashions modeled by some of their own classmates. The Hello Dance featured the music of Johnny Guin and his band, some tasty refreshments, and an atmosphere just right for saying hello!

Dedication Week

The campus of the University of California at Riverside was established in 1907, operating as a Citrus Experiment Station, for which it justly became world famous. During the spring semester of 1954 a new college of letters and science opened its doors and classes to students.

In October, 1954, ceremonies were held to dedicate the new college. Delegates from Newfoundland and Canada to Hawaii, from the ancient and hallowed institution of Harvard University to the very recently begun Long Beach State College came to wish our new school a long and honorable career in the field of liberal education.

Dedication

On Friday, October 22, 1954, the new College of Letters and Science on the Riverside Campus of the University of California was dedicated and officially took its place among the older institutions of the United States.

The ceremonies began with an impressive procession of the delegates sent from many universities and colleges to the gymnasium, already packed with students and Riverside townsmen. An invocation was given by the Reverend Edwin E. Reeves, Minister of the Riverside First Methodist Church, after which an address of welcome was given by Dr. Gordon S. Watkins, Provost of the Riverside campus.

Governor Goodwin J. Knight then officially presented the buildings to the University of California. In his presentation address he expressed profound faith in our future as pre-ordained to greatness in the field of education. Mr. Edward A. Dickinson, Chairman of the Board of Regents, accepted the buildings on behalf of the University.

ASUCR President, Charles Young.

Robert Nisbet, Dean of the College of Letters and Science at UCR.

Ceremony

Greetings to the delegates were then extended by Dr. George H. Armacost, President of the Western College Association; Dr. Robert A. Nisbet, Dean of the College, and Mr. Charles E. Young, President of the Associated Students.

Following these greetings the UCR Choral Society, under the direction of Dr. William H. Reynolds, sang selections from Bach's "Christmas Oratorio" and "The Messiah" by Handel.

The main addresses of the afternoon were delivered by Dr. Robert G. Sproul, President of the University of California, and by Dr. Deane W. Malott, President of Cornell University. President Sproul stated that he was quite pleased with the brilliant faculty which had been acquired for the new college, praised the energetic administration and expressed a supreme confidence in our future.

Ceremonies were brought to a close with a benediction by Reverend Reeves and the Choral Society's rendition of Purcell's "Ceremonial Music."

Deane Malott is the recipient of the first honorary degree conferred at UCR., following his dedication speech.

All-Cal Weekend

For the first time UCR attended the All-Cal weekend, thereby becoming a part of this growing university tradition. President Sproul founded All-Cal five years ago with UCLA and Berkeley acting as yearly alternate hosts.

Last November Berkeley welcomed the multitudes of converging students, including a delegation of some sixty bus-weary but excited Highlanders who were anticipating the All-University meeting, the football rally, the many dances and open-house parties, the UCLA-Cal game and the tour of San Francisco.

Orchesis

Orchesis, the first club to be officially recognized on the UCR campus, offered knowledge of dance techniques and choreography during its meetings of the past two semesters.

Orchesis retained open membership during both semesters, welcoming all women and men who wished to either participate or watch.

The activities included a program put on by Orchesis members and women from the modern dance classes and the sponsoring of a queen candidate for the Sophomore Royal Ball.

Mrs. Schlundt was the faculty advisor for both semesters.

The California Club is a University-wide organization devoted to the promotion and improvement of inter-campus relations. Taking its place with Berkeley, UCLA, Santa Barbara, Davis and the San Francisco Medical School, UCR formed its chapter this school year.

Four students were honored with charter membership in October 1954. The rest of the chapter members received their invitations to join the club in January of this year.

The club has invited the UCLA chapter to visit our campus on May 29. The rest of the year has been spent largely in organizing the club and getting it to working. We can look for big things from them next year.

World Affairs Club

One of the main functions of the World Affairs Club is to furnish an extra-curricular outlet for students interested in world issues. Membership is not confined to specific majors, the only requirement being that a member show an interest to participate in the informal discussions moderated by the two sponsors, Dr. Longaker and Dr. Garney.

