INTRODUCTION

Craigslist is an amazing online marketplace where you can purchase or share just about anything directly with other members of your community. If you're looking to buy a used couch or even find a free one, Craigslist should be among the first places that you look. There are also countless job postings, ride shares, and rooms for rent posted on Craigslist every single day that drive constant traffic to the site to the tune of nearly 50 million unique visitors per month. That's a lot of people!

Many people don't realize this but because Craigslist is so absurdly popular the dating section alone manages to capture over two million visits per day, making it by far the most popular dating resource on the Internet. Unlike other dating websites however, Craigslist is not designed to make dating or finding your soul mate easy.

Other dating websites have you create an account including pictures and a personality profile that will help match you up with other people who share common tastes and interests. Craigslist does none of that. It treats people exactly the same way it treats used desks, TVs, or potted plants... Relying completely on quick first impression advertising to promote everything in their digital classified ad space.

Because Craigslist isn't designed to be a dating site it can actually be quite difficult to meet other people on it, which is one of the reasons most guys who try to use it for online dating end up striking out.

Unlike traditional dating websites where guys and girls make personality profiles then browse around looking for someone they find attractive, Craigslist relies on bulletin posts listed out in chronological order. This completely changes the dynamic of online dating from conventional dating websites in several key ways.

First of all, because there are no profiles Craigslist offers total anonymity. Even your email address is protected by Craigslist's email forwarding service which assigns you an encrypted email address when you respond to a Craigslist post. Many women are more comfortable browsing Craigslist for this very reason because they don't want to register at a dating site and advertise to everyone that they are looking to hook up.

Secondly, traditional dating websites function similarly to bars and clubs in that women play a passive role of hanging around looking sexy while men actively hit on them and try to seduce them. On all other dating websites it's the man's job to send messages to women he's interested in while women just sit back reading emails and look pretty. Because of this women are constantly bombarded with messages from tons of guys every day when they register at an online dating website, but on Craigslist the roles are completely reversed. Because women browse Craigslist for the anonymity most of the time they never make a post themselves. Instead men post what they're looking for and if what they write is compelling enough to attract women then they are the ones who get their email flooded with responses.

The third and final way Craigslist is completely different from other dating websites is its chronological posting structure. Instead of creating a static profile that others can view whenever they want Craigslist has you post what you are interested in at any given moment in time and after a few hours depending on how many other posts from other people show up your post will sink to the bottom of the page where it likely won't be seen again. This means you are going to have to post repeatedly and it's important for you to post during the time of day when the most women are likely to be looking in order to maximize your visibility. There is also a search function on Craigslist that allows people to search for posts according to specific words or topics they are interested in so having the right language in your post can give you an additional long term advantage.

It's important to note that the anonymity Craigslist offers also makes it a potentially dangerous place. There are a lot of spammers on Craigslist who are trying their best to capture your email address or other personal information. Nearly all of the posts in Women seeking Men (w4m) are spam designed to scam you. Anytime someone asks for your personal email address without engaging in a real line of dialogue they are probably a scam.

NEVER GIVE YOUR CREDIT CARD TO ANYONE ON CRAIGSLIST!!!

There are lots of people pretending to be women on Craigslist either posting ads themselves or responding to the ads you post that will try to convince you to sign up on a third party website to verify that you're a trustworthy person so they can meet up with you. Those websites are scams and are just trying to collect your email or credit card information. Never sign up for anything like that.

The best way to verify if someone who responds to your ad is a human is by asking them a question like “what part of the city do you live in?” or really anything that would require them to give you a specific answer. If they can’t do that then they definitely do not deserve your time or energy (and especially not your email or credit card!)

There are also a lot of guys on Craigslist who may try to seduce you by responding to your ad and offering you sexual services. If you’re not interested then simply ignore them. You are not obligated to respond to anyone who contacts you through Craigslist so whenever you are approached by a person you aren’t attracted to it’s often best to just forget about them. They will more than likely think you are just another spam post and forget all about you.

If you don’t feel comfortable or safe meeting someone that has contacted you through Craigslist then it’s up to you to decide how to proceed. Normally when you meet someone for the first time it’s best to invite them to someplace public like a bar or restaurant so you can introduce yourself. You’re not obligated to buy them drinks but if you want to it’s entirely up to you. Depending on the context of the post that attracted them, you’ll know what sort of escapades they’re down for. I’ve met up with girls at coffee shops, pet stores, hotel lobbies, bars, clubs, and I even met one at Target which I thought was strange but we ended up having sex in a van in the parking lot!

GETTING SET UP

Before you start posting in the personals section of Craigslist you should create an email account specifically to be used just for this purpose. You’ll be receiving a lot of spam that you don’t want going to your regular email address. Gmail, hotmail, and yahoo are all great email services to use and when you create this email consider using a fake name or at least changing your last name to avoid the chance of possible responders stalking you on facebook or other places.

