SOMEWHERE IN BETWEEN: Work and Play

Somewhere in between the rigors of classes, homework, campus organizations, and student participation courses that require far more hours than ever anticipated, students must find time to play and enjoy downtime. UCI champions activities that provide social interactions among all students and opportunities to meet fellow Anteaters from across the globe. OctoberFest and ReggaeFest, both hosted by Associated Students UCI, are among such popular venues. With live entertainment and refreshments—all free—at these events, students can get a little relief from stress, make new friends, and smile for an Anthology photographer.

...Today's STUDENT and Tomorrow's TEACHER...

"The future of the world is in my classroom today, a future with the potential for good or bad.... Several future presidents are learning from me today; so are the great writers of the next decades, and so are all the so-called ordinary people who will make the decisions in a democracy. I must never forget these same young people could be the thieves and murderers of the future. Only a teacher? Thank God I have a calling to the greatest profession of all! I must be vigilant every day, lest I lose one fragile opportunity to improve tomorrow."

—Ivan Welton Fitzwater

In today's highly competitive employment market, a bachelor's degree may no longer provide many students with their desired access to rungs that are high on the corporate ladder. Students must weigh their options and choose between the delayed benefits afforded by a graduate degree and the gratification of employment immediately following graduation. Somewhere in between the myriad thoughts about these options, students can take resolve in knowing that their extraordinary UCI undergraduate education will help propel them along whatever path they select.

...UCI and Points Beyond Campus...

University life yields a sense of place, structure and security. Students' goals are broadly outlined in syllabi, various schools' degree requirements, and the constitutions and by-laws of campus organizations. Familiar faces pass us on Ring Road on familiar days and at familiar times.

In a few short years that sense of purpose and sense of collegial harmony that motivates students through an undergraduate education evaporates with the presentation of a diploma, and it's time to move beyond campus life. Points beyond campus force graduates to set new goals, walk alongside people with dissimilar strides, dissimilar clothing, dissimilar goals. Somewhere in Between ... Home and the Real World.

Once upon a time Peter the Anteater enjoyed the comforts of a cozy home in Whittier, Calif. Dad did his laundry and cooked his meals. Aunt Em took him shopping for new clothes, a cell phone, and newer-model used car. Peter expected such contributions to his well-being. In return and to please his loving family, Peter studied hard and earned a degree from UCI. Dad and Aunt Em congratulated him heartily at commencement and handed him a new set of luggage—he'd need it to pack his things and head for Texas where he'd have his first real job. Peter is now hunting his own ants—somewhere in between oil fields and miles and miles of cow pasture. Thankfully, Texas has lots of ants—fire ants—and Peter is grateful for the survival skills he acquired as a campus resident and Irvine apartment dweller.

As UCI climbs the ladder in reputation, an increasing number of applicants are admitted every year. A record-breaking 21,885 students entered UCI this fall, indicating an increase of 8.1 percent from last year.

As a result, UCI faces inevitable challenges, such as limited parking and cramped freshmen who are tripled in a room made for two. With that, UCI has been working hard to accommodate its growing population by building new dorms and classroom facilities.

Like many other universities, UCI promises on-campus housing to all freshmen. UCI recently added four new residence halls in Middle Earth as well as in Mesa Court. Mesa Court is expecting to open six more halls by next Fall. These new halls will house many more residents than before. Previously, UCI constructed halls to house approximately 45 residents each, not including the extra spaces that were created in the study lounges. Now, the new halls will comfortably house more than 60 residents.

UCI has also recently opened the Multipurpose Science and Technology Building by the Physical Sciences area. The new Multipurpose Academic and Administration Building provides faculty and staff with special facilities.

Also, the new seven-level, 554,000-sq.ft. parking structure has opened additional parking spaces throughout the University. Although it is still under construction, students have been taking advantage of the new structure. Parking is now better than before, but students who buy parking permits are seeing a dramatic increase in parking fees. The quarterly fee for a parking permit is now $96 which is $15 more than last year. The cost for an annual permit has similarly increased from $216 to $258.

The new development at UCI is reaping tremendous benefits, but not without a price to pay.

SHOW ME THE MONEY!

Story By: Adrian Salamanca

Somewhere in between academic and social life, UCI students pursue jobs for several reasons. In a fast-paced society where competition becomes the ultimate decision maker of "who-gets-what," one must either rejoice for being hired or accept the agony of rejection.

There are a variety of jobs to choose from. In selecting a job, whether it be part-time or full-time, UCI students must consider several factors as they begin job hunting. Unanimously, we all have to find flexible hours to balance our studies and social lives. After all, academics is the primary reason why we are in college. At the same time, we would go completely insane if we had no friends to keep us happy. As an added bonus, a job that can at least rake in some dollar bills would be nice. Let's face it, isn't that why we want the job? With moolah, we can buy that new car, get our brothers and sisters Christmas gifts, deposit it into our savings account, or better yet, pay off our student loans.

So what kinds of employment do UCI students take advantage of? Most students have experience working off-campus. One of the places students find employment off-campus is at the University Town Center – just a hop and a skip across the bridge over Campus Drive. The University Town Center has a variety of positions to choose from, such as florist, sales clerk at Warehouse or host at Denny's.

Although many students find jobs off-campus, numerous students are employed by Orange County's second largest employer, UCI. On-campus jobs have definite advantages. No more filling up your gas tank to drive to work. Plus, you could have your friends stop by to say, "What's up?" Some of these jobs include receptionists at Health Education, operations crew in the UCI Student Center, UCI Bookstore cashier or customer service representatives, UCI Library assistants, and callers at the Telephone Outreach Program (TOP). Each of these jobs require different skills. For instance, the operations crew is responsible for setting up conferences, meetings and classes in the Student Center. The audio/visual crew sets up on Ring Road, the Student Center Terrace and the Cross Cultural Center.

Part-time or full-time employment is not unusual among UCI students. In fact, it's beneficial for experience and growth. Trying out different jobs help us to decide which occupations interest us and may even lead us to our future careers. Whether it be taking care of children, tutoring children, being a host at a restaurant, telemarketing, or being the typical clerical trainee, workers look forward to the sweet sound of "cha-ching" and the scent of fresh greenbacks. How they earn it is up to them.

One of UCI's most distinguishing features is its diversity of students. According to recent statistics, the UCI student population is made up of 2 percent African American, .4 percent American Indian, 51.6 percent Asian/Pacific Islander, 11 percent Chicano/Latino, 22.6 percent White, 5.7 percent designated "Other", and 6.7 percent not stated.

The growth of the student population is adding to the ethnic diversity of the campus. The enrollment of all ethnic groups increased from last year. The largest increases from last year were from the Black/African American population, which increased 22 percent. The Chicano population increased 18.3 percent and the Native American population increased 18.1 percent.

UCI recognizes the diversity of the student population and the importance culture plays in a person's life. Walking along Ring Road, numerous ethnic and religious clubs decorate the school. These clubs tie people of common backgrounds together and allow students to feel at home, even when they may be miles away from their families.

Although diversity brings a richness of culture into the school, it also causes problems. Over the years, UCI, along with many other colleges throughout the nation, has had to raise controversial issues dealing with ethnicity and religion. Should ethnicity play a factor in college admissions? How important is it to have a diverse student body?

SP-1 and SP-2, legislations that long have been debated, limit admissions to merit. SP-1 "eliminates the consideration of race and gender in the admissions process," while SP-2 states in part that the "University of California shall not use race, religion, sex, color, ethnicity or national origin as criteria in its employment and contracting practices." Last year, UC schools accepted RE-28, which states that the UC will treat students equally without regard to their race, sex or ethnicity in accordance with Article 1, Section 31 of the California Constitution, or more commonly known as proposition 209.

Cultural awareness has obvious benefits, especially in such a diverse university as UCI. However, the benefits and drawbacks of taking ethnicity into consideration in admissions will continue to be an issue of debate.

The Cross Cultural Center (CCC) plans programs, activities and services to assist the university in supporting the personal, social, cultural and academic needs of UCI's diverse students. It is open to all students interested in exploring their own or other cultures.

Every year, the Cross Cultural Center organizes the Rainbow Festival to address topics of racial and ethnic diversity. The festival involves a cultural fair and an art and essay contest. Performers are on hand to entertain students on their way to and from classes.

A LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

Story By: Lillian Ku

Walking around the UCI campus, one can only begin to imagine the vast diversity of aspirations and career goals of the student population. Approximately 21,000 students are spread out over 50 majors and 45 minors.

From computer science to drama, UCI offers a wide variety of majors and minors. In fact, students are often interested in multiple areas. It is not rare to find a student seeking an additional major or minor.

Unfortunately, students do not always have a choice in the classes they are required to take. For example, students of the School of Humanities are required to reach a certain level of proficiency in a foreign language. The School of Social Sciences requires one quarter of a computer course. In addition, the University requires all students to take a series of classes from various areas to fulfill breadth requirements. Thus, one who comes into UCI as a dance major can look forward to taking Science and English classes in addition to dance classes. Although students may be disappointed in having to take courses they have always wanted to avoid, these requirements allow opportunities to explore areas they may not have thought of as interests.

Outside of class, there are endless opportunities to get involved in academic clubs and organizations. These groups often help students achieve future career goals. Also, UCI's on-campus Arroyo Vista housing offers academic theme houses that encourage residents to have stimulating conversations in their living environments.

Last year, UCI added two new majors to the School of Biological Sciences: Biochemistry & Molecular Biology and Neurobiology. European Studies was also added as a new major to the School of Humanities. This year, Chicano/Latino Studies is a new major in the School of Social Sciences.

In the years to come, UCI will be looking forward to opening a UCI Law School, School of Design, and a few additional majors under the School of Engineering.

As the university continues to grow in population and prestige, we will continue to see new majors and minors sprouting up within the schools. During these years of career preparation, the university does its best to offer an environment of exploration to its students.

TIME TO GET IN SHAPE

Story By: Jay Raval

Whether it's studying for an exam, finding parking space, or making it to work on time, being a student can be very stressful. A great solution to this problem is the new Anteater Recreation Center, or the "ARC" for short.

Completed in January 2000, the ARC is the University's newest recreation center. At a cost of $32 million, the 90,000 sq.ft. recreation center is in a league of its own. Students can enjoy a wide variety of activities such as basketball, swimming, badminton, racquetball, volleyball, rock climbing, table tennis and more. The ARC also organizes club sports and intramural sports, encouraging competition and interaction. If conventional sports aren't your thing, the ARC also offers a wide variety of specialty classes. Students can learn how to dance, sail, kickbox or fence. The opportunities to relax, get in shape and learn something new at the ARC are endless.

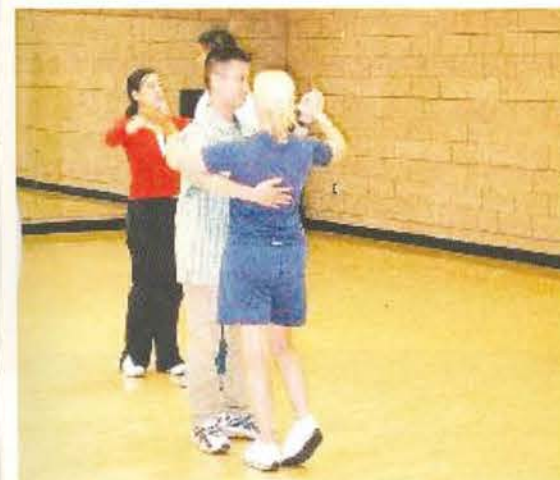

Outside of being a great place to exercise, the ARC adds much to the University. The ARC employs more than 150 students all year round. It is always in need of facility staff, referees, lifeguards and instructors. Moreover, the ARC has become a new meeting place for students. With large glass windows, high ceilings and the newest fitness equipment, the ARC promotes interaction and congregation. According to Jill Schindele, Director of Campus Recreation, "The University has made a strong commitment to meeting students' needs by developing a center that promotes engagement, interaction, health and happiness."

The ARC is free to all UCI students. Membership to the ARC is also available to non-UCI students who would also like to enjoy the facilities.

So the next time you're feeling stressed out and in need of a break, try the ARC. You just might find what you are looking for.

UCI'S HIDDEN TREASURES

Story By: Doan Bui

As a relatively new university, UCI's expansion has increased tremendously within the past thirty five years since its opening. Among the many beautiful areas outside of the main UC Irvine campus are the UCI Medical Center in Orange, the Observatory, the Arboretum and the Ecological Reserve — all contribute to UCI's growth into one of the nations is most reputable public universities.

Built in the mid 1970s, the UCI Medical Center is known for its specialized care and ground-breaking research. The UCI Medical Center is also home to Orange County's only nationally designated comprehensive cancer center. As a result, UCI has one of the nation's best hospitals for gynecological care. Dr. Thomas Garite, Chair of UCI Medical Center's Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology adds, "Everyday I see breakthroughs in patient care and the development of practices that are not occurring anywhere else." This shows how crucial and important UCIMC's role is not only to UCI, but also to the community.

About a mile from UCI is the UCI Arboretum. The area was originally used as an experimental garden and nursery for UCI landscape materials. Since then, it has gained more than 200 endangered species. It also shelters a gene bank to preserve rare and important plant genes. This beautiful area allows for many research advancements and environmental preservation opportunities.

On the outskirts of the campus lies the Observatory. With the numerous portable telescopes, one of which is a large computer-controlled telescope, visitors can view astronomical objects such as planets, star clusters, planetary nebulae and galaxies. Currently, the Department of Physics and Astronomy, namely the course Observational Astronomy, requires students to visit the observatory. Additionally, UCI's Astronomy Club meets there every other week to explore the night sky using these telescopes.

