Retiree Award Nominations

Now is the time to nominate an outstanding UW staff or faculty retiree for the 2020 UW-UWRA Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service Award. For the first time, this year the award carries with it a $1,500 prize. The money can cover a home health aide to provide periodic support and care, or it could be used to install an accessible shower in someone’s home or a ramp so they can get in and out of their front door more easily. It could cover transportation costs to and from medical appointments or could pay to have food delivered to someone who is homebound. Funds can also be used for long-term care facilities such as assisted living, nursing homes and adult family homes.

More from UWRA’s Legislative & Benefits Committee here: uw.edu/uwra/legben

WASHINGTON'S LONG-TERM CARE—STATE OF WASHINGTON

The Retiree Report is a publication of the University of Washington Retirement Association (UWRA), a non-profit member-based organization.

Margi Wadden
Cathy Randolph
Jennifer Small

Recognized for his volunteer work in Cambodia and Southeast Asia at-large, LoGerfo improve the health of people at home and abroad. Community Service award recipient, is a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Developing Countries

In Conversation with Jim LoGerfo: Expanding Medical Education in Developing Countries

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

For the first time, this year the award carries with it a $1,500 prize. The money can cover a home health aide to provide periodic support and care, or it could be used to install an accessible shower in someone’s home or a ramp so they can get in and out of their front door more easily. It could cover transportation costs to and from medical appointments or could pay to have food delivered to someone who is homebound. Funds can also be used for long-term care facilities such as assisted living, nursing homes and adult family homes.

More from UWRA’s Legislative & Benefits Committee here: uw.edu/uwra/legben

WASHINGTON'S LONG-TERM CARE—STATE OF WASHINGTON

The Retiree Report is a publication of the University of Washington Retirement Association (UWRA), a non-profit member-based organization.

Margi Wadden
Cathy Randolph
Jennifer Small

Recognized for his volunteer work in Cambodia and Southeast Asia at-large, LoGerfo improve the health of people at home and abroad. Community Service award recipient, is a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Developing Countries

In Conversation with Jim LoGerfo: Expanding Medical Education in Developing Countries

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

For the first time, this year the award carries with it a $1,500 prize. The money can cover a home health aide to provide periodic support and care, or it could be used to install an accessible shower in someone’s home or a ramp so they can get in and out of their front door more easily. It could cover transportation costs to and from medical appointments or could pay to have food delivered to someone who is homebound. Funds can also be used for long-term care facilities such as assisted living, nursing homes and adult family homes.

More from UWRA’s Legislative & Benefits Committee here: uw.edu/uwra/legben

WASHINGTON'S LONG-TERM CARE—STATE OF WASHINGTON

The Retiree Report is a publication of the University of Washington Retirement Association (UWRA), a non-profit member-based organization.

Margi Wadden
Cathy Randolph
Jennifer Small

Recognized for his volunteer work in Cambodia and Southeast Asia at-large, LoGerfo improve the health of people at home and abroad. Community Service award recipient, is a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Developing Countries

In Conversation with Jim LoGerfo: Expanding Medical Education in Developing Countries

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

For the first time, this year the award carries with it a $1,500 prize. The money can cover a home health aide to provide periodic support and care, or it could be used to install an accessible shower in someone’s home or a ramp so they can get in and out of their front door more easily. It could cover transportation costs to and from medical appointments or could pay to have food delivered to someone who is homebound. Funds can also be used for long-term care facilities such as assisted living, nursing homes and adult family homes.

More from UWRA’s Legislative & Benefits Committee here: uw.edu/uwra/legben

WASHINGTON'S LONG-TERM CARE—STATE OF WASHINGTON

The Retiree Report is a publication of the University of Washington Retirement Association (UWRA), a non-profit member-based organization.

Margi Wadden
Cathy Randolph
Jennifer Small

Recognized for his volunteer work in Cambodia and Southeast Asia at-large, LoGerfo improve the health of people at home and abroad. Community Service award recipient, is a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Developing Countries

In Conversation with Jim LoGerfo: Expanding Medical Education in Developing Countries

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

For the first time, this year the award carries with it a $1,500 prize. The money can cover a home health aide to provide periodic support and care, or it could be used to install an accessible shower in someone’s home or a ramp so they can get in and out of their front door more easily. It could cover transportation costs to and from medical appointments or could pay to have food delivered to someone who is homebound. Funds can also be used for long-term care facilities such as assisted living, nursing homes and adult family homes.