Once you have your new email address it’s time to create a Craigslist account for yourself. Go to www.craigslist.org and on the left hand column, click the “My Account” link. Then on the account log in page click the link to create a new account and set it up using your new email address. After you create your account you'll have to use the email address signed up with to log in click the verification link. Once that's done you are ready to get started. Craigslist doesn't require you to make an account in order to post online but doing so gives you the ability to save your post history which makes re-posting ads much easier.

Craigslist is divided up into States and Cities and you'll obviously want to focus your posts on the city you're in. If your city isn't listed then pick the one that's nearest to you.

One last thing you're going to need are a few pictures ready for your posts. You don't need to include pictures of yourself in the posts you put up but every post needs to have some sort of picture attached to it. Craigslist has a button at the top of the page as part of its filter options that when clicked allows only posts with pictures to show up. Most people searching Craigslist exclusively look at posts with pictures so in order to get the most visibility for your posts you need to have a picture attached.

Do a google images search for "seduction" or "romantic" and when you find some things that stand out Right Click on the picture then save it to your computer. Make a folder and put at least 10 pictures in there that you want to use. I've used picture of cityscapes, puppies, people cuddling, black and white seductive photos, and some straight up hard core porn pictures all with great success.

You'll also need some good looking photos of yourself to send out in your follow up emails once you start to get responses. Just as you're going to want women to send you pictures of themselves when they respond to your ads, they are going to want to see a picture of you once you start talking. If you're a photogenic model then this will be easy for you but for the rest of us I have a few tips to get the best results from your selfies.

For face pictures it's a good idea to submit a handful of pictures to a photo rating website like www.rankmyphotos.com where people can quickly score your picture to let you know which ones are your most attractive. Typically pictures where you're doing something interesting are better received than ones taken in the bathroom or sitting in front of your computer.

Show off your assets to make yourself stand out. If you've got tattoos take a few pictures of them. If you've got six pack abs then for sure get a shot of that. If you can get a good looking picture of your body without your face that is one of the best types of photos to use in your posts. If you want to take a dick picture then go for it. I don't recommend using pictures of your cock in your posts but if someone you're chatting with asks for one and you're comfortable flashing it around then it could come in handy.

CRAIGSLIST LINGO

On Craigslist people often speak in code. In order to understand what's being said, here is a breakdown of common acronyms and lingo to help you out.

CRAIGSLIST PERSONALS CODE:

The first letter is for the one seeking and the last letter is the one being searched for.

M4W - Man for Woman

M4T - Man for Transgender (or Transvestite... a cross between a man and a woman)

MW4MW - Man and Woman couple swap with another Man and Woman couple

MW4M - Man and Woman couple looking for another Man

ACRONYMS & ABBREVIATIONS:

NSA - No Strings Attached (just wants to fuck)

HWP - Height/Weight Proportionate (Normal human shaped body... not too fat or round)

DDF - Drug and Disease Free (No sexually transmitted diseases or drug use)

FWB - Friends With Benefits (Ongoing casual sex relationship without commitment)

JO - Jerk Off (Masturbate with hands)

BBW - Big Beautiful Woman (A woman who is somewhat overweight)

BBC - Big Black Cock (Yep... exactly)

ISO - In Search Of (Specifically looking for)

LTR - Long Term Relationship (More than just hooking up... They want dating)

SP - Strictly Platonic (Just friends no sex)

Sub - Submissive (Wants to be told what to do sexually)

Dom - Dominant (Likes to tell others what to do sexually)

BDSM - Bondage Domination Sadism Masochism (Whips, chains, and blindfolds)

ABR - Adult Breastfeeding Relationship (Pretend to be a baby and drink milk from titties)

ANR - Adult Nursing Relationship (Same as ABR)

420 - Marijuana (Often see 420 friendly which means they are cool with smoking)

Cam - Camera (Means they want to record what you do together)

PNP - Party And Play (Sex with Drugs)

CRAIGSLIST CODE WORDS:

Some words have secret meanings you'll have to watch out for.

Donations - Money for sex work

Roses - Dollars (If someone says they want 50 roses that means they want $50 for sex)

Spoil - Pay for sex (If you say you want to spoil someone they will expect you to pay them)

Skiing - Using cocaine

Skittles - Ecstasy

Snow - Cocaine

Tina - Crystal meth

Many of these code words will cause your post to be immediately flagged and removed from Craigslist so be careful how you use them.

CRAIGSLIST PERSONALS

The two main areas where you'll be posting personal ads are under Men Seeking Women and Casual Encounters M4W (Men for Women). Men Seeking Women posts are typically less aggressive and appeal more to women looking for long term relationships (LTR) while M4W is for balls out one night stands.

