PROFILE

- The University of Washington’s three campuses offer more than 636 degree options across 312 programs.
- The UW’s FY2020 budget is $8.25 billion, including $1.09 billion in the General Operating Fund, which supports the University’s academic mission.
- Tuition revenue makes up 63% of the UW’s General Operating Fund; the remainder comes from state funds. Twenty years ago, the proportions were the reverse — 29% from tuition and 71% from the state. These amounts have changed due to the ongoing effects of state funding cuts during and after the Great Recession.

AFFORDABILITY AND ACCESS

• Since before the recession, the number and proportion of underrepresented-minority students at the UW have increased; underrepresented-minority students now make up 21% of the 2019–20 domestic freshman class.

• Over 32% of incoming UW freshmen from the U.S. will be the first in their families to attain a bachelor's degree; 41% of UW Bothell students and 60% of UW Tacoma students are first generation.

• Approximately 60% of all UW undergraduates graduate with no known debt, and those who borrow still graduate with less debt than the national average.

• In 2019–20, 26% of UW undergraduates are eligible for Federal Pell Grant funding. As of the most recent data (2017–18), more than 11,000 UW undergraduates received Pell Grants — more than at all the Ivy League schools combined.

• In 2019–20, 32% of UW undergraduates from Washington (approximately 10,100) are eligible for the Husky Promise, which covers the tuition and fees* of students with financial need.

• Since the Husky Promise began in 2007, more than 40,000 students across the UW's three campuses have received support from the program.

• In 2019–20, about 55% of UW undergraduates are receiving some form of financial aid, totaling more than $424 million.

• In 2019–20, the UW is awarding more than $102 million in institutional grants and scholarships to Washington residents.

• In 2019–20, approximately 10,200 UW students will receive funds from the Washington College Grant, 3,800 from the College Bound Scholarship and 2,200 from the Washington State Opportunity Scholarship.

*Through a combination of state, federal and UW local funds.
