Summary:

During the 2020-2021 academic year, the Faculty Council on University Facilities and Services met 9 times in regular meetings, conducting its routine review of matters relating to capital project planning and development, priorities for project funding and implementation, inclusive project processes and design impacts; transportation, mobility, and accessibility issues; campus climate action initiatives; adequacy and continuous improvement of campus learning environments; maintenance and improvements of campus landscapes; and major administrative services including provision of daycare, financial reporting, and addressing Seattle housing affordability for faculty and staff. The charge for this year specified attention to the status of the closed UW Club building and a revision of FCUFS responsibilities in the Faculty Code.

Major topics the council worked to address and/or completed during the year include:

❖ Class C Resolution: Concerning Fossil Fuel Divestment
Received Faculty Senate approval on May 13, 2021 for a resolution brought to FCUFS from the Associated Students of Washington.

❖ UW Finance Transformation
The council had a complete update on the project at the December 2021 meeting.

❖ Capital Projects
Mike McCormick reported in the November meeting on the long-term plans for West Campus Development.
Kristine Kenney reported on the status of the UW Club at the December meeting. Housing and Food Services subsequently undertook a detailed feasibility study. They concluded by the end of the year that they could resume a food service operation serving the whole campus community, but about $10 million needs to be raised to enable the plan.

There was a report on the development of the Interdisciplinary Engineering Building.

❖ Annual Review of Classrooms
In addition to usual classroom reporting, there was a report from Phil Reid to update the council on "Back to School" measures that had been taken over the summer to address the Covid pandemic; in the end, most teaching and learning was continued remotely for AY20-21.
The usual reporting on the Seattle campus was delivered in the February meeting. The Tacoma and Bothell classroom reports were delivered in the May meeting.

❖ Annual Review of Transportation
There was full report on Transportation at the March 2021 meeting.
In a related item, the council had a report of the UW Disability Access and Accommodations survey of the three campuses.

❖ FCUFS scope of responsibilities
The chair provided members with comparable committee definitions from a few peer institutions. There was a full discussion at the January meeting. Working from that, the chair presented a new name and text for revising the Faculty Code in May. The council voted to approve the name and text revisions in June. The formal Class A legislation will proceed in October.

❖ Class A Legislation 155: New Faculty Council
Somewhat related was a vote to support the formation of a new Faculty Council on Information Technology and Cybersecurity. The Faculty Council on Teaching and Learning proposed the original legislation with support from FCUFS.
