Give TD to your favorite theologian.
(Especially if s/he’s graduating this spring.)

A bachelor’s, master’s or doctorate in theology is a commitment to keeping in touch with leading thought in a field that is continually developing on a global scale. But a profession in ministry or teaching brings new and time-consuming commitments of its own. How can you help your graduate stay current?

With a gift subscription to Theology Digest. We save precious time for theology practitioners by researching more than 400 professional journals worldwide—and by presenting the best of their offerings in translated, condensed, easy-to-read quarterly issues. Even more: each issue contains a descriptive survey or some 200 newly-published books on theology and religion.

Sign up the theologian of your choice now—for a year or two of professional support and practical convenience.