Though it may seem like seducing women searching for a boyfriend in Men Seeking Women will take more work than someone desperately looking to hook up in Casual Encounters this isn't at all the case. Most women aren't comfortable directly announcing to a stranger that they just want to fuck even if that's how they really feel. Many women are too embarrassed to even respond to a provocative ad because of the connotations it implies about them, so they'd rather respond to an innocent ad that gives them plausible deniability.

I can't tell you how many women I've met who start their conversation by saying "I don't even know how I ended up in the Craigslist dating section... I was just looking for furniture and then somehow found your ad." Women don't want to be perceived as horny, lonely, or desperate so they try to pretend that they just innocently stumbled onto your ad in the middle of their busy day. For this reason, some of the most effective ads for attracting women are the most innocent and unassuming because they give them the ability to respond without seeming desperate for sex.

I've talking with countless women who've told me that they browse the Casual Encounters section to laugh at the shameless flood of dick pictures posted there. Often times groups of women will be viewing this section together joking about the posts they find. Even coming from this lighthearted context I've had women stumble across my posts and step aside, overwhelmed by their need to respond.

The trick to getting women on Craigslist is to stand out and then captivate their imagination so that you become the focus of their sexual fantasies.

STAND OUT

TIMING:

When it comes to getting noticed on Craigslist there are a several key factors to consider. First and foremost is timing. The first page of ads always gets the most attention but depending on where you live there may be hundreds of new posts made in the dating section of Craigslist every day. During peak hours the volume of new posts can be so intense that an ad may only stay on the first page for a matter of minutes before getting shoved onto the next page where it is less likely to ever get viewed. So if you post an ad looking for sex at 7:00 PM on a Friday night like everyone else, you'll be lucky to have your ad stay on the front page for more than ten minutes. Conversely if you try posting midday on a Wednesday your ad will stay visible much longer but fewer women will likely be looking. Generally the longer your ad is on the front page the better. Even if fewer people are looking when it's there it is still more likely to be seen than when it's pushed further back.

To maximize your ad visibility it's best to post a variety of ads throughout the day. I've found that posting 3 times per day yields the best results.

- Post once around 9:00am to catch women checking Craigslist as they settle into work or their morning routine.
- Again around noon for those bored and searching at lunch.
- And finally in the evening between 7:00 - 9:00pm as women are getting home from work and looking for someone to take their mind off their busy day.

If you post too many ads per day Craigslist will think you're spamming them and lock up your account. You're free to post as much as you want but if you post more than 3 times per day it might be a good idea to have multiple accounts that you post from so Craigslist doesn't stop you.

VARIETY:

Craigslist gives you the option to include a bunch of helpful details in your posts that will make you stand out. You have the ability to include your specific location which is very helpful for finding people nearby. You can also include your age, body type, height, and relationship statue. It's always good to be somewhat accurate with this data because you plan to actually meet the people who respond and if you're too misleading they'll probably be very disappointed and confused.

That being said you NEED to experiment with these options. If you live in a small town near a big city change your specific location to the bigger city and you'll receive a lot more traffic to your post. Change your age plus or minus a few years. If you're 30 years old there may be women who are only searching for guys 29 and younger, or even women who only want guys over 35. If you don't experiment with changing your age you could be missing out on a ton of opportunities to hook up. Just don't go crazy and tell people you're 18 when you're 50 if you can't convincingly pull it off.

Craigslist has a wide variety of body type options to choose from and you need to experiment with variations here too. If you're unsure what to go with just pick Average, but it's worth trying anything that you remotely think might apply to your physique even if you think it might not be flattering to admit because there are likely women out there specifically looking for those body types. It's also a good idea to try different heights though keep in mind that typically women are interested in men who are taller.

Status is an interesting option because you may assume that your best bet is to let people know that you're single. Listing yourself as single is often a good choice but that's not always the case. Lots of women are attracted to married men or guys they know are already in a relationship, especially women who are themselves in relationships and looking to cheat on their partner. Women that are cheating don't want some single guy falling in love with them and messing up their relationship. Knowing that you're already committed to someone else is comforting to them because they know you have as much at risk if you get caught as they do. For this reason it's a good idea to experiment with changing your status to married or partnered for some of the most seductive Craigslist posts.

HEADLINES:

The next thing you need is an eye catching headline that women can't help but click on. It can be a real challenge to make your ad stand out in the midst of so many other seemingly identical posts. Typical headlines say things like "Lets Fuck!", "Huge cock looking for fun", or "nsa hookup for fwb." Not only are these headlines not captivating, they're so common they blend right in and women hardly even notice them.

To stand out you want to use your headline to inform women that your ad contains information they NEED TO KNOW. The easiest way to do this is to use a headline that blatantly states this fact upfront:

You need to know this first
This is what you're looking for
You deserve this
This post is different from the others...

