How do you define success?

- Every Unicity Distributor has their own definition of success.
- Some Distributors spend a lot of time and hard work making their Distributorship successful.
- They often define their success by the size of their commissions each month.
- Many Distributors start out telling their friends about the products in their free time, and they earn a little extra spending money from what they buy. They might define success by their supplemental income.
- A large majority of people sign up as Unicity Distributors just to get the product discount and define success by getting the products they love at lower prices!

What you should know about earning as a Unicity Distributor

- To be eligible to earn commissions on sales to people you refer to Unicity, you must purchase approximately $125 of Unicity products that month.
- You earn money only when people you refer buy Unicity products, not when they just sign up as Unicity Distributors.

2 ways to make money as a Unicity Distributor

There are two ways you can earn money as a Unicity Distributor:

Distributor Discounts

Distributors can make a profit by buying products at a discount and selling them. The discount varies by product, but is usually around 30% below retail price.

Distributor Commissions

In addition, you can be paid commissions for sales to people you tell about Unicity products who then order directly from the company. Around 37% of Unicity Distributors in the U.S. earned these commissions in 2020. Of these:

- the average earnings for Distributors was more than $3,100.
- half made more than $40.
- 10% made more than $1,800.
- 1% made just under $60,000.

Remember, you choose how you invest in your Distributorship, and you choose your definition of success!