Located between the San Joaquin Hills Transportation Corridor and the UCI campus is the 60-acre Ecological Reserve. This reserve consists of patches of coastal sage scrub surrounded by grasslands and is home to a number of endangered or threatened plant and animal species. They are used extensively and exclusively for teaching and research.

Somewhere in between various landmarks of the academically-renowned UCI campus lie its hidden treasures. Although these may not be close to the heart of the campus, they are essential in giving UCI its fame.

CROSSING COUNTY LINES

Story By: Adrian Salamanca

"Where do you want to go this weekend?" Do you ever find yourself asking this question on the weekends after a long week of school, just so you can get away from all the ruckus? Living in Orange County offers a variety of locations to visit, but where should you go when you've visited them all before? Have you ever stopped to ponder what's beyond the borders of Orange County? UCI students crossing in and out of the county limits often find that there are many exciting places to go.

In the west of Orange County lie the popular west coast beaches, which are familiar to most students. Swimming, catching some R&R, body boarding, surfing, or taking nice long walks across the shoreline are perfect recreational activities, especially when the heat of the summer hits. While not crossing the county line during such beach visits, you can always rent a boat to go out to sea, isolate yourself from civilization, and distance yourself from OC.

Where can you go for high-profile excitement? Our neighboring metropolis of Southern California, Los Angeles, is home to the stars. The countless cafes, shops and clubs render endless activities. Working our way northeast of SoCal are the beautiful mountains of San Bernardino. Despite the harsh, bitter weather that comes with the winter season, the environment of Lake Arrowhead and Big Bear Lake provide ideal winter activities. After a long day of skiing and snowboarding, how about a cup of hot chocolate with marshmallows in front of a warm fireplace?

If you want to go even farther out, you can always take a road trip to Laughlin or Las Vegas. If you're feeling lucky, gambling is the way to go. Slot machines are typical for the inexperienced gambler — no waiting for the cards to be dealt and no competition with other gamblers. When you get tired of the slot machines, there are a variety of casino tables with games such as black jack, poker and roulette. Just take your pick.

You can also take a road trip to our southern neighbor, San Diego, or even farther south, crossing the Mexican border to Tijuana. Whether it's excitement you're looking for, fine dining with that special someone, or just chilling out with your buds, don't be afraid to explore what the rest of Southern California and its close neighbors have to offer. It is one adventure after another.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

Story By: Adrian Salamanca

"Go 'Eaters!!! ZOT!!!" What comes to mind when you hear these words? To the typical person, it may mean nothing, but to UCI students, it's more than just a battle cry.

As you casually walk down Ring Road to your next class, you see hundreds of T-shirts and sweatshirts displaying the UC Irvine insignia in blue and yellow. You think to yourself, "I want one!" Then you stop and suddenly remember having read somewhere that UCI has been ranked as one of the top 10 public national universities for the past two years. "Wow!" you exclaim as the pride and excitement wells up inside you. There's no surprise — you have awakened the school spirit within you.

Displaying support for UCI is the best thing any "anteater" can do, bragging about getting a great education in one of the top public universities in the nation. But even little things like wearing UCI apparel or becoming one of the CIA (Completely Insane Anteaters) hollering, "GO EATERS!" during a basketball game, indicates how much school spirit you can have. The ongoing research programs, technological advancements and renowned sports teams also contribute to UCI's school pride.

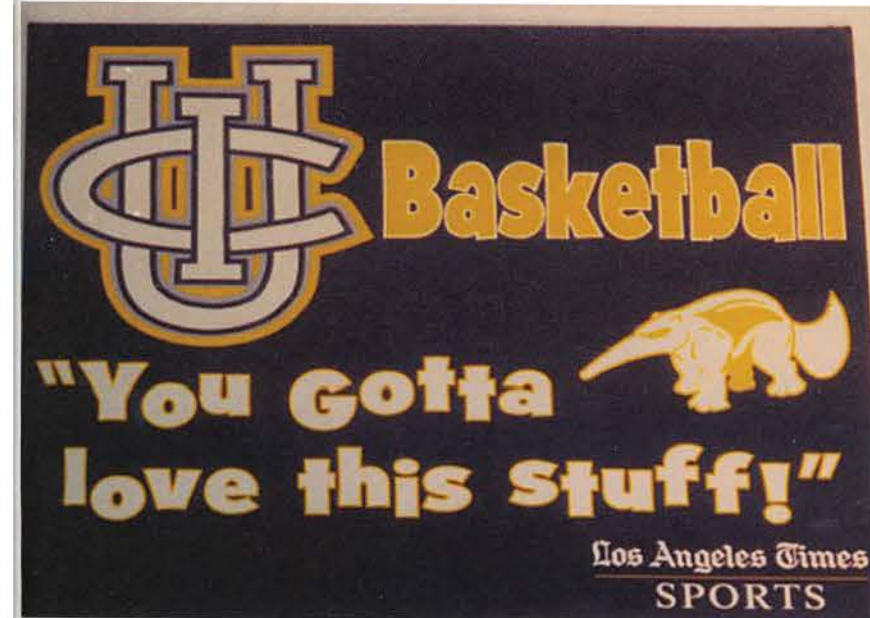

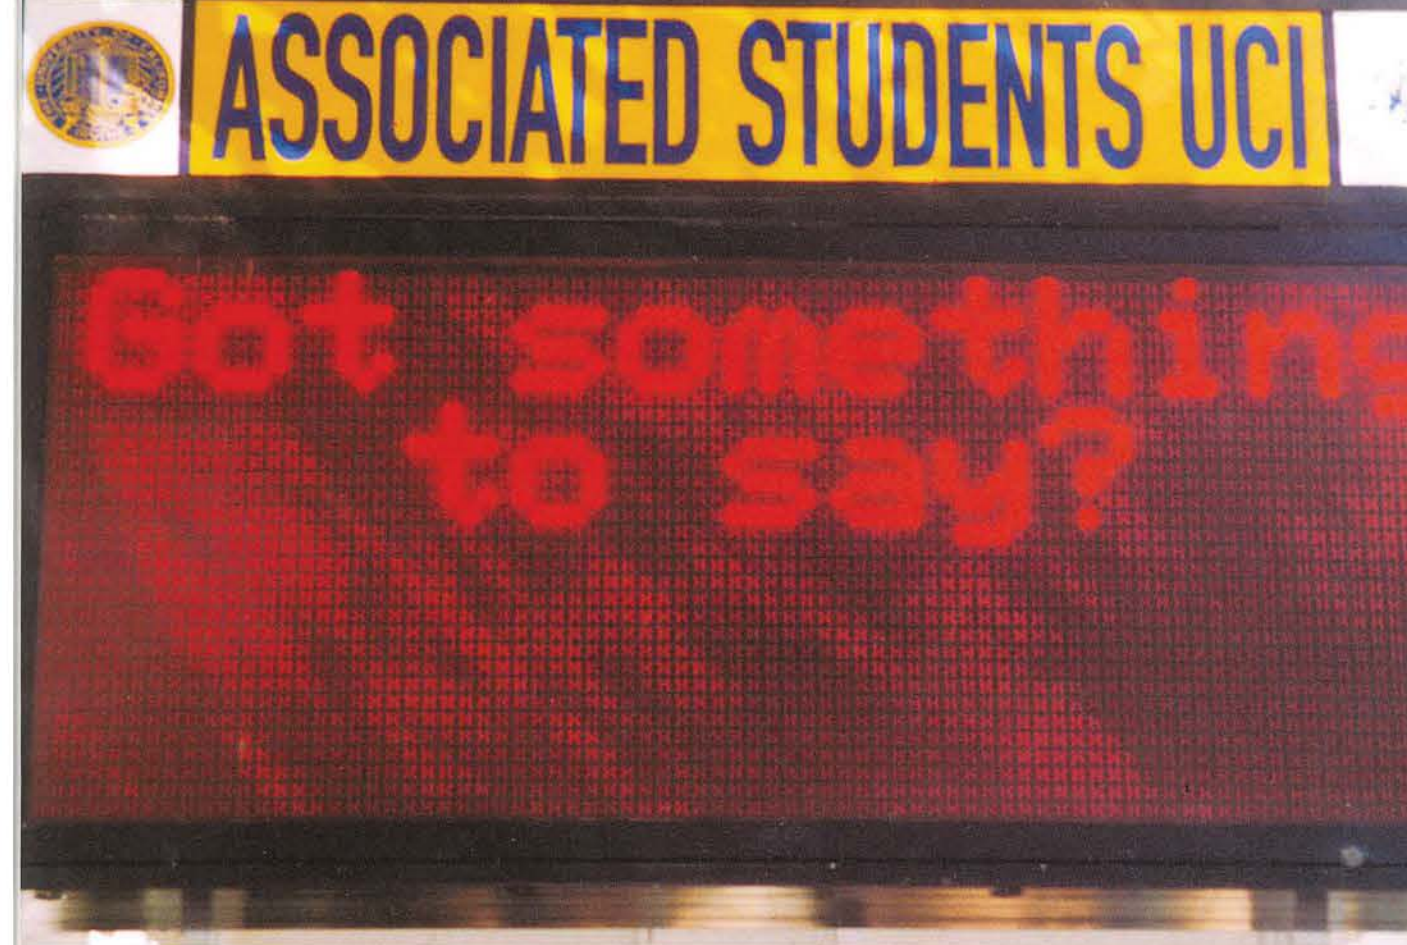

The marquee located in the Student Center informs students about various campus activities and reflects the numerous opportunities UCI has to offer its students. The endless construction sites suggest our never-ending expansion, such as the Mesa Court Residence expansion, and the largest gym on the west coast, the ARC. America's favorite pastime, baseball, is making its comeback with a new UCI baseball team as well as a new stadium. Somewhere in between this community growth lies the pride of every anteater.

The fact that UCI is such a young university that has achieved a high level of excellence has triggered deep pride for students. We should all display our school spirit in one form or another — academically by maintaining a tradition of excellence, socially by cheering for our sports teams, and even physically by wearing UCI apparel.

CAMPUS UNITES AFTER TRAGEDY

Story By: Jay Raval

On the morning of September 11, 2001, terrorists hijacked four American jetliners and intentionally crashed two of the jetliners into the Twin Towers of the World Trade Center in New York City, one into the Pentagon in Washington D.C., and one into a field near a small town in Pennsylvania. These attacks killed thousands of Americans and shocked the entire nation.

After the intense shock of these events subsided, the UCI community gathered to give aid and support the victims of these events. Students, faculty and staff gathered by the hundreds outside the UCI Medical Center to donate blood. Support was so strong that most emergency blood drives met their demands for blood within only a few days.

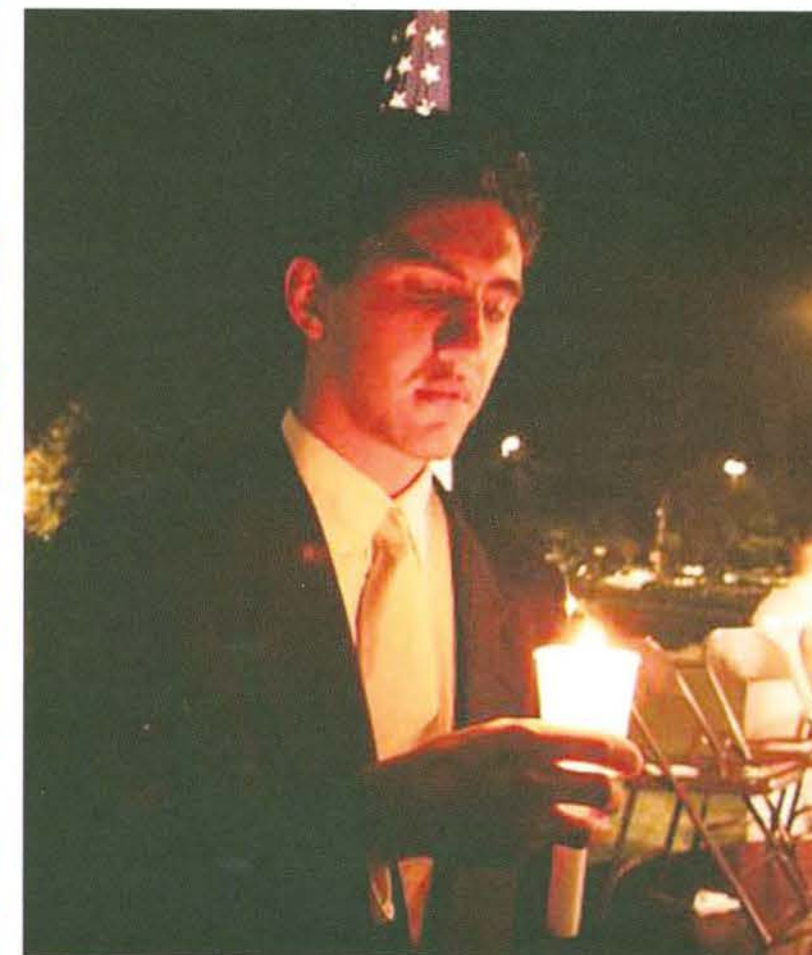

On Friday, September 14, a UCI memorial service was held in Aldrich Park. More than 1,900 people attended the service. One of the many people who spoke to the crowd was Chancellor Ralph Cicerone. He offered many kind words of peace and understanding as he urged all members of the UCI community to console and support each other.

On the evening of September 19, a student-sponsored, two-hour candlelight vigil took place on campus. The event was marked by the lighting of hundreds of candles by students and other members of the UCI community as an expression of sympathy and condolence. In addition to the candles, banners that were signed by students were raised as a symbol of the University's unity and patriotism in spite of its diversity.