Some of the topics that have been under consideration are the Red China issue, the French Government, and the Decline of Western Democracy. As an indication of the activity of this club, the majority of the delegates to the Model United Nations in San Francisco were selected from the World Affairs Club.

Its officers are: Chairman, Stephen Uhalley, Jr., Vice-Chairman, Larry Lane; Secretary-Treasurer, Janet Buvens; Membership Chairman, Ernest Lopez; and Reporter, Jim St. Clair.

French Club

The French Club was founded by a group of students with a desire to have a clearer understanding of the French language, customs and culture. The work has been regulated along those lines. Moreover, with Dr. Bradford Cook, one of UCR's French instructors, they have accomplished much in the obtaining in the goal that they have set for themselves.

Creative Writers Club

BILL MCGREGOR, Secretary-Treasurer
SUZANNE LOUCHARD, President

A group of students inclined toward writing and journalism and toward the study of literature started the Creative Writers Club during the fall semester. Their objective is two-fold: first, to study and constructively criticize each other's work and, in that way, serve as a writers' work-shop and, second, to objectively study previous works of art.

University Players

The University Players enjoyed a second successful season at UCR by having two difficult plays well received by the audiences. Under the skillful direction of Dr. W. M. Sharp the best was drawn out of both the play and the members of the cast.

The Players' first production was "The Second Shepherd's Play" which is an ancient relic of medieval England, with its lusty, sometimes coarse, overtones. It was produced with a bare stage and pantomime acting. To make the matter more difficult, the dialogue was written in verse.

The second play put on by this group was "The Herakles" by Euripides, a Greek tragedy translated by Dr. W. Arrowsmith, a member of the UCR Staff. This play could easily have developed into a mere melodrama but the cast did not overdo the acting and thus it remained a powerful play, one that will be long remembered by those who saw it.

It is UCR's aim to turn out well-rounded individuals. Therefore, students are afforded the opportunity to develop physically as well as intellectually. To attain this end the Physical Education Department has set up an intramural sports program which comes very close to, if it does not actually achieve, a universality in its scope.

In the program are included both team and single participation sports and co-educational sports. Also included are sports ranging in ruggedness from block-touch football to the relatively easier games such as ping-pong.

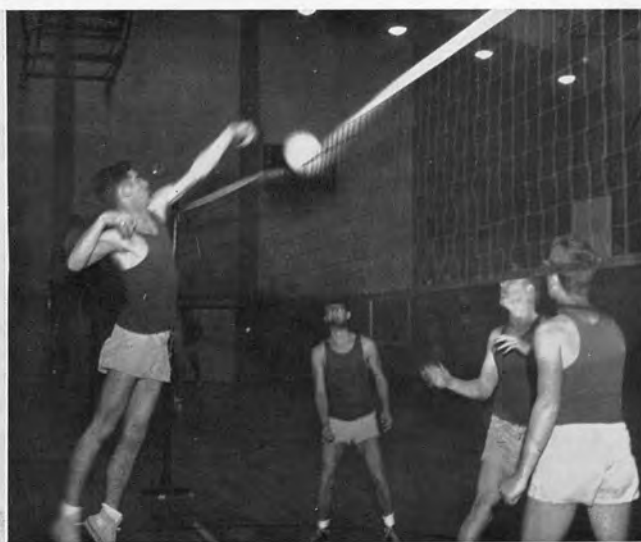

The program was rewarding twofold this year: first, it afforded a spectator enjoyment for the student-body; and second, it gave many students the opportunity of making new friends, of learning of the pleasures of team and competitive play.

Christmas

With boundless enthusiasm in what they were doing, UCR's University Players presented the "Second Shepherd's Play," a lusty member of a fourteenth century passion cycle. The conditions under which the play was presented were difficult for the players to surmount. For one thing no props were used and, secondly, all dialogue was in verse form.