More from UWRA’s Legislative & Benefits Committee here: uw.edu/uwra/legben

WASHINGTON'S LONG-TERM CARE—STATE OF WASHINGTON

The Retiree Report is a publication of the University of Washington Retirement Association (UWRA), a non-profit member-based organization.

Margi Wadden
Cathy Randolph
Jennifer Small

Recognized for his volunteer work in Cambodia and Southeast Asia at-large, LoGerfo improve the health of people at home and abroad. Community Service award recipient, is a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Developing Countries

In Conversation with Jim LoGerfo: Expanding Medical Education in Developing Countries

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Professor Emeritus Jim LoGerfo, 2019 Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient — a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.
VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Any Hungry Husky’s helps mitigate the social and academic effects of campus food insecurity among students, financial burden and supplementing their nutritional needs. The UW Food Pantry now has a permanent location in Ingram Hall (Room 220), and they need volunteers!

Find out more at uw.edu/anyhungryhusky.

The UW Farm is a 15-acre urban farm and educational facility that produces over six tons of produce for campus dining, the UW Food Pantry and the community. Volunteers are welcomed at all three of the UW Farm’s locations: Mercer Court, McMahon Hall and the Center for Urban Horticulture. Depending on the season, volunteers may help with planting, weeding, harvesting, pruning, seeding... As the Farm says, farming is demanding but fulfilling.

You may have noticed the popular day trips are once again being offered; they have included tours of new buildings on the UW Seattle campus, the Tacoma and Bothell campuses and Amazon’s Spheres. Stay tuned, more are being planned.

OFFICERS
Margi Wadden
President
Jessie Garcia
Vice President
Margaret Michaud
Secretary
Wendy Benham
Treasurer

Please realize the UWRA office after you hear of a death in the family or the UW family. We appreciate how to express the UWRA condolences.

UWRA BOARD NEWS

UWRA BOARD NOMINATIONS

Seeking volunteers who are currently or retired staff or faculty, UWRA members from any UW campus and who reflect the diversity of our population in terms of age, gender, race, and orientation. Members of the Board of Regents are encouraged to participate in the UWRA activities for a month to the organization.

Contact the UWRA office with your questions, suggestions and concerns.

The UW Farm is a 15-acre urban farm and educational facility that produces over six tons of produce for campus dining, the UW Food Pantry and the community. Volunteers are welcomed at all three of the UW Farm’s locations: Mercer Court, McMahon Hall and the Center for Urban Horticulture. Depending on the season, volunteers may help with planting, weeding, harvesting, pruning, seeding... As the Farm says, farming is demanding but fulfilling.

You may have noticed the popular day trips are once again being offered; they have included tours of new buildings on the UW Seattle campus, the Tacoma and Bothell campuses and Amazon’s Spheres. Stay tuned, more are being planned.

OFFICERS
Margi Wadden
President
Jessie Garcia
Vice President
Margaret Michaud
Secretary
Wendy Benham
Treasurer

Please realize the UWRA office after you hear of a death in the family or the UW family. We appreciate how to express the UWRA condolences.

UWRA BOARD NEWS

UWRA BOARD NOMINATIONS

Seeking volunteers who are currently or retired staff or faculty, UWRA members from any UW campus and who reflect the diversity of our population in terms of age, gender, race, and orientation. Members of the Board of Regents are encouraged to participate in the UWRA activities for a month to the organization.

Contact the UWRA office with your questions, suggestions and concerns.

The UW Farm is a 15-acre urban farm and educational facility that produces over six tons of produce for campus dining, the UW Food Pantry and the community. Volunteers are welcomed at all three of the UW Farm’s locations: Mercer Court, McMahon Hall and the Center for Urban Horticulture. Depending on the season, volunteers may help with planting, weeding, harvesting, pruning, seeding... As the Farm says, farming is demanding but fulfilling.

You may have noticed the popular day trips are once again being offered; they have included tours of new buildings on the UW Seattle campus, the Tacoma and Bothell campuses and Amazon’s Spheres. Stay tuned, more are being planned.

OFFICERS
Margi Wadden
President
Jessie Garcia
Vice President
Margaret Michaud
Secretary
Wendy Benham
Treasurer

Please realize the UWRA office after you hear of a death in the family or the UW family. We appreciate how to express the UWRA condolences.

UWRA BOARD NEWS

UWRA BOARD NOMINATIONS

Seeking volunteers who are currently or retired staff or faculty, UWRA members from any UW campus and who reflect the diversity of our population in terms of age, gender, race, and orientation. Members of the Board of Regents are encouraged to participate in the UWRA activities for a month to the organization.

Contact the UWRA office with your questions, suggestions and concerns.