The events of September 11, 2001, were not attacks against skyscrapers and office buildings, but rather attacks against humanity and democracy. Although none of the terrorist attacks occurred in California, the UCI community responded by uniting all people and by promoting peace.

BEYOND THE CLASSROOM

Story By: Jay Raval

One of the many things that makes UCI great is office hours. Now, I know you're probably saying, "No Way," but just stop and think about it. Every week, professors and teaching assistants schedule time out of their busy days to answer questions, discuss grades or just hang out with interested students. The beauty of such a simple activity is amazing.

With the university's growing numbers, interaction between students and instructors can often become difficult. While communication is essential and beneficial to everyone, it is also difficult to maintain. Students can gain valuable insights into the way a class is taught, and attain important hints about the class. Instructors can obtain information on how the class is perceived, and how to better meet the students' needs.

Many classes are taught in large lecture halls with hundreds of students. In these situations, direct contact with professors is often hard to obtain. Many students forget that instructors are people, too, and that they have families, hobbies and goals, which make them unique individuals, but also take up time. We are especially lucky at UCI because every professor has a deep commitment to sharing his or her rich knowledge in a particular academic field with students, and does so through these office hours.

An excellent way to get to know an instructor and at the same time receive help in a class is to create a strong social relationship with your professor. Taking a professor out to lunch or for a drink can create a friendlier, educational atmosphere. Just make sure you don't do something embarrassing, like forgetting to pick up the bill.

In fact, University Studies 1, a course for undeclared first-year students, requires students to make a lunch date with a professor of his or her choice. This allows the students to have a conversation with their professors. In addition, the Campuswide Honors Program encourages students to invite professors to their weekly Coffee Hours. This gives students a chance to inquire about personal advising or even future research opportunities.

Getting to know a professor or teaching assistant really should be a requirement for graduation. College isn't about memorizing facts and figures, but rather learning about interesting ideas. Communication between students and instructors promotes this ideal and perpetuates an educational environment that is fitting of UCI's stature as a university.

This season the cross country team ran straight to victory. The UC I women's cross-country team finished seventh of 23 teams in the NCAA Western Regional at Tucson, Arizona, the highest finish in the Big West Conference. Trained by longtime coach Vince O'Boyle, they have been adding to their successful reputation. O'Boyle's women's teams at UCI has finished in the conference's top two spots 18 of his 20 seasons, while the men's program has accomplished the same feat 11 times during his tenure. The men had a successful season as well, with quite a few runners placing within the top 100 spots at the NCAA's. The season held many personal records. Coach Vince O'Boyle and the team members are excited about the upcoming track season and what profits this talented team will produce.

Men's Basketball

The Bren Events Center echoes with the sounds of cheering fans and cries of "Zot! Zot! Zot!" as the winning basket is scored. It is another typical Thursday night for UC Irvine Men's Basketball. Returning players this year include Adam Parada, Stanislav Zuzak, and of course, senior Jerry Green, who still holds his spot as Irvine's leading scorer. Combining new players and returning talent, fifth-year coach Pat Douglass expected great things from this talented team. Early in the season the Anteaters defeated St. Mary's College, Cal. State Bakersfield, and Pepperdine. Also, the fans witnessed a very exciting game against Utah, with UCI coming out ahead in the last few seconds. Women's Basketball

Teamwork is always a key factor when it comes to success in team sports. This was definitely the main reason for the outstanding year in women's basketball. While many players returned, new talent also helped invigorate the program. Combining dedication with hard work the Anteaters were able to keep playing strong throughout the many months of long practices, rough schedules, and the other stresses of being a college athlete. With the Big West conference championships coming into view, Junior Guard Wendy Gabbe states: "Shaking off our preseason woes, our focus becomes quite clear; we must begin our quest for the conference championship. However, such a goal cannot be taken lightly. We realized that we must step up to the challenge, and utilize our abilities and practice time to improve each and every day." A positive attitude, such as this one, is an important ingredient for success.

Women's Volleyball

Fall 2001 was a challenging season for the women's volleyball team. Even though the team did not experience it's desired season record, the coaches and players kept spirit, teamwork, and enthusiasm at a maximum level. Whether they won or lost, the women worked hard and displayed immense teamwork and skill at their game. Ending the season on a positive note, they prevailed against Idaho and also had numerous athletes nominated to the All Academic Conference team. Men's Crew

Head Coach
Duvall Hecht

The men's crew team has shown outstanding skill and teamwork this year that has led to many top performances. The crew program at UCI was founded in 1965, the year the university opened, by Duvall Hecht who won an Olympic gold medal in 1956 as a member of the United States' rowing team. The rowing program recently received the largest donation in UCI athletics history from CEO Henry Nicholas of Irvine's Broadband company, a gift that will help contribute to the success of the team.

Women's Crew

The women's crew team has had yet another great year. This year they visited many different lakes to compete against other very competitive schools. The crew team has gained many new members who have worked to create a great novice team. Their success was largely the result of the leadership skills shown by freshman Camron Yahr. Among the varsity team Lorna Leopold was also an outstanding leader. Coach Carrie Chamberlain says that, "the team had a wonderful season due to their hard work and dedication to the sport of rowing."

Swimming and Diving

Change for this year's swimmers and divers has brought forth many rewards. Boasting top recruits and equally talented returning members, the men's and women's teams alike are challenging the schools in the Big West Conference. Head Coach Charlie Schober and returning Assistant Coach Cory Hills led this dynamic team to success. In dual meets this year, the men finished on top with a 12-7 record, the first time since 1988 that they have had a winning record. Also in dual meet action, the ladies team completed their season with a win-loss record of 11-11. Both teams were outstanding in Long Beach at the Big West Conference Championship. UCI finished 3rd in both the women's and the men's competition, scoring significantly more points than last year. Also, phenomenal milestones were reached as fifteen school records were shattered - thirteen by the women and two by the men. Last year's divers won three of the four championship spots at the conference meet. This year their goals included continued dominance of the Big West Conference, and qualifying at least two men and two women for the NCAAs in March. Sophomore Allison Magda's win in the women's 3-meter diving along with freshman Alexis Sheridan's come-from-behind win in the women's 1650 Freestyle continued the streak of UCI swimmers and divers winning at least one individual conference championship event each year beginning with 1997.

Men's Tennis

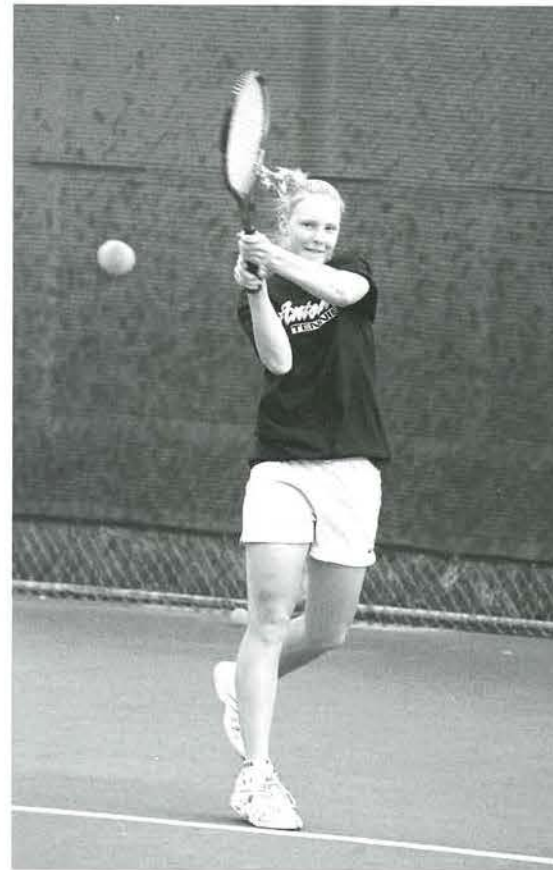

The men's tennis team, although they had a tough start, came through with a fantastic season. The biggest win for the Anteaters was the match against Yale when the 'Eaters won by the largest margin ever in the history of tennis. Head Coach Steve Clark said, "The team this year started off a little rocky, but in the end the guys really pulled together and found the spirit to go and win the conference championship. The star player, sophomore Jonathan Endrikat, is able to hit the tennis ball with enough force to knock his opponent down."

They first traveled to Los Angeles to play against the nationally-ranked UCLA team. The Anteaters have defeated schools such as Cal Poly San Luis Obispo and UC Santa Barbara. They worked hard to improve their skills during competition and all hope to beat other Big West teams and eventually take the conference title. Their positive attitudes in practice will make their goals a reality.

Baseball

Long awaited and greatly missed, the great American pastime is back in Irvine! Finally we see the return of baseball, with many top athletes recruited from near and far. In January the season started off with a game against University of San Diego, the first baseball game since 1992 when it was taken away because due to budget reasons. Prior to 1992, baseball at UCI had been no stranger, having been around for 32 years before that. Head coach John Savage is joined by assistant coaches Jason Gill and Pat Shine who are all optimistic and excited about the coming season. Savage was pitching coach and recruiting coordinator at the University of Southern California from 1996-2000 prior to accepting the UC Irvine position. For the first game, Anteater stadium was packed to the brim with eager fans awaiting the starting pitch. The game was fast paced and full of excitement and performed in front of a wildly enthusiastic crowd. So far, the team has edged out UCLA, Brigham Young University, and University of Pepperdine. The team boasts many excellent players, many who were sought by professional baseball teams, but who chose to complete their educations before concentrating on sports careers.

Coach Paul Smolinski's men's golf team had outstanding results this year. They collectively finished 11th in the PING-Arizona Intercollegiate tournament at The Raven Sabino Springs Golf Club in Tucson. Junior Mike Lavery finished 13th and junior Jeff Coburn placed 42nd. UC Irvine is ranked 63rd nationally in the latest Golf Week poll and they also tied for sixth place out of 19 teams in the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate tournament at the La Purisima Golf Club in Lompoc. The Big West Conference also nominated Mike Lavery as an athlete of the week. As they finished the remainder of their season with strength, the golfers went into the conference championships with confidence. With a head coach, a director of golf, and an assistant coach, all committed to the student-athlete's success on the course and in the classroom, each player is assured of reaping benefits and positive relationships from a relatively large coaching staff with years of experience. The ideal surroundings for this golf team will no doubt largely contribute to their success in the program.

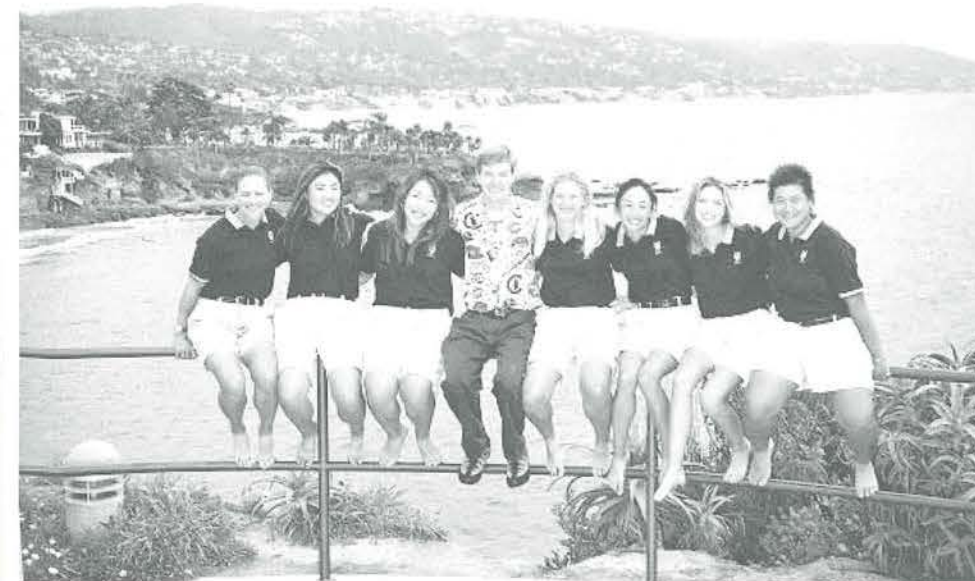

Concentration: Will Park looks down the fairway as the ball takes flight.

Women's Golf

In its inaugural season, the women's golf team showed that they are here to stay. In the fall season they finished third twice and fourth twice. Freshman Walailak Satarak, in only her second career tournament, won the Heather Farr University of Colorado Memorial Invitational. Walailak Satarak is ranked seventh nationally by GolfStat.com. Head Coach Kelly Crawford is the University's first women's golf coach and was the former head coach at Portland State. In other statistics, the women golfers finished tenth at the Bruin Golf Classic. UC Irvine freshman Stella Lee was selected as a Big West Conference Athlete of the Week in women's golf. Lee finished third out of 103 competitors in the Lady Aztec Invitational. Coach Kelly Crawford's Anteaters finished fifth in the 20-team field. Coach Crawford says, "Competing against some of the top ranked teams and knowing what we may have accomplished should build our confidence or at least make us a little hungrier. We'll continue to work hard and prepare for the conference championships and throughout next year."

Sailing

Head sailing coach Jonathen Posner states, "Our sailing department is definitely back with a vengeance!" The sailing team has enjoyed great success since its inception as a varsity sport at UC Irvine in 1965. Sailing was one of the eight original varsity sports. In the past 35 years the sailing team has won 6 Intercollegiate National Championships, countless Pacific Coast Championships, and graduated 43 All-Americans. Currently the women's team is ranked twelfth in the nation while the co-ed team holds it's rank at 18th in the US. In the women's fall championship, Irvine came out ahead, beating schools such as Stanford, University of Hawaii, UC Berkeley, UC Santa Barabara and UC Santa Cruz. With this year's talent and team efforts, we can emphatically agree that sailing is here to stay!