However the production played extremely well and, under the skillful guidance of their director, Dr. William Sharp, it was enthusiastically received.

A greater part of the play was a farce which whipped itself into a bombastic frenzy. A sudden break from the farcical overacting into near underplaying for the more serious nativity scene, the play ended on a jubilant note as the three shepherds realized that the Savior had come.

A. D. L. Committee

The Los Angeles Piano Quartet presented their program of chamber music one evening at UCR.

In keeping with the UCR ideal of a liberal education for each student, the arts, drama, and lectures program was designed to be both stimulating and entertaining.

A great deal of planning and hard work insured that each event would appeal to the majority of students; our noon music, movies, art exhibits, lectures on numerous topics, concerts, and plays were all of the highest character.

One of the greatest accomplishments of the ADL Committee was that seldom did it venture off the campus in its search for talent to sponsor in its activities. Both the committee and the wonderful participants are to be highly commended.

Christmas Formal

Christmas comes to UCR

"Winter Wonderland" was the theme of our first Christmas formal. Soft lighting, a silver-gleaming tree and darkened holly set the mood of a snow-lit evening, a winter dusk.

The swirling and turning couples, as they wheeled around and about the tree, seemed as snow flakes dancing to the music of the Chinook wind. The gay formals and white dinner jackets of the couples seated about the room looked like ice crystals frozen to branches and reflecting the multi-colors of the dimly lit afternoon.

The orchestra music of the wind ceased, and no longer was there any light to shine upon the dazzling crystals nor could the swirling snow be seen. For the illusion of the evening had ended and, as had the dance, become void of life. All that is left are unforgettable memories.

Happy

Students meet President Sproul.

We celebrate our birthday informally . . .

Birthday

UCR was honored by the presence of President Sproul on its first birthday. Celebrations began with an assembly in the gym. A speech was given by the president and the UCR birthday cake was brought in. The single candle was lit, and we were officially one year old.

In the evening President Sproul presided at a birthday dinner held at the Mission Inn. On this occasion Mrs. Shirley Wright, our first graduate, was presented her BA degree by the president.

On his return to the University each student had the chance to meet the president and his wife at a reception in the dance room. At the end of a pleasant evening, a tired one-year-old went home.

Charter Day

Dr. Stanley discusses his lecture for Charter day with UCR students.

For the first time UCR joined with the other campus members of the University of California in celebrating the University's birthday. Professor Wendell M. Stanley, Director of the Virus Laboratory of the Berkeley Campus, journeyed down to participate in the birthday ceremonies. Afternoon classes were dismissed for the attendance of these ceremonies.

Professor Stanley's topic of discussion was the difference between organic and inorganic viruses. Also at this ceremony UCR received what can only be tritely termed as "fabulous" news in the financial field. We learned that our campus had been allotted one million dollars for the erection of the proposed women's dormitory.

Spring at UCR. For the first time UCR will graduate students in a formal ceremony. The first of its kind, it marks the beginning of a new era, the era of UCR.

Scots on

The French Line

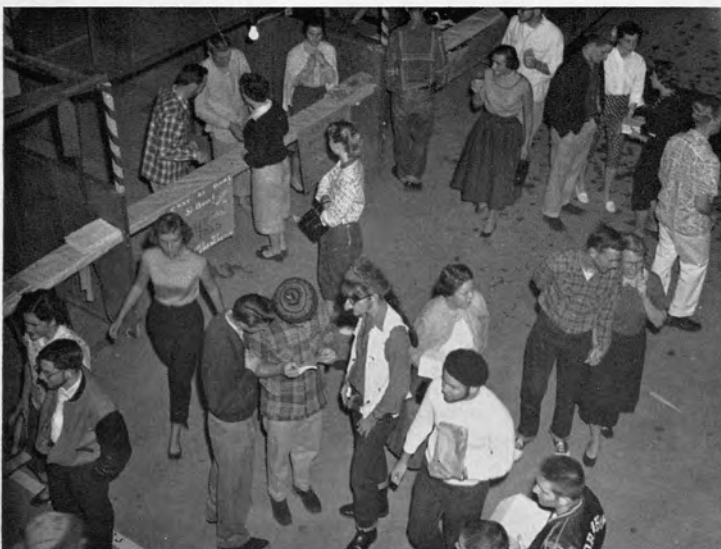

The mark of a true university is always a "scrounge day," when all students gleefully shuck sartorial inhibitions and come to school dressed to show the "real them."

