THE MEANING OF THE CITY by Jacques Ellul. "... has startling significance... it devastates the secular city outlook... should rank beside Reinhold Niebuhr's Moral Man and Immoral Society as a work of truly momentous potential."—Wm. Stringfellow Cloth, 240 pages, $5.95

A THEOLOGY OF THE HOLY SPIRIT: The Pentecostal Experience and the New Testament Witness, by Frederick Dale Bruner. Case-study theology from a doctrinal standpoint... but with a concern which is more than academic. Addressed to the contemporary church. Cloth, 456 pages, $8.95

SOMETHING LESS THAN GOD by Leonard Verduin. Extremely useful to preachers and teachers of Bible, theology, and religion because it moves firmly and surely through the biblical record, illuminating the biblical understanding of man. Paper, 192 pages, $3.25

OLD TESTAMENT TIMES by R. K. Harrison. The author of the impressive and important 1,344-page introduction to the Old Testament has written this untechnical volume about the social and cultural history of the O.T. More than just another picture book. Cloth, 372 pages, $6.95

ALL ONE BODY WE: The Doctrine of the Church in Ecumenical Perspective, by John Kromminga. Speaks to the fact of church division and how the many existing doctrines of the church can be unified in one doctrine—the aspiration of the Church of Jesus Christ. Paper, 224 pages, $3.25

THE ROAD AHEAD: A Theology for the Church in Mission, by John H. Piet. Designed to span the gap between the 16th century world of religious thinking and the 20th century world of science and technology. Piet clearly outlines God's call to mission. Paper, 104 pages, $1.95

A HISTORY OF CHRISTIANITY IN JAPAN by Richard Henry Drummond. A fascinating account of the emergence of the hidden Christian church and the problems it faced as it progressed through times of favorable evangelism, resurgent nationalism, war, and the rise of the Orthodox Church. Paper, 320 pages, $4.95

THE STORY OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH IN INDIA AND PAKISTAN by Stephen Neal. Traces the growth of the old church founded by the apostle Thomas; the Roman Catholic work of Francis Xavier; and Protestant efforts since 1706. Paper, 184 pages, $3.95

ECUMENICITY AND EVANGELISM by David M. Stowe. A participant in ecumenical forums around the world, where no topic is debated with more intensity than evangelism, reflects that debate and relates it to active evangelicals who do not participate in conciliar ecumenism. Paper, 96 pages, $2.45

TO APPLY THE GOSPEL: Selections from the Writings of Henry Venn. Edited by Max Warren. Henry Venn, Chief Secretary of the Church Missionary Society (Anglican) from 1841 to 1872, is a legendary figure in Protestant missions. A theoretician and practical administrator, his policies remain very applicable today. Cloth, 320 pages, $7.95

CHURCH GROWTH AND THE WORD OF GOD by Alan R. Tippett. Basing his conclusions on both the Old and New Testament, Tippett spells out the biblical basis for the concept of church growth held by Dr. McGavran and his School of World Mission colleagues. Paper, 84 pages, $1.95
