SUMMER VACATION

By Chey Perkins

My favorite things to do over the summer that you might like too. One good vacation idea is to go swimming. A good idea is to visit family and friends. A fun idea is to go camping and hiking. An amazing idea is to play lots of games. Another good idea is to not go to summer school. Last idea is to get exercise and get out of the house a lot of the time. Have a good summer and keep up the good work for the last week of school!

Pop-Tarts Cited from Huff Post by Colton Malson

When Kellogg's first introduced the toaster pastry in 1964, it was unfrosted and came with four flavors: Apple Currant Jelly, Strawberry, Blueberry and Brown Sugar-Cinnamon. If you look at the old ads and design of the Pop-Tart, it appears that you used to cut along the dotted lines and pull them apart.

Post was the first to come up with the toaster pastry, calling them Country Squares. When asked for a comment, Kellogg's told HuffPost Taste, Post introduced Country Squares just before Kellogg debuted Pop-Tarts. Originally the Pop-Tarts product was called Fruit Scones. It was later changed. In 2001 the Air Force sent Afghanistan aid in the form of Pop-Tarts and Herb Rice to promote good will.

The Pop-Tarts have been around since 1964, 57 years! Overall I think Pop-Tarts are a great snack to have in the morning or a late night snack.

What To Do With Your Friends

By Kaylen Duric

Well, if you and your friends are bored, you can all find the same book and then see who gets the farthest at the end of the week. Me and my friends, Breanna and Natalie, do this and our rules are that the winner gets to choose the next book. And the second place winner gets to choose the second book. I will show you Breanna's and Natalie's opinion on the challenge. Breanna said, "The book challenge is fun to do with your friends and classmates. Also, I think you should make your own rules. I think the first and second place winners should choose the books so then it is fair." Natalie says, "Makes you read and is helpful with reading skills. Make your own rules. The winner gets to choose the next book so the winner can have a prize."
