Help protect yourself and your pack from COVID-19

UW students, faculty and staff can enroll in Husky Coronavirus Testing at uw.edu/coronavirus/testing

Participants can tell us about any symptoms or exposures and have opportunities to be tested throughout the academic year. Tests will be conducted based on your individual symptoms, exposure and risk status. Higher risk groups include those living with someone who has tested positive or living with four or more housemates.

You will be offered testing in each of the following scenarios:

- You're a student living with four or more people (includes students in on campus housing and Greek chapters). In this instance, we'll conduct testing at the time you enroll.
- You report new COVID 19 symptoms or a high risk exposure on your daily check in
- You're selected for random testing (we will notify you for this)