Headlines like these draw attention because they boldly say that the ad you've written has information that women need to find out. These headlines are effective because they're different from what everyone else is posting and they promise that the content of your ad will also be something interesting and new.

Another fantastic strategy is to use your headline to ask a provocative question or make a statement that promises to answer an existing question they may have. There are certain questions that women just can't ignore especially when it comes to sex and dating. Questions like:

Have you had sex like this?
How to get a boyfriend
How to have multiple orgasms
How do you screw up a blowjob?
The best way to spend Thursday night?

These are the sort of questions you might see on the cover of Cosmopolitan Magazine. Magazines like that know exactly what captivates women so pay attention to the headlines they use on their cover because they're a great source of inspiration for your posts.

Seductive headlines are another excellent way to attract lots of women. These headlines appeal to their fantasies similar to the titles or romance novels. One look at these headline and women instinctively need to open your post and start reading.

It's time for your escape
More than casual
New temptation
Our embrace
The Dream: part one.

Another clever strategy for writing headlines is to include keywords that women searching Craigslist might use for other reasons. The job posting section of Craigslist is the most popular feature of the site and people are constantly searching Craigslist for apartments, furniture, or other household items. Single women search for these things every day yet not everyone visits the Craigslist dating section. By using the words Job, Apartment, Couch, Guitar, etc. in your headline you will show up in their searches and potentially snag a few unexpected dates.

Being a girlfriend shouldn't be a job
My one bedroom apartment needs a woman's touch
I have the TV and Couch. You bring the movie
I'll play guitar, you sing for me

OUTSTANDING CONTENT:

Now that you've got your post up at the right time for maximum exposure and your eye catching headline is getting tons of views, it's time to focus on the meaty content that makes up your actual post. Take a look at what most guys are posting on Craigslist and you'll see some of the most shamefully pathetic attempts to attract women ever conceived by man. For example a typical post on Craigslist might look something like this:

"Looking for them who like it deep a sexy guy can host what's Gud iam wait for u must b moilbe or close by"

I just went on Craigslist and clicked the first post on the page at random and that was what it said... and as you might expect it was accompanied by a picture of a dick.

Now I'm sure you can do better than that but if you look through posts you'll see that the vast majority are less than two or three sentences and they're mostly just explaining that the person attached to the dick in the photo is down for NSA casual sex RIGHT NOW. This isn't an effective strategy for picking up women. It's borderline crazy that anyone would ever think that posting like this is a good idea, but the reason guys do it is because they're making the mistake of assuming that women think about sex the same way as men. If a man sees a post on Craigslist with a picture of a naked woman and a few lines about when and how she needs to get fucked, that's exactly what most guys are looking for. Guys are turned on at the sight of naked women and are motivated by facts and directions. Women don't think at all that way, in fact their mind is exactly the opposite.

Most women aren't immediately aroused at the sight of a naked man. No matter how awesome you think your dick is women won't stop what they're doing and come running after looking at a picture of your penis. Women also know that nearly every guy they ever meet would be happy to have NSA casual sex with them at any moment. Posting this information on Craigslist does nothing for them except maybe shower them with disappointment for the human race.

Women need to be seduced. They want to escape their boring lives and get caught up in some ridiculous fantasy like they seen on TV. They want to be swept away in the moment with uncontrollable sexual desire by a man who knows exactly how to treat a woman.

When women are feeling horny and they're looking on Craigslist to hook up, this is the kind of encounter they are after. Romance novels are packed full of drama and intrigue designed to capture women's imaginations. Not only are the scenarios they depict exciting, the sensual language they're written with gets women hot and ready faster than anything else on the planet. Successful Craigslist posts that harness the panty melting power of seductive language use erotic storytelling to bring women to their knees!

Now, you've probably never read a romance novel and I don't blame you. Most guys haven't. They aren't made for us. But once I discovered the power they had over women and started using knowledge from them in my Craigslist posts I buckled down and read a ton. These books are downright dirty. Full of kinky stuff wilder than most porn I'm comfortable watching. To get an idea of what I'm talking about and fill your mind with erotic inspiration check out <http://www.literotica.com/>. There you can view thousands of user submitted short stories on just about every pornographic topic imaginable.

TYPES OF POSTS:

My experiences have shown that the length of an ad has little impact on its success. If it takes one paragraph or two pages of text to get your point across, women will savor every word so long as it's compelling. I've experimented with a wide variety of ad styles and sizes and there are three main types of posts that are the most effective.

Seductive Posts - These are the erotic posts I've been telling you about that are best used in Casual Encounters M4W. The sort that captures a woman's sexual imagination and has her squirming in her seat wanting more. These posts tell a story about how you're going to passionately rip their clothes off and nail their pussy to the ground with your throbbing rock hard cock.