Students from every major discipline within the university participate in the Choral Organizations, which have earned an international reputation for excellence under the leadership of Professor Joseph Huszti. The fifteen international tours by the Concert Choir, Chamber Singers and Men in Blaque have included concerts in London, Seoul, Mexico City, Madrid, Vienna, Prague, Hong Kong, Budapest, Tokyo, Taipei and Edinburg as well as annual performances in the greater Los Angeles area. Prizes have been awarded to UCI singers at international competitions in Hungary, Wales and the Netherlands. Over 80 percent of the choir members are non-music majors. Virtually all types of music, including classical, popular, folk jazz, barbershop, and gospel, are presented informally and in concerts. Singers of every ability level are invited to interview and audition for one of the seven choirs.

Friends Club International is a club dedicated to the international population at UC Irvine. It is our hope that by attending FCI's weekly meetings and fun quarterly activities, international students can alleviate some of the stress that comes with being an international student, make friendships, interact with peers, and have an easier transition into America. Although this club is focused on the international population, it encourages any UCI associate or regularly enrolled student to become involved. It's perfect for the student with a desire to go abroad or to simply meet people from every corner of the globe. FCI thinks of itself as one of the most inclusive clubs on campus. With no dues and a fun social atmosphere that encourages cultural exchange, there is a place for everyone in FCI.

Only in its third year, the breaking club at UCI is one of the youngest clubs on campus. Membership is open to anyone interested in learning about the dance known as breaking. The club provides a forum in which anyone from beginning to advanced skill levels, can come together to practice and learn in a positive atmosphere. The goal of the club is to create an appreciation of breaking as an element of hip hop, and as a true art form.

The Vietnamese Student Association aims to promote cultural awareness, friendship, community services and leadership both on and off campus. In addition to our dedication to the local community, we work in conjunction with 10 other colleges and universities within Southern California to unite and strengthen the Vietnamese community and our individual clubs. Our main goal is to build stronger relationships with our members by creating a communication bridge through various activities such as Culture Night.

As this past fall quarter comes to a close, Kappa Sigma is clearly above the rest here at UCI. Finishing off rush with the twenty-one most wanted men on campus, we are looking forward to this addition to our brotherhood. As defending champions of the IFC sports trophy, we have led all sports during the fall quarter and continue to be the top athletes on campus. Beyond athletics, we have won all of the sorority philanthropies this quarter, and are not slowing down. Socially, we are second to none and have just celebrated the anniversary of our nineteenth year here at UCI with our Dynasty Days formal in Santa Monica, California. Academically, our grades are on the rise and we are currently ranked fourth on the IFC grade list amongst seventeen other fraternities. Who says that you can't party and do well in school?

The Beta Chapter of Kappa Zeta Phi Sorority at the UCI was colonized by five Founding Members on November 1, 1989. By working closely with the CSULA Kappa Zeta Phi, Alpha Chapter, we were able to expand and establish a new Asian American Sorority at UCI. We are now three chapters strong with our newest chapter at UCSD.

Kappa Zeta Phi membership is open to all female students at UC Irvine who are willing to learn and grow with us. We are centered around the qualities of education, leadership, responsibility, and sisterhood among our members. Throughout the year, our sorority participated in functions, which include charitable, fundraising, and social activities in conjunction with UC Irvine and the outstanding community. As our sorority continues to increase in membership and faces new challenges, we always strive to overcome all obstacles and forever continue our tradition of everlasting friendship and sisterhood.

BROTHERHOOD Brotherhood is what we stress and strive to achieve above all. We are a tight family, not a huge club on campus with Greek letters. Lambda Phi Epsilon is the first and largest nationally recognized Asian American fraternity in the United States. Since our conception in 1989, the Epsilon Chapter of Lambda Phi Epsilon at UCI has been dedicated to service in the community, increasing Asian awareness, and achieving excellence in both academics and personal growth. Being a Lambda is not about wearing the letter across the chest; being a Lambda is a mental attitude.

Lambda Theta Nu Sorority, Inc., was originally established at CSU, Chico on March 11, 1986. Fifteen years later, on April 1, 2001, the Sigma Chapter of Lambda Theta Nu Sorority, Inc. was founded at UC Irvine by nine Latina women. Since our existence at UC Irvine we have devoted much of our sisterhood efforts to help out our Latina community through various community services and academic outreach programs. We provided an Annual Scholarship to encourage higher education to eligible high school Latinas. This year we will host our first annual Latina Youth Leadership Conference for junior high school Latinas. Our sisterhood efforts were recognized and awarded the "Most Promising New Group at UCI" for the 2000/2001 school year. In addition to helping our community we help each other grow individually and as a unit of sisterhood. Together we grow stronger culturally, academically, and socially each and every day.

The UCI Chapter of Phi Delta Theta was established in 1975. Founded on the basic principles of friendship, sound learning and moral rectitude, the fraternity was founded by six men in 1848 who established our Standards of Brotherhood. The main focus of our chapter is to develop a strong bond of brotherhood and to make our men leaders of tomorrow. We are the men of Phi Delta Theta.

Sigma Lambda Beta Fraternity Incorporated was founded at UCI in May 1996. It began as a vision of seven men who saw the need for Greek organization to serve the Latino student body. We are a Latino based social fraternity with multicultural membership and span nationwide from coast to coast with our fraternity principles of Brotherhood, Scholarship, Cultural Awareness and Community service.

We also believe in the principles of fairness, opportunity, and equality of all men no matter what their race, culture, or ethnicity. Our biggest goal is to see that all of society can realize the importance of these three principles. To achieve this goal, we all strive to model these behaviors and present ourselves in a gentlemanly and educated fashion.

Chartered in 1991, UCI's Phi Kappa Psi Chapter has steadily strived to become one of the top fraternities on campus. We hope to attain even higher goals this year in academics, athletics and philanthropy than those established in the past. We strive earnestly through our devotion to our brotherhood to excel as students, as men and as leaders.

Founded in 1983 by the Stacey Takemoto and Dustie Isaka, Phi Zeta Tau became the first Asian-American sorority at UCI. After much planning, effort, and recruiting, the founding members made Phi Zeta Tau a reality. The year 1983 marked a successful beginning and they introduced the Alpha class. Determination and enthusiasm filled the newly formed sorority and proved to be prevalent in the years to follow. Each successive pledge class, Beta, Gamma, Delta, and all the way to our nineteenth year with the incoming Tau class, has allowed Phi Zeta to grow and pass on its high standards and traditions. Since then, the sisters of Phi Zeta Tau have been involved on the University of Irvine campus, the surrounding community, UCI Panhellenic Association (the traditional Greek system), AGI (Asian Greeks of Irvine), and AGC (the Asian Greek system of Southern California). Memorable events such as Informals, Formals, and Installs highlight each year as a new pledge class discovers what being part of a sisterhood is all about. The Phi Story is a never ending book with new chapters to be written and shared every year. With eighteenth years of tradition to guide us, our sisterhood and friendships will continue to last for a lifetime.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity was originally founded at Richmond College (now the University of Richmond) in Richmond, Virginia by 12 students on November 1, 1901. The California Beta Alpha Chapter at UCI was founded on November 16, 1997. Though our chapters at UCI is a young one, we are proud to announce that this year we have been awarded the Buchanan Cup which is the most prestigious award any Sigma Phi Epsilon chapter can receive. Along with being awarded the Buchanan Cup, this year our fraternity has very proudly celebrated 100 years of brotherhood. For the last 15 years, Sigma Phi Epsilon has remained the largest fraternity with over 240,000 members nationwide. All of these men have taken a vow to uphold our cardinal principles of virtue, diligence, and brotherly love. With these virtues kept in heart and mind each member strives to become a Balanced Man, which means becoming a gentleman, a leader, a scholar, and an athlete.

The Eta Upsilon chapter of the Sigma Pi Fraternity was founded on March 11, 1995. A spirited Founding Father class of fifty men built the chapter upon a foundation of integrity, discipline, and a commitment to success. After only one year in existence Eta Upsilon was recognized with four major awards at Greek awards night and instantaneously established itself as a force to be reckoned with. The addition of chapter's initial pledge classes established a bench mark of excellence for new members. Eta Upsilon had made its mark and began to emerge as a respected leader in all areas of Greek life.

OUTSTANDING PROFESSOR AWARD

Thank you for the kind and generous honor of including me as one of your outstanding professors! It's a rich joy to be able to work with you at such an important phase of your lives. I get to see students arrive as freshmen at UCI, bright and eager to succeed, and often also slightly nervous and wondering what the world might hold ahead. Over the next few years I get to see you blossom as you realize your own joys, your own passions, and your own potential. Each of you gives me so much by sharing this time of life with me, and it's both an honor and a delight to assist you on this path. May you continue to find happiness each day in the years ahead, and may we each continue to share life's joys with others, helping the next generations as they, too, work to make life its very best. Through this chain of giving, we can reach back and gain strength from those who have gone before us, all the while bringing hope and possibility to those we meet further down the road. Best wishes to you!

Biological Sciences
Outstanding Professor Award

I have to be honest: from my own undergraduate career, I remember my classmates far better than my professors. Of the professors I do remember, most stand out for the wrong reason—attending their lectures was only slightly less painful than a trip to the dentist! I encountered only a few educators who captivated my interest and excited my imagination. As a UC professor, I am privileged to be in a position to influence students. I obviously cannot affect every student in all of my classes, but I strive for a simple goal. By the end of each course, I want at least one student (but hopefully many more) to say, "You know what? Biology is exciting!" Excitement breeds curiosity. In turn, curiosity motivates the intellectual and personal growth that is the hallmark of a quality college education. Being named an Outstanding Professor is encouraging to me because it means I have captured someone's imagination. More importantly, it suggests that some of my students have learned that, "Biology is Exciting!" This is an important lesson, because the pressing issues of the 21st Century—population growth, medical progress, habitat conservation and even renewable energy!—have, at their core, a biological component. Without some interest and knowledge of biology, every day citizens like you and me will neither understand nor help solve the difficult issues of our time. I hope you remember me or my lectures, but you probably won't. More importantly, I hope you remember the thrill of studying biology, because a lifelong interest in biology will serve you well.

—Brandon Gaut

It is an honor to be recognized by students and I am grateful for this honor. I have taught Biological Sciences at UCI for 35 years and still find it very exciting and rewarding to teach our gifted and enthusiastic students. I received my Ph.D. from the University of Washington at Seattle and arrived at UCI in 1965 when there were only a few buildings and a senior class of 350 students! Over the intervening years the accomplishments of our students and faculty have led to the growth and national recognition of our campus. I am proud to be a member of the faculty at UCI.

Outstanding Professor Award

I am very grateful to my students at UCI, where I learned about mentoring young engineers. It is a real honor for me to be nominated by senior students as an outstanding professor although I believe there are so many great professors at UCI who deserve to be nominated. Among awards I have received during my twenty-four years of teaching, this award is a special one since it is coming directly from my students who taught me how to become a better professor. As a teacher this award gives me more energy and incentive to work even harder and I will remember it for the rest my life.

OUTSTANDING PROFESSOR AWARD

I design my courses assuming students really want to learn. True learning requires hard work and I require lots of course work to force my students to learn. I've heard from students that my name is often used as a swear word during the term and I really can't blame them. In my courses, I define what I want my students to learn, then help them understand and learn that material. I try to balance theory and practices so students can see the value of what they are learning and I know the students appreciate it when they go to find a job. I convey enthusiasm for the material in lecture and I mix in personal anecdotes to help keep them awake. I'm sure my students can sense that I love teaching and that I really care about their futures. I've been very honored to receive twelve UCI teaching awards in the past twelve years, but this award means the most to me because it is awarded by graduating seniors who can look back on their entire educational experience here at UCI and by then they have a more objective opinion of what courses really caused personal growth.

Humanities

Outstanding Professor Award

I take real pleasure in this honor, not least because it is an award given by graduating seniors of the University of California at Irvine. I am a proud UC product myself; and after more than a decade of exile in the east and in private universities, to come back here to teach has been nothing short of wonderful. UCI students never quite grasp how splendid they are, or how much we enjoy teaching them. So it seems more appropriate at this moment to celebrate the students in the School of Humanities—for their indubitable intelligence, their curiosity, their willingness to think new and difficult things, their abundant good humor and endless forbearance where wacky professors are concerned. I salute the Class of 2001: you are a delight.

Outstanding Professor Award

I am touched and honored that you would recognize me as Outstanding Professor. I remember being a student at UCI in some of the very same classrooms that I teach in now, and when I drive into UCI and I look at this beautiful campus, I still can't believe that I am lucky enough to teach here. I am humbled by your recognition. I have had an amazing experience here at UCI, and I have learned so much more from you, the students, than I could ever teach you. I have learned that you can't teach in a vacuum — that it is the interaction of the students and the professor that creates a positive learning environment. I have learned that it only takes a few enthusiastic students to motivate an entire class of 400 — a class afraid that organic chemistry will be the only obstacle preventing them from reaching their dreams. And I have learned that getting a degree is about so much more than learning academics. It is about working hard to reach a goal, and struggling against seemingly insurmountable odds at times, and believing in yourself, and never giving up. All of this I have learned by listening to you — your ideas, your challenges, your failures, and your successes. I am proud to be part of your experience at UCI, and I am very proud of the class of 2002.

Outstanding Professor Award

I love my job! I guess it shows. I've been doing it for a long time. Teachers started using me as an aide when I was in the fifth grade. I taught my first college course while a graduate student at UCI in 1974. Teaching keeps me young, or at least thinking young. Students arrive each year as new high school graduates and leave four years later as mature adults. But I remain the same. Teaching is fun for me. I can be an actor, a comedian, a philosopher. I love it. I first saw UCI in 1966 when I was cuttin' class from El Rancho High School in Pico Rivera. It will be some time until I'm ready to retire from UCI.

