

Chevron Phillips - Pasadena helps feed shelter during 'Stay Home' orders

Chevron Phillips Chemical's Pasadena Plastics Complex provided lunch today to 96 people at the Bridge Over Troubled Waters, a shelter for women and children escaping domestic violence, homelessness, and sexual assault. There are 89 women and children currently staying inside the shelter and seven staff members who volunteered to self-quarantine with them. Not only did CPChem's donation provide food for the shelter, but it also helped support a local restaurant, Southern Komfort Kitchen, that is limited to carry-out and delivery business during the coronavirus crisis.
