Every Company
Buys Energy.

Why Not Buy it From You?

What is Deregulated Energy?

Until a few years ago, customers had no control over their utility bills. Your local utility chose who to buy your energy from and delivered it to your business. At the time, the state set a fair price the utility could charge and sometimes this worked but sometimes it meant you didn't always get the best rate.

Energy deregulation is where some states have allowed customers to purchase their energy from alternative energy suppliers rather than just being forced to buy from their local utility company.

The benefit is that the consumer now has competitive markets rather than a regulated monopoly setting the prices.