Outstanding Professor Award

Thank You, Senior Class, for the honor of this teaching award. Let me point out, however, that while the award may be individual, the instructional effort is collective. The instruction I gave was enhanced by your own questions and debates and by the assistance and resources provided by those working behind the scenes in the Sociology Department and School of Social Sciences. The intellectual work we did in the classroom was generously supported by others: Judy Stephan-Norris, the Chair of Sociology, Renee Martin, Linda Cleland, Jan Meza, and several hardworking Teaching Assistants from the graduate program. I thank them all for their support. Although you Seniors are leaving us, please remember that your education has not ended; it is really just beginning. Keep a level head and a big heart as you go through life. We wish you all the best!

CLAIRE TREVOR SCHOOL OF THE ARTS

As Dean of the Claire Trevor UCI School of the Arts, I am often asked about the relevance of the arts in our technology-driven society. I usually answer with three simple yet significant words: the arts matter. The arts matter to our students. Fostering skills by which they can not only make a living, but also create a productive and interesting life, prepares these young adults to shape a better world no matter what careers ensue.

The arts matter to our faculty. The practicing artists and scholars who comprise our nationally renowned faculty are educators who are strongly committed to the future of the arts. As mentors to the talented students of our four departments, they help shape our cultural legacy.

The arts matter to the university. The arts possess a unique ability to build bridges and illuminate commonalities among disparate disciplines. Emerging connections between the arts and other fields have led to major advances in research at UCI.

The arts matter to our children. An arts education helps forge the way we think, how we see, how we judge and evaluate, how we work in groups, how we communicate and use language, how we comprehend space and time, how we manage our emotions, how we learn.

The arts matter to our community. Experiences shared through the arts not only bring people together, they help us feel connected. They define who we are and generate achievements for which our culture will be remembered.

The arts matter to our global society. In an increasingly technical world, the arts possess a singular ability to humanize technology. The arts enhance technology's capability to communicate effectively and to foster the exchange of ideas internationally. The arts contribute to our greater sense of community, by enabling us to share and discuss the beliefs, insights, opinions and aspirations that are important to different societal groups.

What is the relevance of the arts? The movement, sounds and visual design of the arts are all around us. Their sensory and emotional impact affects how we perceive, organize and react to our world on a daily basis. It would be impossible to imagine life without them.

HENRY SAMUELI SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING

Engineering education begins with a fundamental understanding and knowledge of mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology and the humanities. An interdisciplinary background in the sciences and humanities enables engineering students to make the transition to whichever specialty is of interest to them. The school currently provides a variety of choices: mechanical engineering, electrical engineering, computer engineering and computer science, biomedical engineering, chemical engineering, aerospace engineering, civil and environmental engineering and materials science.

The most successful engineers have the knowledge to work in multiple disciplines. A leading engineering mind integrates all the knowledge necessary to create highly complex systems such as spacecraft, jetliners, the most sophisticated computers and software and many other products and systems beneficial to our society.

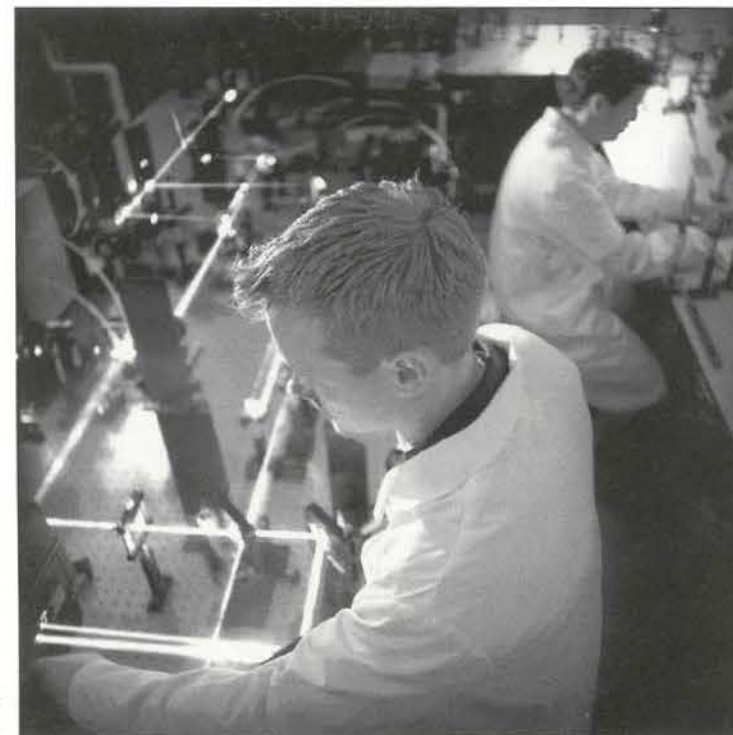

Dean of Engineering

Nicolaos G. Alexopoulos

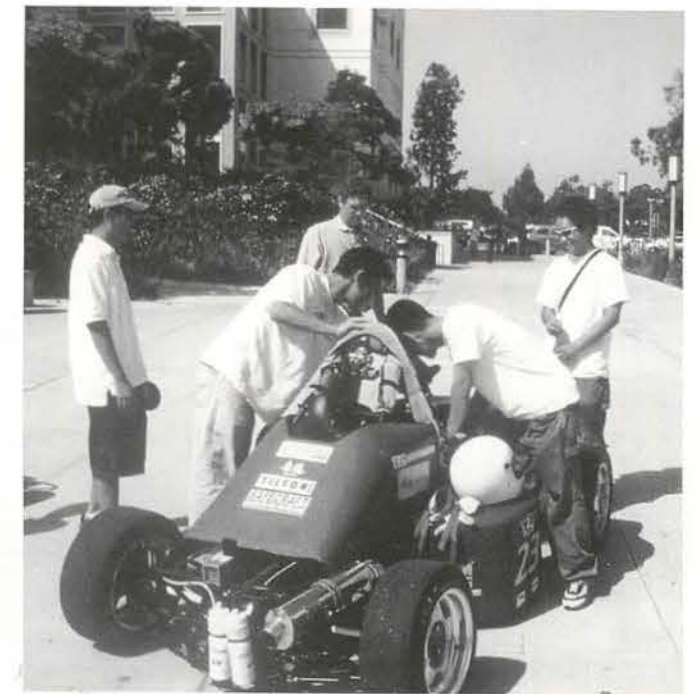

During a lifetime career, the engineer will make several work related transitions, the most significant one being the need to avoid obsolescence and, therefore, unemployment. This entails, perhaps more than any other profession, continuous vigilance and interest in being a leader in the development of new technologies, or at least maintaining a knowledge base through continuous education.

Engineers, due to their interdisciplinary education and natural gift for problem solving, excel in many other professions such as medicine, management, law and public service. They are able to make successful transitions throughout their career, perhaps much more easily than individuals who lack the solid educational foundation engineering provides.

I hope the school has equipped you with the depth of knowledge to successfully navigate your life's myriad, diverse transitions.

SCHOOL OF HUMANITIES

The theme of the 2002 yearbook, "Somewhere in Between," is particularly appropriate for the School of Humanities. In the Humanities, we are interested in movements of ideas, peoples, and cultures across time and space. We are fascinated by the ways in which languages structure modes of thought, and we seek ways to translate—to move in between—different languages and literatures. Our location on campus also gives symbolic expression to the ways in which Humanities is in between the School of the Arts and the School of Social Sciences, and in our interdisciplinary programs in Women's Studies, Asian American Studies, and African American Studies we are in dialogue with other parts of the campus. Students in the School also move at ease among the more traditional humanistic disciplines of philosophy, history, and literature, identifying points of intersection and overlap among them and appreciating what is distinctive about each, at once within individual disciplines and between disciplines. They quickly come to learn that modes of humanistic inquiry are in no way isolated from the "real world," cordoned off in some ivory tower. Rather, in the words of a "Manifesto of the Humanities" in the UC system, it is Humanities that provide the "ability to express oneself clearly and accurately; the skill of critical evaluation, both of ideas and actions; the courage to make choices based on shared values and priorities; the opportunity to conduct an intensive conversation with the traditions, present and past, that help make us who we are, and above all who we will be; and as a result, the ability to understand and make sense of other people and their cultures."

Humanities students enter the real world as critical thinking citizens, knowing where they are but also ready to be somewhere in between as they move on to the next stage of their lives.

DEPARTMENT OF INFORMATION & COMPUTER SCIENCE

Computers and technology pervade every aspect of our lives—from smart homes and onboard car navigation to Internet shopping and secure purchasing. New technologies drive today's economy, industries, and lifestyles. The Department of Information and Computer Science plays an active role in furthering those technologies and their advanced applications.

The ICS undergraduate program provides our students with a firm foundation in technology and allows them the flexibility to explore advanced topics including software systems, data mining, embedded systems, cryptography and artificial intelligence. Our graduate programs build upon that foundation and expand the student's understanding of complex technology through faculty-driven research. ICS graduates are well prepared to make an immediate impact whether they choose an academic or corporate career path.

Boasting the largest computer science program within the University of California system, the ICS program is the fastest growing major on the UC Irvine campus with nearly 1,750 undergraduate students and more than 250 graduate students.

Our programs, guided by our esteemed faculty, shape the future of our students, and our students will shape tomorrow.

Congratulations to all UCI students on another year well done.

SCHOOL OF PHYSICAL SCIENCES

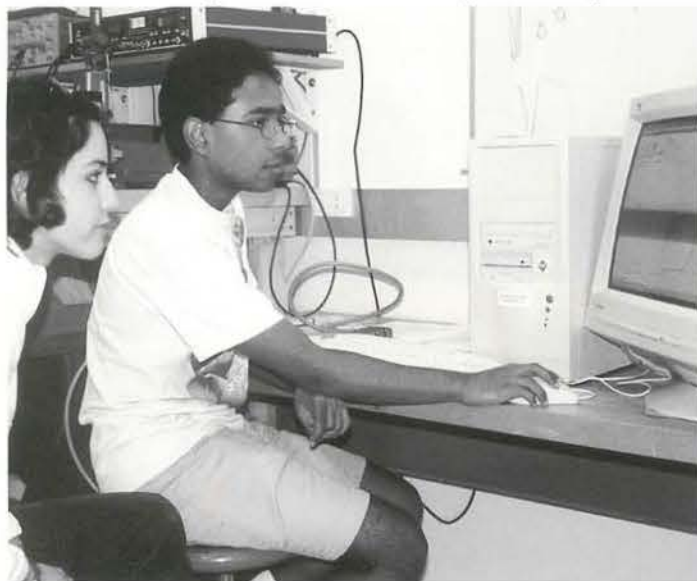

The UCI School of Physical Sciences (the Departments of Chemistry, Earth System Science, Mathematics, and Physics and Astronomy) congratulates the class of 2002. As you commence your future, look back and assess your past. Determine and ruminate over those events that have shaped your young lives. Your decision to attend college and your anguish over filling out applications, and your final decision to attend UC Irvine were quickly replaced with your anxieties over leaving home, what courses to take, and what to wear the first days of class. These in turn were immediately replaced with decisions about a major and hours of long and hard study. You are now faced with another series of important decisions: What will I do for the rest of my life? How will I take control of my future? What was important to you as you commenced your college career now appears trivial as you commence your future. A pattern begins to emerge. You are transiting from the past into the future; you will always be somewhere in between. As you enter a world that has been dramatically altered by recent events, I trust that you will carry forward the knowledge you have gained from your coursework and interactions with your fellow students and faculty. You have learned the foundations of several areas of human thought. Many of you have already discovered what drives the lives of all your faculty; the more we learn, the more we realize we do not understand. I hope that your years at UC Irvine have opened your minds and given you a life-long appetite for learning. You will always be transiting from the past to a new future. "Chance favors the prepared mind." Continue to ask questions and continue to learn.

Dean of Physical Sciences

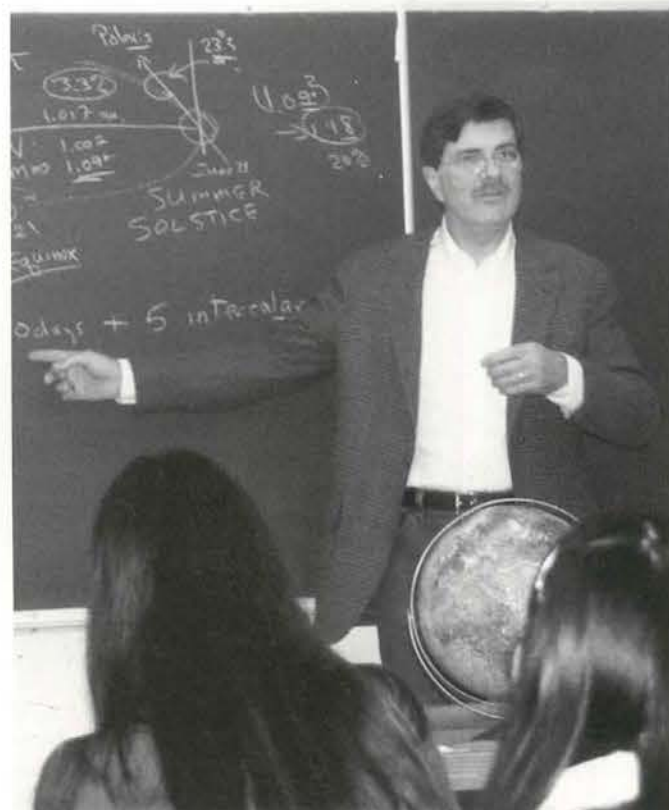

Ronald J. Stern

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL ECOLOGY

The School of Social Ecology is an interdisciplinary academic unit whose scholarly research and instruction is informed by and contributes to knowledge in the social, behavioral, legal, environmental and health sciences. The School is comprised of four departments: Criminology, Law and Society; Environmental Analysis and Design; Psychology and Social Behavior; and Urban and Regional Planning. Social Ecology faculty apply scientific methods to study a wide array of recurring social, behavioral and environmental problems. Among issues of long-standing interest in the School are crime and justice in society, social influences on human development over the life cycle, and the effects of the physical environment on health and human behavior. While the field of ecology focuses on the relationships between organisms and their environments, social ecology is concerned with the relationships between human populations and their environments.