The UW Farm is a 15-acre urban farm and educational facility that produces over six tons of produce for campus dining, the UW Food Pantry and the community. Volunteers are welcomed at all three of the UW Farm’s locations: Mercer Court, McMahon Hall and the Center for Urban Horticulture. Depending on the season, volunteers may help with planting, weeding, harvesting, pruning, seeding... As the Farm says, farming is demanding but fulfilling.

You may have noticed the popular day trips are once again being offered; they have included tours of new buildings on the UW Seattle campus, the Tacoma and Bothell campuses and Amazon’s Spheres. Stay tuned, more are being planned.
STAY IN TOUCH WITH UWRA

UWRA’s concise email digest is the best way to stay informed about UWRA and UW events. Has your email address changed? Please let us know so we can update your subscription. Send an email to retirees@uw.edu

Published by the University of Washington Retirement Association (UWRA)
On behalf of the UWRA Board of Directors, I would like to extend a warm thank you to all of you for your active participation. Recognizing and responding to the diverse interests of our members is a high priority of this Board. The fact that we are placing special emphasis on diversity this year is related and important to you. I encourage you to reach out and tell us what activities and issues are of interest to you. We are committed to supporting UW retirees’ connection to the University through participation in educational programs, social events and volunteer activities.

You may have noticed the popular day trips are once again offered; they provide opportunities for community, exploration and fun. UWRA’s interest groups are volunteer-led programs.

Three cheers for UWRA President 2019-2020, Hellmuth Golde. UWRA was renamed to UWRA Patricia Dougherty Fellowship in Aging. Your board is well represented in the UWRA’s Fellowship in Aging was renamed to UWRA Patricia Dougherty Fellowship in Aging. Your board is well represented in the UW’s Board of Regents. In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

WELCOME TO THE FALL 2020 ISSUE OF UWRA BOARD NEWS

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Amy Hungry Husky’s helps mitigate the social and academic effects of campus food insecurity by providing students’ financial aid and scholarships.

The UW Farm is a 15-acre urban farm and educational facility that produces over six tons of produce for campus dining, the UW Farm Store and the community. Volunteers are welcomed at all three of the UW Farm’s locations: Mercier Court, McNair Hall and the Center for Urban Horticulture. Depending on the season, volunteers may be planting, weeding, composting, harvesting, packing, and more. This project is open to anyone over age 18. For more information, visit BotanicGardens.uw.edu/center-for-urban-horticulture or call 206-647-2333.

Save the date! Winter Learn & Lunch Event: Youth Wellness, Wednesday, 9/23, 11:30-1:30.

TREASURER | Student Financial Aid
Bruce Miller
The Office of the Board of Regents

SECRETARY | Engineering
Carol Nicolle
Office of Student Life and the President, University of Washington

President

NOMINATIONS
The UWRA and the College of Arts and Sciences co-sponsored pilot workshop, “A Lifelong Career in Academics, What Next?” a big hit. Local, state and federal advocacy work on issues of concern to retirees is ongoing. There are numerous interest groups and committees available to provide opportunities to learn, explore and connect. We welcome and encourage all UW retirees and pre-retirees to become involved. A national search is underway to find the perfect candidate for UWRA’s Executive Director position. For over 20 years, Pat Dougherty did an outstanding job overseeing and guiding the UWRA and the UW’s Retiree Relations office. In honor of Pat’s distinguished career, UWRA’s Fellowship in Aging was renamed to UWRA Patricia Dougherty Fellowship in Aging. Your board is well represented in the UW’s Board of Regents. In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.

In addition, Ray’s career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the National Academy of Engineering. He also served as an advisor to the United States Senate.
VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Any Hungry Husky’s help mitigates the social and academic effects of campus food insecurity, ensuring students’ financial burden and supplementing their nutritional needs. The UW Food Pantry now has a permanent location in High-rise Hall (Room 215), and they need volunteers! Find out more at uw.edu/myhungryhusky

The UW Farm is a 15-acre urban farm and educational facility that produces over six tons of produce for campus dining, the UW Food Pantry and the community. Volunteers are welcomed at all three of the UW Farm’s locations: Mercer Court, McMillan Hall and the Center for Urban Horticulture. Depending on the season, volunteers may find themselves helping with the harvest, preparing讲课, planting, pruning, weeding... As the Farm says, farming is demanding but rewarding!

Save the date: Winter Learn & Lunch 2020

Three engaging topics are being planned by the UWRA’s interest groups for this popular event. You’ll enjoy a conversation between and with faculty. Please watch the UWRA newsletter for more information about this popular event. If you’re interested in participating in this event or any other events, please contact a current or former staff member at the UWRA office.