UCR's "scrounge day" was an odd one, with odd people doing odd things at odd places on odd and even hours. There were violent games wherein students were much splattered; there was a garter tossing booth, a chicken dispensing booth and a "hit-your-class-officers-in-the-face-with-a-wet-sponge" booth. The day was climaxed with a dance complete with a Scottish marching band.

Spring

Larry Gavin as tragic figure, Herakles.

Theatrical policy at UCR seems to be to select an impossible play, cast it with a group of students who can not possibly put it on, and then produce it. At least this is what appears to have been done for the Spring Play, and to have been done with only two months' rehearsal time.

The Spring Play, "The Herakles" by Euripides, is a home-grown tragedy, translated and directed by our faculty and carried out by our students. Received favorably during all of its four night stand, it is a play that will be long remembered.

Seniors

Although unable to take an active part in sponsoring school activities on campus due to its small membership (about thirty), the Seniors were by no means an inactive group. In government they gave the ASUCR its President, Secretary and, first semester, its Cub Editor. They took an active part in writing the school constitution even though this body of laws will not apply to them.

While writing their senior thesis this group managed to keep a grade point average well above the norm. UCR can take a genuine pride in its graduating Seniors and to the Senior Class as a whole.

Juniors

One of the Junior Class' best achievements, of the many things which they have accomplished throughout the year, is the sponsoring of the Scots-on-the-Rocks Day at UCR. The idea was taken in embryonic form from the minds of a few of the class' more enterprising members, seized upon by the rest of the group and shaped into final form through the enthusiasm of the Junior Class and under the capable leadership of its officers until it achieved its final height of universal frivolity and fun which could be enjoyed by all.

The officers with which the Junior Class finished out the school year are as follows: Pete Van Vechten, President; D. Miller, Vice-President; M. Ackerman, Secretary; R. Lackey, Treasurer; and Bill Barnett as Junior Class Representative of the Executive Council. These men capably guided the class through the administrative pitfalls which can and do arise in a normal school year, and accomplished a tremendous amount of work for the limited manpower which they had.

Sophomores

Leading the Sophomore Class first semester was Al Bielskis as president, George Harper in the "veep" position, Kay Gaukler as secretary, and Doug Mumma the Sophomore Class representative to the Executive Council. Changes in class status, and resignations due to heavy work schedules, found new blood in the second semester leadership positions. Bob Wallace was elected president, with Don Bublitz holding the vice-president's job, and Ken Lynch representing the class in the Council.

One of the bright dates on the year's social calendar was the Sophomores' Royal Ball. The week preceding the Ball found the various clubs on campus collecting votes for their respective candidates in the big queen race. At the ball Judy Ford was crowned queen. The basketball team elected Bob Porter as king.

Freshmen

It took the Freshmen one semester to get fully organized, but when they did they shifted into high gear and, under the able leadership of their class officers, really started rolling. They accomplished many things: in December they sponsored a basketball dance; in March a student directory sale — blue books containing the names, addresses and phone numbers of every student on campus; a penny pitching booth for Scots-on-the-Rocks Day; in April a box lunch social; and in May a Luau — incidentally, one of the most successful social events of the year.

The Freshmen elected their officers at the start of the school year and, without exception, they remained in office throughout the second semester. They were as follows: Don Shields, President; Lynn Hale, Vice-President; Sally Hurst, Secretary; Paddy Taber, Treasurer; and Bill Meriwether as Freshman Representative to the Executive Council.