Social Ecology's faculty is multidisciplinary, including psychologists with a variety of specialties (e.g., developmental, social, environmental, and health psychology), criminologists, sociologists, anthropologists, political scientists, lawyers, urban and regional planners and economists, environmental health scientists, and program evaluation experts. The School's research and teaching is distinguished by an emphasis on the integration of the concept and perspectives of these multiple disciplines. This focus is based on the School's core belief that the analysis and amelioration of complex societal problems require interdisciplinary efforts.

Many Social Ecology faculty are involved in developing policies and interventions directed toward improving the functioning of individuals, families and other groups, organizations, institutions, and communities, while other faculty in the School focus their efforts on the complex environmental issues confronting our society. Social Ecology undergraduate students benefit from the multidisciplinary instructional expertise of the School's faculty in the classroom and are afforded opportunities to engage in field-based and laboratory-based learning as well, through the School's well-established and highly regarded field studies program and its laboratories. Graduate students work closely with the faculty in the classroom and in laboratories, as well as collaborate on important research projects that enhance their research skills while advancing knowledge and addressing important societal problems.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL SCIENCES

The Significance of Dean William R. Schonfeld

Leadership within great institutions—whether academic, political or social—is found in a select few. In the case of the School of Social Sciences and the greater Irvine campus, William R. Schonfeld has served as one of its premiere visionaries and administrators. His legacy is mirrored in the redefinition of the School that has occurred since he was first appointed Dean in 1982.

The first glimpse of his academic leadership took place in the early 1980s with the creation of an external academic think tank. The membership in this intellectually charged assembly included top scholars from Harvard, Stanford and the Smithsonian. Upon the committee's recommendations and the approval of the faculty, the School of Social Sciences was restructured. Restructured in a manner that has served to attract top-notch faculty, promote the integration of sophisticated technology and scholarly methodology into the curriculum, and establish exceptional doctoral programs in several disciplines. Subsequently, UCI's Academic Senate approved the School's first formal departments: Anthropology, Cognitive Sciences, Economics, Politics and Society, and Sociology.

Under Dean Schonfeld, eight dynamic research units have been established. They are the Institute for Mathematics in Behavioral Sciences; the Center for the Study of Democracy; Virtual Reality Lab; Center for the Study of Latinos in a Global Society; Center for Global Peace and Conflict Studies; Asian Studies; Institute of Transportation Studies; and the Center for Research on Immigration, Population and Public Policy.

Dean Schonfeld's innovative initiatives continued to impact the School's evolution throughout the 1990s. At the undergraduate level, the interdisciplinary-based major of International Studies was formally introduced to students in fall 1996. Currently, with more than 600 students enrolled, the program has become the fastest growing major in Irvine's history. Social Science Specializations were introduced in the late 1990s, allowing students to pursue specific interests in Secondary Education, Community and Public Service, Research and Analytical Methods and Multicultural Studies.

Realizing that quality research faculty is the key to the University's success, Schonfeld has strongly encouraged the recruitment of some of the nation's most talented professors. Ten of the School's faculty have been elected to the National Academy of Sciences and/or the American Academy of Arts & Sciences. The growing undergraduate enrollment has enabled the School to recruit a number of new Ph.D.s from Harvard, Princeton, Berkeley, and other prestigious graduate programs. Faculty openly celebrate and comment on the Dean's encouragement of a uniquely nonterritorial intellectual environment—one in which genuine respect for the individual professor and collaborative research is valued.

Dean Schonfeld's two decades of definitive leadership is reflected in the School of Social Sciences' remarkable curriculum, exceptional faculty and the unprecedented enrollment of more than 5,000 undergraduates.

Dean of Social Sciences

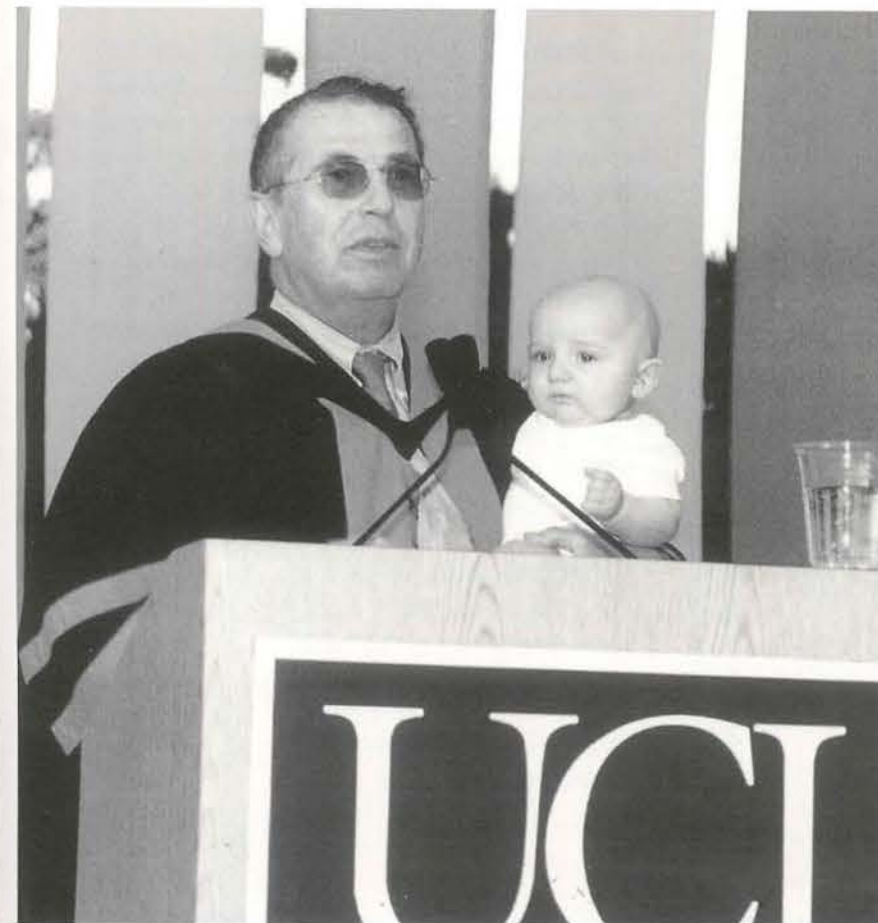

William R. Schonfeld

Professor Schonfeld was appointed to his first five-year term as Dean in 1982.

June 2002 signifies more than the end of an academic year—it marks the end of an era. After two decades as UCI's longest serving Dean, William R. Schonfeld, is stepping down. His leadership has helped propel the School from a fledgling academic unit to a nationally and internationally recognized center of inquiry in the social sciences.

Schonfeld's core course, Introduction to Micro-Politics, is an integral part of the curriculum. He transfers both his scholarly insights and kinetic energy to his undergraduate students.

Above: The Dean has promoted a true sense of community among the Social Sciences faculty, students and staff. His annual "Pie in the Sky" roof-top cookout has become a year-end tradition on the campus.

Tributes to the Dean...

"Dean Schonfeld or, as he is affectionately known by the entire campus—Willie—is a much loved and respected legend at UCI. He has played a leading role in the emergence of UCI as a front-ranked, nationally recognized, research university.

"I have had the good fortune of working closely with Willie as chancellor and as a colleague. As chancellor, I came to appreciate his wit and wisdom. He had something important to say on almost all subjects and he said it with vigor and grace. I came to rely upon his judgment and to benefit from his experience and found that he was always animated by concerns for the School and for the University.

"As a colleague, Dean Schonfeld is a strong personality: articulate and with a "presence" big enough to fill the room. He has high academic standards and expects the best from those who work with him, but a feature of his leadership that I have noted and appreciated is that he has been most generous in acknowledging and focusing attention on the contributions of others rather than claiming any for himself.

"It is noteworthy that, after almost twenty years as a proactive and forthright dean, he has earned the respect and admiration of colleagues with whom he has worked so closely and for so long. He is so highly regarded by the students he has taught and I know that he is held in the highest esteem by his colleagues in political science around the world.

"Dean Schonfeld is a compassionate colleague who cares deeply about the well-being and welfare of all the constituents who make up UCI. I am pleased that we shall continue to have him as a colleague although we will miss him as a dean."

*UC President Emeritus Jack W. Peltason
UC Irvine Chancellor Emeritus
Member of the School of Social Sciences
Founding Faculty*

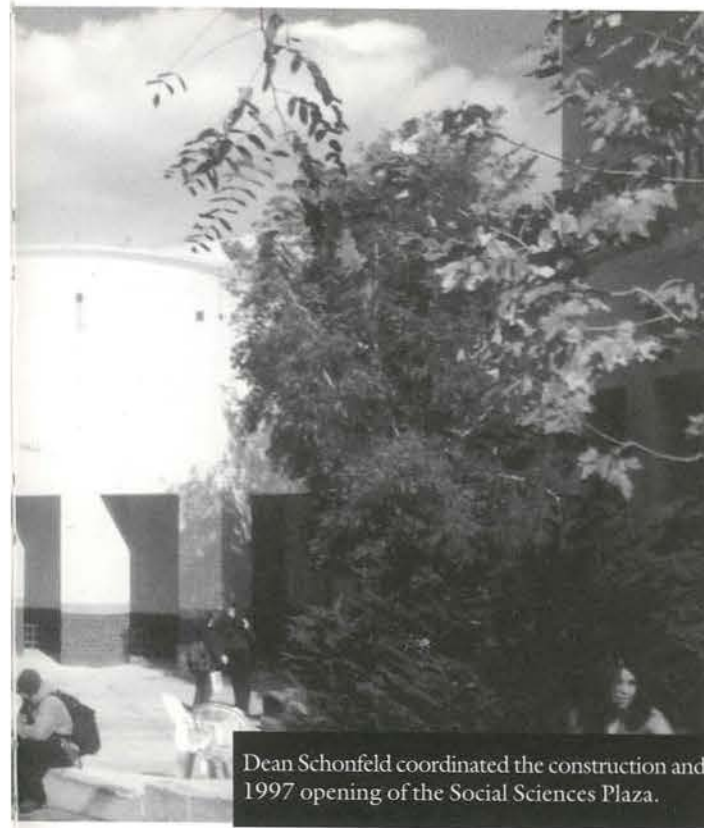

"A university has many goals. They are complex and, often, competing. But, first and foremost a university should aspire to and express the highest of academic standards. Willie Schonfeld has been a leading and outspoken advocate of the University's essential need to sustain its efforts to focus strongly on academic issues.

"In his twenty-year service as Dean of the School of Social Sciences, and in prior years, Willie has been steadfast in reminding us all at UCI of the critical importance of academic values and standards. He has led by his actions. He is an inspired and admired teacher and a tireless and effective administrator.

"Willie, we owe you our deep gratitude for inspiring us to help make UCI the kind of university it deserves to be."

*James McGaugh Ph.D.
Director, Center for Neurobiology of Learning & Behavior*

Dean Schonfeld coordinated the construction and 1997 opening of the Social Sciences Plaza.

"Dean Schonfeld is an attentive listener and analytical thinker who has demonstrated remarkable patience in addressing our plebeian views of life and society. He is always striving to improve our knowledge and ability to think for ourselves. He carries out his mission with care and compassion.

"We have been truly blessed with a remarkable leader over the last twenty years. I can think of no other person who has given more to the School of Social Sciences and the University than Dean Schonfeld. Remarkably, he is not marred by politics and yet thrives in a political environment. Students and faculty will miss his leadership but will remain thankful for all that he has contributed to their lives. Each of us will have to make a special effort to engage Dean Schonfeld in a lively debate and discussion that makes our time with him so meaningful."

*Gary Singer, Class of '74
Chair of the Dean's Council
School of Social Sciences*

"Dean Schonfeld's highly impressive tenure as Dean of the School of Social Sciences, and his tenacious dedication to the building of UCI as a leading research university, serve admirably to honor the memory of founding Chancellor Dan Aldrich.

"Many of us have witnessed Willie Schonfeld dominate a room with an intense and 'almost electric' presence. To be sure, one may at times disagree with his conclusions on specific issues. But invariably those conclusions are buttressed by a careful marshalling of evidence and are presented with compelling argumentation. He is by far UCI's longest serving academic dean. And no one to my knowledge surpasses his understanding of how UCI functions—and at times does not function. Over the years, Dean Schonfeld has displayed the highest academic values and an unflagging commitment to UCI as an ethical, as well as an educational, enterprise. He has been an essential contributor to the university's mission as both a servant and critic of the larger society. He is, furthermore, a person of dignity, moral rectitude, candor, decisiveness, unassailable integrity, and a profound disdain of mendacity."

*Spencer Olin
Former Dean of UCI's School of Humanities*

"We in the Department of Logic and Philosophy of Science will always be deeply grateful to Dean Schonfeld for giving us the chance to realize our intellectual dream. We hope the future of our program will justify the faith he showed in us."