Seductive posts are full of descriptive language that focuses on the heightened senses experienced during an unbelievably exciting sexual encounter. They deliver the passion women are seeking as they sit at their computer bored out of their minds looking at Craigslist for some escape. Through seductive storytelling you become their fantasy as they imagine how amazing it will feel to be completely ravished by your sexual power.

Women who respond to this sort of post are 100% down to fuck and you've got to strike while the iron is hot. Once you've turned a woman on with a seductive post you don't want to give them time to cool off or get distracted by anyone else. The sooner you respond back and start exchanging information the more likely your success will be.

Romantic Posts - When posting in Men Seeking Women it's often wise to tone the sexual language down a bit. There are many women browsing this section looking for a potential boyfriend and you'll scare them off by being too sexually aggressive.

Romantic posts describe the sort of subtle intimate experiences that people share when they're in a relationship. They portray you as a caring and attentive person looking to share some magical moments with a woman. These posts will lead you down a path more similar to regular dating. If you're looking for a girlfriend then this is absolutely perfect. Even though these posts may seem more innocent the odds of getting laid on the first date are still extremely high because this is Craigslist and sex is what most women there are looking for.

Innocent Posts - Lots of women aren't comfortable responding to ads that are too aggressive or provocative because of what they think you might insinuate about them being too sexually easy or needy. Women want to maintain an illusion of innocence so often posts without any direct sexuality are the easiest for them to respond to. Non-sexual innocent posts (otherwise known as "Netflix and Chill") also give women the sense that you're a normal guy just looking to hang out and make friends. There are a lot of perverts and creeps posting on Craigslist that women really would rather avoid so posting something completely normal makes them feel at ease.

Innocent posts when accompanied with an attractive face photo of yourself tend to get more responses than any other type of ad. Posts about watching TV, playing video games, or cooking dinner get a ton of responses. It may seem like the women interested in doing these casual activities with you would be harder to hook up with than someone responding to a seductive post but this is hardly the case. Granted when a woman responds to a seductive post you know for a fact that she is looking to hook up, but from my experience women responding to innocent posts typically want the exact same thing.

I can't tell you how many times women have responded to posts I've made about watching TV shows then just five messages into our conversation they start sending me naked pictures of themselves. 90% of the time the women responding to these posts don't even have any interest in the topic they're responding to. If you do this right women will respond regardless of whether they're familiar with the show, game, or experience you're posting about and want to fuck your brains out simply for being normal!

POST MANAGEMENT

In order to maximize your post visibility and overall response rate from women on Craigslist you need to keep posting regularly. Unfortunately, posting the same ad multiple times per day is IMPOSSIBLE. Craigslist has a duplicate content rule that recognizes when a post is repeated too often and identifies it as spam. So in order to post as many times as you need to for maximum responses, you need to have multiple ads running throughout the day.

If you have an ad you really like and want to repeat it you will have to make a few changes to it first.

Create a new headline
Change at least 50% of the ad text
Use a different photo or rename it

Craigslist requires you to wait at least 72 hours before you can repost an ad. If you're posting three times per day you will need to have at least nine ads ready (3 ads per day for 3 days) to post before your first set is able to be renewed.

Fortunately Craigslist makes it incredibly easy to organize and renew posts when the time is right. So long as you have a Craigslist account every post you make is saved within the My Account section. From there you can see which posts are Active, Expired, or Deleted. Once a post is made active it stays on Craigslist, gradually getting pushed further back in pages and visibility. After 72 hours the option to renew appears beside your post and all you have to do is click it at the appropriate time of day. When you click renew your post will instantly return to the top of the list on the very front page ready to be viewed by eagerly searching women.

It's here in the backend of the My Accounts section where you have the ability to modify your posts as needed. If a post isn't getting the sort of responses you're after you can edit the text and make adjustments. Try changing the headline, using a different age, body type, or height. This is where the experimentation takes place that will allow you to discover what women in your area are specifically looking for.

DIGITAL WINGMAN

By posting regularly throughout the day Craigslist lines up dates with the absolute minimal amount of effort. Getting posts online takes only seconds leaving you free to work, play, or just sit back and relax while your inbox gets flooded with responses from horny local women.

The beauty of this approach is that it opens up so many options for your sex life. Over time you'll end up connecting with countless women who you'll be interacting with at various levels at any given time. You'll be emailing and texting some to set up encounters, chatting with others you've already met, and going out with new women as often as you want.

So long as you continue updating and renewing your posts you'll have a constant supply of interested women to draw from. As your dating pool grows maintaining contact with all the women you meet can become a bit challenging. It's always a good idea to double check the names and email addresses of the women who respond to be sure you haven't already met them before from a previous post. Occasionally you'll see the same women respond to multiple posts over time and it can be awkward to reintroduce yourself more than once... especially if you've already hooked up.