UPCOMING EVENTS

A Lifelong Career in Academics, What Next?” was a big hit. Local, state and national speakers shared their experience and wisdom about the next steps for UW retirees. There was time for conversation and socializing. The UWRA and the College of Arts and Sciences co-sponsored pilot workshop, inviting members to try something new and learn, explore and connect. We welcome and encourage all UW retirees and their surviving spouses to participate.

OFFICERS
Margi Wadden | President
Bruce Felton | Treasurer
Janet Primomo | Student Financial Aid
Carol Pozzolo | Chair, Volunteers
Kelly Brinkman | Admissions
\[\text{UWRA OFFICERS} \]

BOARD AT LARGE
Jesse Garcia | Alumni Relations
Kim Greene | Law School
Tom Hinckley | Reserve Forces
\[\text{UWRA BOARD AT LARGE} \]

WILLIAM E. HIRSCHMAN
Served as a faculty member at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1963, and served as the University of Washington Council of College from 1981 to 1996, and as Dean Emeritus from 1996 to 2019. A long-time member of many students and colleagues, he led the formation of the Washington Technology Center and advanced the UW’s innovation agenda. In addition, his career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education.

Gail Rossi | Executive Director
Carol Schaff | Corporate Relations
Lori Fagreium | Development
\[\text{UWRA BOARD NEWS} \]

IN MEMORIAM
Jewell Ray Bowen passed away due to natural causes on April 15, 2019, in his Seattle residence. Ray was born January 9, 1914, in Charlotte, Mississippi to Hugh and Myrtle Louise Stevens Bowen. He earned his bachelor’s in 1936 and master’s in 1937. Scholars at Stanford, Washington at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and his Ph.D. in 1940 at the University of California Berkeley.

Gale Farrell served as acting executive director of the UWRA from 1998 to 2000. She earned her master’s in 1965 at the University of Washington and spent over 50 years at the UW. Gale was known for her energy, enthusiasm and helpful spirit.

Three Cheers for Pat
Pat Lederer was honored at the 2019 celebration. Pat Lederer is a long-time friend of the UWRA. In 1966, Pat’s late husband joined the UWRA board and Pat continued on that board for the next 20 years. They both loved the University of Washington and were accomplished and successful in their respective professions. These experiences brought them to a point in their lives where they felt the time was right to give back to the University of Washington. They were very proud of what the UWRA does and they were willing to devote time to this effort. Pat never got tired of the marching band. She was a UW alum and fan. Pat was also a member of the Board of Directors of the UWRA. Pat was always ready to help when needed. She was a true champion of the UWRA and a true friend of the University of Washington.

Margaret Michaud | Finance
Michael Morris | Media Relations
Sue McDonald | Development
\[\text{UWRA MEMBERS NEWS} \]

DOUGLAS ELMSWORTH
Served as a faculty member at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1963, and served as the University of Washington Council of College from 1981 to 1996, and as Dean Emeritus from 1996 to 2019. A long-time member of many students and colleagues, he led the formation of the Washington Technology Center and advanced the UW’s innovation agenda. In addition, his career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education.

IN MEMORIAM
Jewell Ray Bowen passed away due to natural causes on April 15, 2019, in his Seattle residence. Ray was born January 9, 1914, in Charlotte, Mississippi to Hugh and Myrtle Louise Stevens Bowen. He earned his bachelor’s in 1936 and master’s in 1937. Scholars at Stanford, Washington at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and his Ph.D. in 1940 at the University of California Berkeley.

Gale Farrell served as acting executive director of the UWRA from 1998 to 2000. She earned her master’s in 1965 at the University of Washington and spent over 50 years at the UW. Gale was known for her energy, enthusiasm and helpful spirit.

Three Cheers for Pat
Pat Lederer was honored at the 2019 celebration. Pat Lederer is a long-time friend of the UWRA. In 1966, Pat’s late husband joined the UWRA board and Pat continued on that board for the next 20 years. They both loved the University of Washington and were accomplished and successful in their respective professions. These experiences brought them to a point in their lives where they felt the time was right to give back to the University of Washington. They were very proud of what the UWRA does and they were willing to devote time to this effort. Pat never got tired of the marching band. She was a UW alum and fan. Pat was also a member of the Board of Directors of the UWRA. Pat was always ready to help when needed. She was a true champion of the UWRA and a true friend of the University of Washington.