Professor Penelope Maddy, Founding Chair of the Department of Logic and Philosophy

School of Social Sciences Highlights 2001-2002

Record Breaking Enrollment

More than 5,000 students are enrolled in the School of Social Sciences for the 2001-2002 academic year. The School enrolls almost one third of Irvine's undergraduate student population.

New Center Established for Research on Immigration, Population & Public Policy

The School's newest research unit, approved by the Academic Senate in 2001, is the Center for Research on Immigration, Population Dynamics and Public Policy. Under the direction of Professor of Sociology Frank Bean, the Center was created to focus on policy-related research concerned with immigration and immigrants. There are several reasons to establish such a research center. First, immigration is the most significant demographic process affecting the growth and structure of the U.S. population, especially California's population. Second, immigration research is inherently multidisciplinary because of the many complex forces and factors that govern immigration processes and their consequences.

Professor Bernard Grofman Elected to the National Academy of Arts & Sciences

Political Science Professor Bernard Grofman, an authority on redistricting and voting rights, specialist on individual group decision making processes and models of political persuasion/propaganda, was elected in 2001 to the National Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Outstanding Seniors... Capture Truman Honors

The School of Social Sciences takes great pride in the academic achievements of Political Science major Leah Donahue and International Studies major Han Kang. Both have been awarded the prestigious Truman Scholarship and UCI's Lauds & Laurels Award for Outstanding Undergraduate Student for 2001 and 2002, respectively. Leah plans to be a lawyer and Han plans to get an advanced degree in the area of public health.

In fall 2001, Chicano/Latino Studies became the newest major. Social Sciences undergraduates can now select from nine majors.

Ambassadors Council 2001-2002

The Ambassadors Council is a student-based organization that works in conjunction with the Office of the Associate Dean to advance student-faculty interaction, and service to the campus and community.

During its first year of operation, the student-based Ambassadors Council introduced the following new programs: Fall Social Sciences Week, "Get Social" quarterly faculty-student get-togethers, a winter Red Cross Blood Drive, an "In Pursuit of Peace" High School Essay Contest & Outreach Program, and a spring reception for Dean Schonfeld.

DIVISION OF UNDERGRADUATE EDUCATION

The undergraduate experience is one of constantly being in-between, crossing many bridges, exploring new directions.

The Division of Undergraduate Education sponsors many programs that are dedicated to helping undergraduate students cross those bridges and explore new directions as part of the undergraduate experience. For new students, the Division sponsors Undecided/Undeclared Academic Advising, Peer Academic Advising in all the academic units, Student Academic Advancement Services, Transfer Student Counseling, and the Testing Office. These programs assist new students in making a successful transition to the University so they can achieve their academic goals. The Campuswide Honors Program, Scholarship Opportunities, the Center for International Education, the UC-DC Internship Program, and the Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program give undergraduate students many ways to explore intellectual, professional, and cultural enrichment. The Learning and Academic Resource Center helps to develop students' learning skills while the Academic Honesty Policy promotes intellectual integrity. The Student Recommended Faculty Program provides new courses and the Instructional Resources Center, and the Instructional Technology Center help faculty implement innovative teaching and learning methods that benefit undergraduate education. The Office of Research, Evaluation, and Grants provides analysis to inform curricular decisions and help with grants to support innovations in teaching and learning. Information Systems supports the Division's growing data and computing needs. Thus while we are always somewhere in-between, the Division of Undergraduate Education is engaged in guiding under-graduates through all of the stages and challenges of the University experience.

RESEARCH, EVALUATIONS & GRANTS

OFFICE OF GRADUATE EDUCATION

Over the next decade, a historically high number of America's youth are predicted to pursue advanced degrees in America's universities. This is especially true for California and UCI is one of the University of California campuses committed to substantially increasing graduate student enrollments between now and the end of this decade. This will affect the entire UCI community, as graduate education is, of course, central to our mission as a top-ranked research university. In conjunction with our faculty, graduate enrollments affect both the quality and quantity of the research efforts at UCI as well as our teaching responsibilities for undergraduate education.

This expected growth affords UCI with unparalleled opportunities to broaden our graduate level programs and student support. In the research arena, UCI is gaining stature as a major university participating in national studies and conducting landmark research in virtually every field. In addition, we are located in a community that enthusiastically contributes both funding and collaborative expertise to enhance the quality of a UCI education. We are indeed fortunate that leaders across the country are aware of how important graduate study and research are to the social and economic progress of the area.

Our graduate students will benefit from this growth-oriented and high-profile environment. It will aid in the critically important mission of opening new frontiers of knowledge upon which our society will build its future. This is an exciting period for our university and we are fortunate to have high caliber graduate students pursuing their advanced degrees here at UCI that will guarantee our continued presence among America's top ten public universities.

From the Office of the Graduate Studies, we wish you our best.

LIBRARY

The UC Irvine Libraries recognize that college students are expected to grow and evolve through the pursuit of many difficult challenges throughout their college careers. Transitions students must make are in response not only to formal class work, but also to personal growth and individually defined intellectual interests which require independent exploration. The Libraries provide an immense array of services and resources to support students in their intellectual and informational pursuits for both the classroom and independent interests.

Librarians at UCI offer students expert individualized research assistance, instructional classes, and access to over 9,000 on-line journals, abstracts, indexes, books, and other databases; more than 2.2 million print volumes; and nearly 20,000 current print journal subscriptions at the four library facilities: the Main Library, the Science Library, and the Gateway Study Center on the Irvine campus; and the Medical Center Library in Orange.

University Librarian

Gerald J. Munoff

More than 300 desktop computers are available for general and scheduled use throughout the four library buildings. Also available are specialized facilities for multimedia, advanced computing, instruction, and email. The Gateway Study Center, adjacent to the Main Library, and the Science Library Study Center provide comfortable study space 24 hours a day during prefinals and finals weeks and 19 hours a day during the quarter. Individual and group study rooms are available in the Science Library. Innovative services such as Electronic Reserves, and on-line requests for interlibrary loan materials were developed to assist students in their studies and research. We encourage you to explore the riches available to you in the UC Irvine Libraries, to take advantage of the many services librarians offer in support of your studies and research, and to visit the Libraries' website at <http://www.lib.uci.edu>.

Jean Grech Condé

DIRECTOR

Mesa Court got its name from the natural mesa on which it sits at the north corner of campus. Mesa translates to mean table. Our focus as a housing community is to create a table of excellence by concentrating on four core values in student housing—Scholarship, Leadership, Community and Diversity. Since our occupants are freshmen, our primary role is to assist in the transition of our residents from seniors in high school to college freshmen. Each new year brings us a crop of young people somewhere in between. Mesa Court, with its services, programs, and support staff, provides the safety net that allows new UCI students to take a leap of faith and test themselves personally and academically.

For the first time in its 36-year history, Mesa Court has spilled beyond the mesa to accommodate the campus growth spurt. Over the last two years our community has been surrounded by three major construction projects. The demand for undergraduate education brings with it a need for more places to house students. As a result, 10 new residence halls, additional programming and administrative spaces, and the expansion and renovation of the dining commons were initiated to accommodate future freshman classes. This fall we opened Barranca, Jardin, Isla and Cascade Halls. We welcome the inaugural residents of those halls along with the occupants of our older halls to the table.

DIRECTOR

Somewhere in Between aptly describes what many of our 1550 freshmen experience as they move into Middle Earth, their new “home away from home.” Our residents search for independence while wanting to make sure the comfort and support of family and friends left behind is still in tack. Our residents leave an environment where they had an identity and now search to find if it continues to explain who they are. Our residents exit an environment where, for the most part, they’d conquered the academic setting but now wonder what strategies they’ll need to make them successful at UCI. These, as well as other numerous transitions, will take place while residents live in Middle Earth. Our career and student staffs are dedicated to helping our freshmen community work through this maze of changes as they embark on their new academic careers.

DIRECTOR

Arroyo Vista Housing opened in 1993 and is home to 835 students during the academic year and approximately 600 students each summer. Arroyo Vista includes 35 separate houses: 23 Academic Theme Houses sponsored by different departments and programs and 12 Sorority and Fraternity houses. Each house is designed to include the involvement of faculty and staff from the academic unit or alumni from the Greek organization. These individuals not only attend and assist in planning activities and programs, but also work with housing staff to select the house residents and the house assistant.

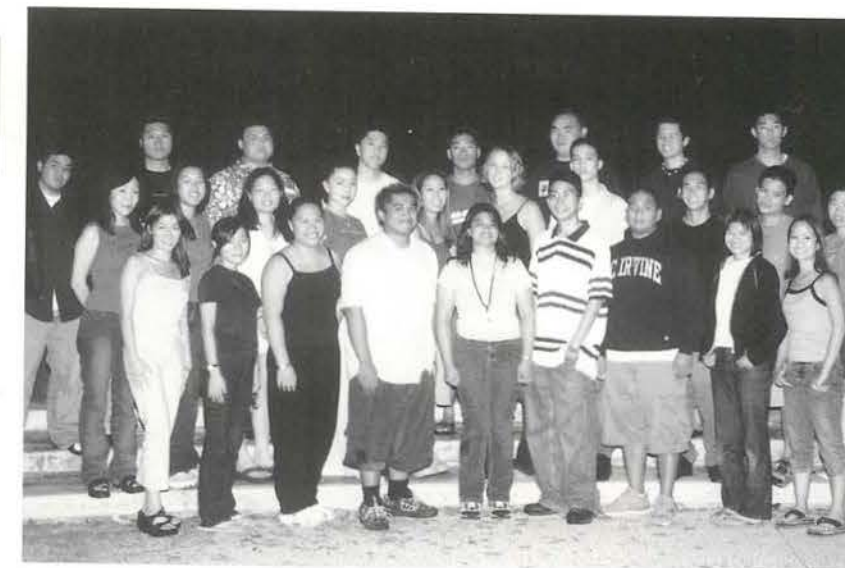

Living in Arroyo Vista is a unique opportunity for UCI students, providing direct access to faculty and staff (and other students) who have different fields of expertise, experiences and background. Many Arroyo Vista residents are upper division students who are ready to become more involved in their academic fields or provide leadership to their particular Greek organization. Along with the more seasoned UCI students, we are proud to include first-year freshmen in our First Year Excellence Program houses and our Campuswide Honors houses. In addition, nearly all first-year transfer students who desire on-campus housing live in Arroyo Vista. This well-balanced mix of new energy and seasoned experience makes Arroyo Vista a vibrant and exciting place to live.

Fred Lipscomb

DIRECTOR

Campus Village has a new look and I am not just talking about the fact that the exteriors of all 25 buildings have been repainted. Campus Village has a new look and I am not just talking about the complete renovation of all 200 interiors of the apartments. Campus Village has changed its face. The new look is reflected in the demographics of Campus Village. Historically a predominantly junior and senior community, Campus Village is now primarily a sophomore community and with dab of international flare.

With the change in demographics, we have seen a more vibrant and motivated community and that is exciting for our staff. While we still pride ourselves in being a more independent community, the recent rise in the number of sophomores and international students has challenged the operation to revisit our vision. This is not only exciting for the staff, but equally exciting for the students as we work hand-in-hand to better define our community.

THE ADMINISTRATION BUILDING REMAINS AN IMPORTANT CENTER FOR TAKING CARE OF FUNCTIONS FOR THE UCI POPULATION.

Office of the

CHANCELLOR

The class of 2002 graduation marks my fourth commencement as chancellor. Each year, I have noticed more vitality on campus. There is an undeniable energy, which I attribute to the activities of UCI students individually and as a community.

I am very proud of the way our campus and medical center responded in numerous ways to the Sept. 11 tragedy. Students, faculty, staff and the public mingled at a candlelight vigil and at a day of remembrance expressing their concern for peace in the world. They channeled sorrow and anger productively into educational events that addressed civil liberties, as well as the issues of global security and public health.

Students also made a statement about the broader goals of education by their community involvement in service and Greek organizations, internships and by contributing to UCI's many outreach efforts to improve the quality of education at its K-12 roots.

Athletics is another example. Early in 2002 we ushered in a whole new era of baseball at UCI, thanks to the foresight of our students who voted to bring back the program that was cancelled a decade ago. We played the first game Jan. 25 in a new Anteater Ball park, and relished the team's success, especially when we beat both UCLA and USC.

As a university we made progress on many other fronts. Again our campus was cited in the top tier of America's public research universities in a variety of publications. Such recognition is a source of pride and makes a UCI degree even more valuable when it appears on a resume to a potential employer, or on a transcript sent to a student's graduate program of choice.

The move from classroom to workplace or graduate school is only one of life's transitions. The UCI Alumni Association is trying to help with all those challenges by building and nurturing closer ties with current students as well as alumni. The connection with one's university can bring lifetime benefits of education, recreation and cultural enjoyment. I hope that UCI students will always feel the satisfaction and pride of belonging to their alma mater.

VICE CHANCELLOR

California is in the midst of dramatic changes: educational, economic, demographic, and social. To carry out its mission as a public research university, and to meet the changing needs of the California and national economies, and to continue to provide access for a growing population of high school graduates, UCI must increase enrollments. Growth in both graduate and undergraduate enrollments is essential to the University's mission as a public research university. Each student population is essential to this mission. Considering them together allows us to craft essential balance that produces the instruction and research commitments to the State's citizens.

PLANNING

& Budget

ROY DORMAIER

VICE CHANCELLOR

UCI continues to prepare for the future and is implementing current plans for world class research facilities, a science institute, and a hospital replacement at the UCI Medical Center.

The five departments that comprise Planning and Budget (P & B) will support the university in these endeavors:

* Academic Budget assists the campus in formulating and administering resource plans, policies, and procedures related to the academic areas of the campus.

* Analytical Studies & Information Management is the official source of campus information, maintaining historical campus data, and providing leadership to assure the quality and accuracy of campus data.