RESPONSES

Once your posts are listed you WILL get responses. Many of these responses will be spam and some will be real women. It's important that you're able to tell the two apart so you won't waste too much time chasing robots. It's pretty easy to identify most spam without even having to send any response at all but some can be a little tricky to sort out. Basically there are three major types of spam you'll encounter:

Link bait - This sort of spam tries to get you to go to a website and register an account so you can then talk to the woman who sent you there. No real woman would ever do that so these are 100% not worth your time. Do not bother even clicking the link. Normally they send you to a site that will collect your email address and other demographic data or possibly even your credit card. DO NOT GIVE ANYONE ON CRAIGSLIST YOUR CREDIT CARD NUMBER!!!

Sometimes the link won't be on the first response you receive from a "women." At first it may just seem like a woman who's interested in you but isn't responding to anything from your actual ad directly. It should raise a flag for you if the response you receive seems generic and unspecific without any reference to the post that brought them to you. If you chose to respond to someone who has reached out to you in such a vague way I recommend asking them a specific question in your reply. I typically ask what part of town they're in because it's something I actually want to know if I plan to travel to hook up with them and if they completely ignore it in their response back then I know they're just spam and move on.

This sort of link bait can get very elaborate stretching out into four or five canned emails pretending to be really interested in you. Once you respond they will continue to insist that they just need you to go to another website to verify for them that you're a safe person they can be comfortable meeting with. I repeat there are no websites that perform that service and no real woman will ever ask you to do anything like that so just ignore anything remotely resembling this sort of response.

Photo miners - Some responses you receive that may seem legit are actually just people trying to collect pictures or other types of information from you. Lots of people are going to ask for your picture when they respond to your post and it's usually a good idea to send them one if you want to continue the conversation. Photo miners usually reply to your post with a very short statement asking for a picture without any relationship to what you've written (this should always be a red flag for you). If you want to reply to them even though they seem to have gone to the very minimal effort reaching out to you it's your choice. If you do, it's a good idea to ask a specific question and maybe state the fact that you want to confirm that they are real before you sending them anything else. If they reply back with an intelligent response then carry on with your seduction, otherwise just move along.

Photo miners are mostly harmless even though they're annoying. Typically they're just collecting images for the sort of spam dating websites that claim to be full of horny local singles but really are not. Those sites pretend to have lots of active members and you just need to pay to join to be able to connect with them. It's all a big scam. The photos are harvested from Craigslist and other places all over the internet then people pretend to be a local single just to keep you subscribed though they never actually meet up.

There are other types of miners out there as well. You may receive a response from a "woman" who says she is interested in you and includes her phone number or email address asking you to message her directly. DON'T DO IT!!! If you call, text, or email them directly they will capture your email address or phone number which is all they're after. People sell email addresses and phone numbers to spam companies and you don't need any of that nonsense. Always stay within the protected Craigslist email system. As long as you are communicating within an email exchange that started as a response to your post then nobody can get your actual email address. Always exchange a few emails and confirm that you're actually talking to a real person before giving out any additional information such as your pictures, phone number, or email address.

Photo bombers - Photo bombers are similar to photo miners in that they are usually trying to collect data such as your pictures, phone number, or email address, but they do it in the laziest way possible. Typically a photo bomber won't even write anything in their response to you. It will either be blank or just have your own text from your post copied and sent right back to you. The mechanism they use to try to get you to respond is by including a sexy picture with text added over it asking you to reply to their real email address. This type of spam is the easiest to spot because it is so completely different from anything a normal real woman would try and do. If you receive a message without any text and a strange picture covered in text just ignore it completely. Plain and simple.

RESPONDING TO WOMEN:

You may be wondering with all this spam how many women actually respond on Craigslist. On average if you're posting three times per day you can expect at least 1 or 2 actual contacts every day. Over the course of a month that means you'll have connected with 30-40 real women in your area who you know are looking to get laid. However, not everyone you connect with is going to actually want to hook up. If you can't keep a girl interested after their initial response, you'll never even meet. On average if you connect with 30 women over the course of a month maybe 5-10 of those will be seriously interested and want to meet up. If you're able to go out with those 5-10 women, the success rate of getting laid is extremely high.

Don't spend too much time emailing back and forth with women. After 3 or 4 email exchanges if you haven't met yet then odds are you never will. As a general rule your responses should follow like this:

1st Response - It's a good idea to include a flattering picture of yourself and answer any questions women may have asked from their message in your first email response. I also usually end by asking what part of town they're in as a specific question that helps filter out spam and gives me an idea of how far I may have to travel if we do hook up. Always end your response with a question because it gives women an opportunity to respond.

2nd Response - If you get a human response after sending your picture then you should basically be set to do your thing! If they didn't already arrange to meet up in their follow up then now is the time to suggest a time a place where you can meet and see where things go from there. Feel free to give out your phone number and ask to continue the conversation through text message as that's typically easier for scheduling things. If you still have any unanswered questions about them now is the time to ask.