Margaret Michaud | Finance
Michael Morris | Media Relations
Sue McDonald | Development
\[\text{UWRA MEMBERS NEWS} \]

DOUGLAS ELMSWORTH
Served as a faculty member at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1963, and served as the University of Washington Council of College from 1981 to 1996, and as Dean Emeritus from 1996 to 2019. A long-time member of many students and colleagues, he led the formation of the Washington Technology Center and advanced the UW’s innovation agenda. In addition, his career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education.

IN MEMORIAM
Jewell Ray Bowen passed away due to natural causes on April 15, 2019, in his Seattle residence. Ray was born January 9, 1914, in Charlotte, Mississippi to Hugh and Myrtle Louise Stevens Bowen. He earned his bachelor’s in 1936 and master’s in 1937. Scholars at Stanford, Washington at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and his Ph.D. in 1940 at the University of California Berkeley.

Gale Farrell served as acting executive director of the UWRA from 1998 to 2000. She earned her master’s in 1965 at the University of Washington and spent over 50 years at the UW. Gale was known for her energy, enthusiasm and helpful spirit.

Three Cheers for Pat
Pat Lederer was honored at the 2019 celebration. Pat Lederer is a long-time friend of the UWRA. In 1966, Pat’s late husband joined the UWRA board and Pat continued on that board for the next 20 years. They both loved the University of Washington and were accomplished and successful in their respective professions. These experiences brought them to a point in their lives where they felt the time was right to give back to the University of Washington. They were very proud of what the UWRA does and they were willing to devote time to this effort. Pat never got tired of the marching band. She was a UW alum and fan. Pat was also a member of the Board of Directors of the UWRA. Pat was always ready to help when needed. She was a true champion of the UWRA and a true friend of the University of Washington.

Margaret Michaud | Finance
Michael Morris | Media Relations
Sue McDonald | Development
\[\text{UWRA MEMBERS NEWS} \]

DOUGLAS ELMSWORTH
Served as a faculty member at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1963, and served as the University of Washington Council of College from 1981 to 1996, and as Dean Emeritus from 1996 to 2019. A long-time member of many students and colleagues, he led the formation of the Washington Technology Center and advanced the UW’s innovation agenda. In addition, his career included leadership roles in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education and the American Society for Engineering Education.

IN MEMORIAM
Jewell Ray Bowen passed away due to natural causes on April 15, 2019, in his Seattle residence. Ray was born January 9, 1914, in Charlotte, Mississippi to Hugh and Myrtle Louise Stevens Bowen. He earned his bachelor’s in 1936 and master’s in 1937. Scholars at Stanford, Washington at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and his Ph.D. in 1940 at the University of California Berkeley.

Gale Farrell served as acting executive director of the UWRA from 1998 to 2000. She earned her master’s in 1965 at the University of Washington and spent over 50 years at the UW. Gale was known for her energy, enthusiasm and helpful spirit.

Three Cheers for Pat
Pat Lederer was honored at the 2019 celebration. Pat Lederer is a long-time friend of the UWRA. In 1966, Pat’s late husband joined the UWRA board and Pat continued on that board for the next 20 years. They both loved the University of Washington and were accomplished and successful in their respective professions. These experiences brought them to a point in their lives where they felt the time was right to give back to the University of Washington. They were very proud of what the UWRA does and they were willing to devote time to this effort. Pat never got tired of the marching band. She was a UW alum and fan. Pat was also a member of the Board of Directors of the UWRA. Pat was always ready to help when needed. She was a true champion of the UWRA and a true friend of the University of Washington.

Margaret Michaud | Finance
Michael Morris | Media Relations
Sue McDonald | Development
\[\text{UWRA MEMBERS NEWS} \]
The UW-UWRA Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service Award is for the 2020 UW-UWRA Distinguished Retiree Excellence in Community Service award recipient. It is a leader with a gift for encouraging others to invest their time and expertise — and often funds — in helping to improve the health of people at home and abroad.

Recognized for his volunteer work in Cambodia and Southeast Asia at large, LoGerfo has been instrumental in carrying UW Medicine’s mission forward: improving the identification and treatment of chronic non-communicable diseases; increasing the focus on mental health treatment; elevating the role of social work in medical care; and enhancing the overall quality of medical education.

It’s interdisciplinary, high-impact, forward-looking work that embodies the best of UW’s mission — and it’s how he’s choosing to spend much of his time in retirement.

We hope you’ll join us for an afternoon of thoughtful conversation and dialogue as together we explore the University’s commitment to population health, and the challenges surrounding medicine in low- to middle-income countries.

Population Health Defined

"We believe population health is defined by three major pillars — human health, environmental resilience and social and economic equity — and that our work must address the challenges that exist where those three pillars intersect."