Each workshop nurtures skills to see beneath the surface and move to the core of what students need to thrive, while helping raise professional satisfaction for teachers and other school staff.

DAY 1

Welcome to Your Web

Co-led by Corrie Hruby & Dante Huffine

Educators don’t often get the time and support to focus on their own resiliency. In this introductory workshop, you’ll get that opportunity! Research shows there’s a correlation between a school’s support for their educators and the job performance and satisfaction of their educators. This workshop will advance educator resiliency — personally and professionally. You will reflect on your Web of Support inside and outside of school, and you will discover the dynamic balancing act between those two Webs. You will walk away with seeing your own strengths and a plan with strategies for growing your own Web of Support.

Deepening Your Resiliency

Co-led by Kerrie Carl & Jodi Mar

For participants who have previously attended a Brightways Learning Resilient Educator workshop.

Building from previous workshops, this highly engaging session will lead you to reflect more deeply on your own Web of Support, along with self-reflection of your practices for self-care and as a professional educator.

DAY 2

Authentic Connections: Personalized Strategies for Student Engagement

Co-led by Nita Yurriiq Rearden & David Pavish

For all Day 1 participants.

How do you perceive and connect with others who are different than you? What knowledge do you carry with you and share? How do you become aware of what’s around you and grow? During this cultural resiliency portion of our workshop, we’ll actively explore cross-cultural relationships — digging below the surface of “what culture looks like.” We will also reflect on and discuss how our self-awareness relates to how we connect with others of both similar and different cultures, especially Alaska Native. You will leave with a polished appreciation for your own nature and identity, along with some strategies for building trust and connection with your students and colleagues. Strategies you practice here will help you become more culturally responsive to your students, school, and community in aspects previously hidden or overshadowed — allowing a fresh perspective to shine through that will further boost your resiliency!

1 Continuing Education Credit (via UAA) per workshop is available; Fee must be paid by the participant. Registration information will be provided to attendees in advance of event.

OBJECTIVES

- To bolster educators’ rapport building skills that increase trust and efficacy in their students’ learning
- To teach educators responsive skills that elicit change
- To show educators how to create and maintain a positive learning environment
- To develop personal energy and wellness strategies for teaching longevity

Registration Fee — $249

Group discount available, see website

Lodging @Alyeska — $159+tax; mention Brightways Learning when calling to book for special rate

To Register: Visit BrightwaysLearning.org/events