3rd Response - At this point if you're still exchanging emails you've got to seal the deal. Don't seem desperate. Confidently tell her when and where you want to meet and make it sometime soon. Be polite. If she keeps asking a bunch of questions tell her you don't use email very much and it's better to talk in person. Once you meet so long as you behave like a normal person it should be easy to get into bed.

Once you have a girl's number be as flexible as possible setting up a meeting time and date. Some people can only meet during the day, others at night, it could be an all-day thing or only for an hour. Everyone's situation is different so be accommodating. Sometimes it helps if you can host at your place. Other times you'll have to travel to them. You need to do what it takes to make this happen if you really want it. Remember this is Craigslist so always be discrete. Don't talk about other women you've meet, especially not by name, and keep all personal information you receive to yourself. Part of the allure is your secret romance so don't blow it by spilling the beans.

RESPONDING TO POSTS

If you want to try responding to posts in the Women Seeking Men or W4M Casual Encounters section of Craigslist don't get your hopes up too much. There is always the chance that you'll get lucky and find an actual woman this way but remember these two things: Craigslist is full of spam and any real women posting on there are likely bombarded with responses from other men.

Odds are if you see a really tempting post about a hot woman who wants casual sex right now it's probably not for real. Nearly all of the posts by women that include pictures are fake. Remember, if something seems too good to be true then you'll save yourself time by ignoring it.

That being said, you can get lucky from time to time if you're strategic about the posts you respond to:

- Look for posts that mention specific information such as the day of the week or city you're in as they're more likely to have been written by an actual human being.
- Good grammar and full sentences are good indicators that the post wasn't written by some Chinese spam machine.
- Longer thoughtful posts are more likely to be real than direct one or two sentence blurbs about fucking.

Many of these posts pretending to be women are actually spam attempting to collect your pictures or other personal information. Despite that it's normally a good idea to include a picture of yourself with your initial response if you want to stand out. If a post asks for additional information such as your phone number or email address don't give that up so readily. Exchange a few emails to be sure they're real before giving out any contact information. And as always DO NOT GIVE YOUR CREDIT CARD INFORMATION TO ANYONE ON CRAIGSLIST!

USING POSTS AS RESPONSES

In many cases your existing Craigslist posts can be used as responses with slight modification. Simply choose a post that's relevant and work in a few sentences applicable to whatever they say they're looking for so your response isn't completely random.

Just as with the original posts themselves, different styles are more appropriate to use in different places. Romantic and Innocent posts work best as responses to ads in Women Seeking Men while Seductive posts nail it in Casual Encounters.

Posts that tell a story about what you want to do with or to someone are best suited to be used as responses. They're set up to get their recipient excited about the intimate encounter meeting you will deliver. Posts that describe a night of going out, having dinner, or making love make excellent responses to ads looking for romantic encounters.

If a woman posts that she is simply looking for a friend and then wants to see where things go, an innocent post can be modified to be a perfectly applicable response.

Strictly Platonic - As a side note related to innocent posts, Craigslist has a Strictly Platonic section devoted exclusively to friendly nonsexual relationships. You can use innocent posts in there as much as you want but don't expect to get any sort of action out of it. This section is exactly as it says: STRICTLY PLATONIC. People are not looking in this section to hook up so the odds of meeting anyone who wants sex here are extremely low. If you're looking to make new friends however, definitely check it out.

FETISHES

It's a little known fact that Craigslist is the freaky sex capital of the world. If you're into BDSM, transgender, panty collecting, photo swapping, fecal play, or ABR it's all there and more! No matter what you're into there is someone out there willing and ready to satisfy your urges so long as you know how to get their attention. Though there are likely more sexual fetishes than anyone can possibly imagine it's a good idea to get familiar with at least the most common ones. You'll be running into these occasionally and who knows if you get into it they may turn out to be your thing!

BONDAGE DOMINATION SADISM MASOCHISM

Throughout your journeys on Craigslist you will often encounter people who self-identify as either dominant or submissive. What this means for them varies from person to person but within the context of a BDSM relationship these two characteristics lend themselves to very specific relationship roles:

DOM – The dominant role in a BDSM relationship is the person who's always in control. Sometimes called a Master, dominatrix, or DOM, whatever title they choose to be called they are the boss and demand to be respected. They will set the boundaries and dictate the terms of their relationship. Often times within BDSM relationships the DOM will use punishment and humiliation followed by a degree of aftercare to condition their partner. The dominant role can be performed by male or female alike and experienced DOM's may have multiple partners that they attend to.

SUB – Submissive partners in BDSM relationships are looking to give control to someone they can trust. They want to be free from decision making and all of their inhibitions which allows their master to push them to the limits of their comfort zone. For SUBs there may be a degree of pain or humiliation involved in some of the acts they are subjected to but that isn't always the case. It's important that they communicate with their dominant partner to make their boundaries and expectations clear.