* Budget Office develops and implements policies and procedures for effective management of the campus operating and capital budgets.

* Campus Asset Management manages real estate and other assets for the campus and for the UCIMC in order to achieve the best value.

* Capital Planning manages the planning of facilities and of the space within the facilities to achieve campus objectives.

We are also helping the Irvine campus grow by providing housing, research, and instructional space to meet student, faculty and staff needs.

Cooperative for

PROBLEM RESOLUTION

The Cooperative for Problem Resolution (CPR) was created to provide the University community with a comprehensive and cohesive resource for addressing the problems faced by its students, faculty, and staff. Formal and informal conflict resolution are provided by the following components of CPR:

Office of

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY & DIVERSITY

The OEOD is charged with ensuring the University's compliance with federal, state, and local nondiscrimination laws and policies. The OEOD responds to complaints of discrimination based on protected characteristics, sexual harassment, and retaliation against those who participate in complaint investigations. Both formal and informal investigations are conducted depending on these circumstances. The OEOD also provides educational workshops to the UCI community concerning equitable hiring and employment practices, nondiscrimination, sexual harassment, and cultural awareness, and publishes the annual Affirmative Action Plan.

The year 2001-2002 was indeed significant for the UCI Bookstore. The career of its first and only Director, Jim Harrod, ended in October. Jim retired from the University after 20 years of providing innovative leadership and vision and he will be missed by those within the Student Affairs division. The staff is poised to carry on in fine tradition under newly-appointed Director, Dan Dooros. The primary mission of providing course materials and supplements has been enhanced by an on-line course book reservation system. Like the latest multilevel residential dwelling surfacing on the Irvine Ranch, course bookshelf capacity was increased 15 percent by expanding in vertical fashion to meet the rapid rise in student population. Also on the rise was campus spirit which was noted by brisk sales of UCI gear at the famous annual Halloween Sale. The UCI Bookstore is a store for the students, faculty, staff, and especially alumni. Stop by often and relax in one of the big, comfy chairs.

Housing

OFFICE

The UCI Housing Department would like to congratulate the 2002 graduating class on all its accomplishments and contributions to the UCI community. As you have grown at UCI, Housing has grown as well, with the expansion of Mesa Court and Middle Earth over the last two years, and the planned construction of a new apartment community on the East Campus. As enrollment at UC Irvine continues its growth over the next 10 years, we will expand current housing communities, adding hundreds of bed spaces to Arroyo Vista and Palo Verde. Throughout this expansion, we will uphold our commitment to providing residential environments that foster academic personal growth in a diverse student population. We thank you for your participation in residential programs and in events that have strengthened the UCI community. We hope that living in Mesa Court, Middle Earth, Campus Village, Arroyo Vista, or Irvine Meadows West has enriched your undergraduate experience, given you some great memories, and helped prepare you for an exciting road ahead. Congratulations on your graduation and best wishes for your continued success!

University

ADVANCEMENT

University Advancement takes pride in promoting UCI and its burgeoning list of accomplishments. By establishing and nurturing relationships with a wide range of constituents both within the local community and throughout the state, University Advancement increases support and awareness of UCI's teaching, research and public service missions. The goal: to promote a climate of understanding, support and access between the university and the greater community.

UCI, named this year as a top-10 public university, continues its unprecedented growth. With that growth comes the increasingly important responsibility of maintaining positive, long-term relationships with alumni, the business community, neighboring property owners, donors, lawmakers and the media. In order to successfully achieve its goals as a top-ranked university, UCI must rely in part on community support to help fund research programs, expand its beautiful campus and build its new state-of-the-art hospital. University Advancement works hard to strengthen the bridge between the university and the outside community, encouraging open access, two-way communication and active participation.

Within the University Advancement organization are departments devoted to alumni relations, communications, development, community and state governmental relations, corporate and foundation relations, finance and administration and The UCI Foundation. All work hand-in-hand to promote and advance the university's goals, while encouraging community members to actively participate in ensuring and building upon UCI's continued success.

The path to the future runs through UCI's Career Center. The mission of the Center is to prepare our students to go beyond the classroom and the campus by assisting Anteaters in realizing and fulfilling their career objectives—whether in the job market or striving for graduate studies.

Fifteen professional team members under the direction of Kathryn Van Ness coordinate on-going services and a calendar of special events/programs. On any given day, a student can access the MonsterTRAK website on-line, utilize the resources of an up-to-date career library, enroll in upcoming career-related workshops or schedule an individual appointment with a career counselor.

The Center's "OCI," On Campus Interview Program, attracts more than 300 national, state and local employers to campus. Compac, Enterprise Rent-A-Car, IBM, and Microsoft are among this year's corporate participants. All enrolled students who completed the orientation and have posted their resumes on InterviewTrak can review a roster of upcoming interview sessions, explore corporate websites, schedule their own on-campus interviews via the computer, or submit resumes for employer review.

Career

CENTER

The Career Center also coordinates quarterly Career Weeks, each culminating in a career/job fair. The weeks were designed to equip students with the skills that promote successful interactions with employers leading to employment opportunities. The week's events included seminars in resume writing and critiquing, interviewing skills, and negotiating the offer.

The UCI Cross Cultural Center was the first multicultural center in the UC system, celebrating its 27th year on October 16, 2001. It was built by concerned faculty, staff and students so that members of the UCI community can learn about and appreciate the ethnic and racial diversity at our campus. In preparation for the unprecedented growth of more than 1,000 students each year over the next ten years, the staff and students of the Cross are engaged in a dialogue focused on the expansion of the facility and its services. The growth of UCI's student population also signals the opportunity for the "Cross" to experience its third phase of expansion to make room for the second wave of UCI students. WE are hopeful that the growth of the campus will mean greater acceptance and understanding of diversity in all its form.

The UCI Student Center has been anticipating the increase in enrollment for some time now. To accommodate the ever-growing number of Anteaters, last spring UCI students voted to expand the Student Center by more than 50 percent. When completed in 2005, the new facility will expand existing study and lounge space, meeting and conference facilities, the Food Court, the Cross-Cultural Center, and access to the Internet throughout the building.

But for now in order to maximize the current space to better serve students, the Student Center has enhanced the use of outdoor space by installing eye-catching shade structures on the Terrace Patio, at the Courtyard study Lounge Patio, and by Cornerstone Café. These changes make all of these spaces more comfortable places for students to hangout, study and meet with friends. Cornerstone Café also has a new 'hip' look with an appealing and creative design on the floor as well as new furniture. Internet wireless access is also available throughout the lounges in the building as well as on the patios surrounding the Student Center.

In the future, we will be making more changes to meet the needs of future generations of UCI students. The Student is 'about' making the UCI experience the best it can be, constantly evaluating what we do, talking to students, and getting their ideas and input, and then changing with the times.

With over 81,000 degrees earned by more than 75,000 alumni since its founding, UC Irvine alumni have taken the wisdom and education they received at UCI and have made great influences in their communities and the rest of the nation and world. The impact that UC Irvine alumni have on the greater society can be felt in spheres of science, art, literature, politics, business, education, and beyond. Many alumni give their time and resources to their Alma Mater by donating money to UCI for scholarships, by participating as panelists in Career Night programs for undergraduates, and by volunteering to serve on the UCI Alumni Association Board of Directors. Through their active interest and participation, many alumni remain committed to increase quality of UC Irvine's undergraduate and graduate programs.

This year, the UCI Alumni Association strove to host a full calendar of programs and events, locally and regionally, that promoted the mission of the association, expanded membership and volunteerism among alumni. We also developed and hosted programs and events for students which were meant to promote interest in alumni activities and forge long-lasting relationships to the campus and community. These activities included, among others, senior class open house, class year reunions, Homecoming activities, and the Annual Lauds & Laurels Awards Ceremony and Dinner.

The UCI Alumni Association salutes the newest UC Irvine graduates, and we wish you the best as you embark on your new careers and continued learning. We hope the best for each and every one of you, and we hope that you, like many before you, remain committed to giving back to our great institution.

Center for Educational Partnerships

The Center for Educational Partnerships engages UCI students in public and community services using innovative, 21st century models of educational outreach. Working in local schools and agencies, UCI students tutor, demonstrate lab experiences, direct plays, and otherwise inspire K-12 students through Center programs such as the America Reads

Challenge, Humanities Out There, StarBridge, and others. Combining the efforts of UCI faculty and students in unique ways, the Center fulfills its mandate from the UC Regents to increase college-going rates among traditionally under-served groups and to “level the playing field” with respect to UC eligibility.

The programs highlighted on the following pages represent just some of the programs and partnerships coordinated by the Center. Working to support the goals of the educational community with exceptional programs, the Center has assisted elementary students to boost their reading skills, intermediate students to become inspired by mathematics, and high school students to be successful in advanced placement courses. In addition, community college transfer students have become better prepared for transfer to UCI, elementary teachers have learned new teaching methods, and UCI students have been mentored by world-class faculty. Through its many programs, the Center provides the student body with community service experiences that impact Orange and Los Angeles Counties significantly.

TRANSFER INSTITUTE (SSTI)

More than 1,000 high school and middle school students are hosted each summer in residential programs at UCI. Undergraduate students serve as residential assistants for the programs, assist students with required classroom activities, and serve as mentors to budding scientists, writers and researchers. Summer programs are between ten days and four weeks long, and UCI students play a key role in providing a successful experience for potential UCI students.

Once at UCI, students also receive assistance. CFEP programs for UCI students work to support limited income, physically disabled, and first-generation college students, and to increase the quality and quantity of under-represented students receiving bachelor's degrees. Students involved in these programs receive financial support, mentoring, assistance with graduate school applications, and participate in internships or research experiences.

In its goal to enhance the academic preparation of low-income and under-represented students from local communities, CFEP provides many programs to neighboring schools. UCI students participate in valuable and essential activities such as academic and career advising, tutorial assistance, and workshop presentations. Through these experiences, many UCI students explore career options working with students in areas such as teaching and counseling.

Many CFEP programs provide support in specific areas, such as mathematics, science, or writing. UCI students with a particular interest in these areas can be involved in high school and elementary classrooms with students.

Students at UCI also work in elementary and middle school classrooms. Future teachers find significant rewards in the tutoring, mentoring, and support activities provided here.

Right: In the middle of the Social Science Plaza, students reconvene to talk about what they have learned throughout the day.

Potential and current transfer students to UCI are also assisted through CFEP outreach programs. UCI students who transferred from community colleges are particularly valuable as assistants in these programs, sharing their experiences and supporting new transfer students.

Editor's Note

I will admit that when I first applied for the position of Editor-in-Chief, I did not expect to be handed so much responsibility and work to last me for the rest of my life! I will add that even though we faced a lot of nights that seemed endless and deadlines that just would not end, I had a lot of fun. I feel truly honored to have worked with an immensely talented group.

I believe that somewhere in between the myriad of assignments we all had fun. C'mon whom else would you like to spend Thursday evenings with and make quick runs to Rice Garden with? I know you all loved spending your weekend in the yearbook room. Oh c'mon no need to lie! I am sure that ten years from now you will all miss the deadlines and my constant requests for pages, pictures, and so on. You will one day crave to design, sell, and put together a yearbook. Well most of you will, anyway.

Well, once again I must thank every single one of you for being a part of such a great team and I hope that the tasks you have encountered and the friendships that you have made will have a lasting imprint. My time is up and now the yearbook torch needs to be passed on to the next victim! Well not quite, but I wish you all the luck in the world when producing next year's book and there is not a doubt in my mind that it will be great!

Silvia Ceballos

Advisor's Note

Advisor's Note

The best words an advisor can share are those of thanks and appreciation. Good luck and good fortune to my students who will be graduating this year. Good luck and good fortune to those who will be returning to produce Anthology 2003! All of you have enriched my life and I'm very thankful to have had this shared experience.

Joanne Shaw

Colophon

Volume 26 of Anthology, the University of California, Irvine, yearbook was printed by Herff Jones Yearbooks in Shawnee-Mission, Kansas. Alison Jones was our yearbook representative and Julie Bogart was our customer service representative.

One thousand two hundred copies of the 9x12 size yearbook were printed. Binding was Smythe sewn with round & backed, 160-point Davey's binder board was used. Of the 444 pages, 96 pages were printed in four-color process. The book sold for $50 in the fall, $55 in the winter and $60 in the spring.

The editor was Silvia Ceballos. Naem Mohamed, Avita Jaswal, Ronald Baldonado and Esther Nguyen designed the cover. The cover has a custom board-level die on the front lid and a custom embossing die for the spine. Base material is Nova Tex Wedgewood, with Cordova Grain. School designed four-color, tip-on is gloss laminated. The endsheets were printed in four-color with different designs on the front and back. The page layouts were designed by Roland Chiu, Esther Nguyen, Nelson Xysavanh, Ronald Baldonado, Avita Jaswal, Stacey Ware and Naem Mohamed.

Typefaces used were Biffo for headlines and Galliard for captions, body copy and subheads.

Senior portraits and group shots for campus resident, clubs, and Greek sections were taken by Lauren Studios of California. Representative: Paul Bilgore.

Professional photographer Glenn Feingerts photographed events, players and coaches for the athletics section. All other photos were taken by yearbook staff student photographers and were developed at Pro Photo in Irvine. All ads were sold by Dash Perkins of Scholastic Advertising of Nevada.

The student staff produced the yearbook using one Dell Pentium 4 180 GHz and two Dell Pentium 3 900 MHz and a HP LaserJet 5 SI. The software programs used were Adobe PageMaker 6.5, Photoshop 5.0 and Illustrator 8.0. Deadline materials were submitted on Iomega Zip Disks.