ORGIES

Often overlooked by the uninitiated, Craigslist has entire sections entirely dedicated to group sex and partner swapping. Open relationships are much more common than you may think and swingers living "the lifestyle" regularly use Craigslist to bring variety into their bedroom.

Many of the rules regarding spam are less applicable outside of the traditional W4M or M4W section because the other categories receive much less traffic. This means that posts in these sections are more likely to be real and fewer people will normally be responding to them. Because of this the MW4MW and MW4M sections are like a hidden sexual oasis for anyone interested in having an orgy!

Unlike other dating areas of Craigslist responding to posts in MW4M is often extremely fruitful. Whenever possible rework posts to use as responses to draw attention to yourself. Knowing the lingo and boasting a bit of experience goes a long way towards getting you invited to the party. If you've never had group sex before and want to seem more knowledgeable about it research local swingers clubs in your area and check them out (or at least know about them or pretend you've been there.)

Once you've hooked up with a few women from Craigslist you're likely to connect with a few that are really freaky and open to new things. When you get one like that hang onto her as she can be your key to entering the MW4MW section. So long as you have a woman interested in hooking up with another guy you can engage in some good old fashioned wife swapping. Post an ad yourself or respond to one you like to find out what they expect. So long as your partner is onboard this will be some of the kinkiest group sex of your life!

CUCKOLDING

Some people will want you to have sex with their wife while they watch, often as a means of humiliating them. Cuckolding is a combination of the DOM SUB relationship with group sex. You'll be the dominant actor in this situation while the man whose wife or girlfriend you're fucking submits to you. Normally you won't have to do much to interact with the other guy other than possibly insulting him as he watches you have sex. Sometimes they aren't even present when the actual deed gets done. They'll just want to meet at a bar and watch you hit on their girlfriend. If she ends up liking you then it's time to go someplace private with or without the guy she originally came with.

ADULT NURSING RELATIONSHIPS

Lactating women will sometimes offer you the chance to drink their milk. They may be pregnant or have had children recently, but it is also possible that they don't have any kids and have managed to induce lactation through another means. This can be part of a sexual experience that includes more than just sucking titties for milk or it may be completely limited to just nursing without any sort of sex. Depending on how involved you want to be in this there are role playing relationships where men dress up or act like babies and allow women to treat them as such. You'll need to communicate with your breastfeeding partner to find out exactly what sort of experience they are into.

VIRGINS

If you happen to be a virgin posting on Craigslist that can actually be an advantage for you when it comes to meeting women. There are tons of women out there eagerly waiting to defile you and take your virginity. Even if you've had intercourse before, if there is a sexual act you've never tried, a race you've never been with, or an unusual sort of encounter you want to experience for the first time there are women ready and willing to do it with you.

There is a novelty in being first that's very alluring. Even though it may seem embarrassing to admit inexperience, when done properly it can definitely be used to your advantage. So much so that it can even be beneficial to pretend that you are less experienced than you actually are just to attract this sort of attention.

On the flip side, there is a growing trend for virgin women to seek out a partner through Craigslist to have their first sexual experience with. For some people the pressure of having sex with someone they know is too intimidating due to fear of being judged for their inexperience. The anonymity of Craigslist offers the chance to have sex without any inflated expectations. If you decide to pursue this sort of experience it's extremely important that you're patient and clear about your partner's expectations. Remember this is a very intimate situation so be respectful and nonjudgmental.

SAFETY

Craigslist is overflowing with so many awesome sexual possibilities that will have you meeting tons of new people. It's important to remember when dealing with strangers to always proceed with a healthy dose of precaution. You never know what might happen when you meet someone for the first time so in order to stay as safe as possible it's a good idea to follow these few simple guidelines:

Chat Safe – Once your posts are up you'll be getting contacted by loads of new people every day. Before you actually meet up with any of them you have no idea who you're actually dealing with. Don't give out any revealing personal information such as your address or phone number until you know for sure they are a real person that you want to meet up with. I've said this before and I'll say it again because I can't repeat it often enough: DO NOT GIVE YOUR CREDIT CARD INFORMATION TO ANYONE ON CRAIGSLIST!

Meet Safe – Your first encounter with someone you're meeting on Craigslist is always the most intimidating. It's best to meet someplace public so you can feel each other out before moving on to a more intimate setting. This is the first time you'll be seeing them in person and they might not look exactly like their photograph. If the person you're meeting doesn't live up to your expectations or starts to give you creepy vibes this is a good time to walking away.

Sex Safe – It's always a good idea to practice safe sex especially when you don't know who you're sleeping with very well. To avoid STDs and unwanted pregnancies use condoms regularly. If you see any blisters, warts, or strange ooze coming out of any of the holes you plan to stick your dick in it would be wise to reconsider.
