

"Aung San Suu Kyi's struggle is one of the most extraordinary examples of civil courage in Asia in recent decades, she has become an important symbol in the struggle against oppression. In awarding the Nobel Peace Prize for 1991 to Aung San Suu Kyi, the Norwegian Nobel Committee wishes to honour this woman for her unflagging efforts and to show its support for the many people throughout the world who are striving to attain democracy, human rights and ethnic conciliation by peaceful means."

The Norwegian Nobel Committee, 1991

Awarded the Nobel Peace Prize
in 1991. The only laureate to receive the prestigious prize whilst still under house arrest.

CONTENTS

REVOLUTION OF THE SPIRIT

Aung San Suu Kyi and Burma's Voices of Freedom

This book and film will draw from our definitive collection of 200 hours of never-before seen and heard materials.

1 0	bjectiv	e - p6
-----	---------	--------

4 Our Hope - p10

Highlights - p17 10 Donor Benefits - p19

2 About - p7

5 Why Now? - p11

11 Documentation - p20

3 Goal - p9

6 Essence - p14

9 Support - p18

Voices - p16

12 Contact - p26

One of Time Magazine's

100 Most Influential People in the World 2016

Aung San Suu Kyi - A Beacon of Hope

Welcoming her into the Oval Office, I was struck immediately by Daw Aung San Suu Kyi's quiet dignity. She's soft-spoken, but is driven by a fierce determination—fortified by 15 years of house arrest—to bring democracy to her beloved Burma. Visiting her at her simple home in Rangoon two months later, I saw where The Lady had sustained herself by studying Buddhist teachings on love and compassion.

Today, having made the journey from prisoner to parliamentarian and party leader, Aung San Suu Kyi leads a party that won a landslide victory in last year's election. Daw Suu is now guiding the country's first civilian government in more than 50 years.

Burma still faces huge challenges, and its success will depend on ending long-running conflicts and upholding the human rights of all ethnic groups and religions. But democracy is poised to deliver a future of greater promise and prosperity.

"We human beings," she has said, "are so riddled with imperfection." But, she adds, "in spite of the imperfections, democracy still remains a beacon of hope for all of us." Now more than ever, The Lady remains a beacon of hope for 50 million people reaching for justice, and for millions more around the world.

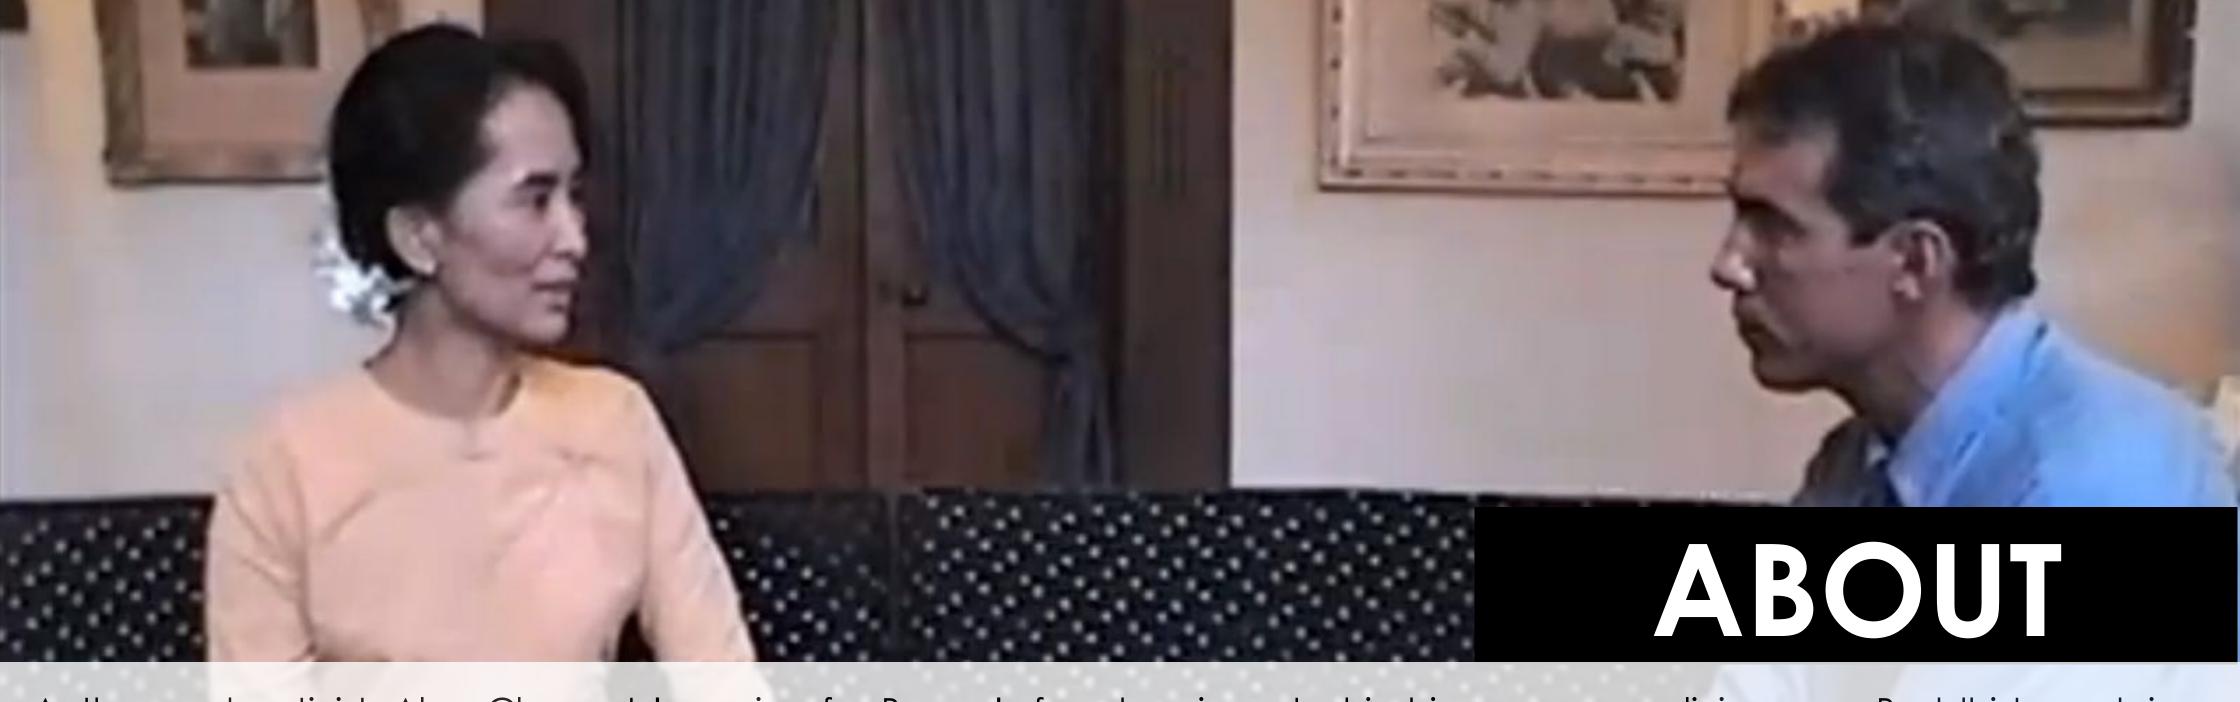

"Barack Obama, 44th President of the United States"

We have in our possession a historic collection of 200 hours of never-before-seen or heard materials - audio and video recordings, photographs and transcripts - on Burma's struggle for freedom and democracy, a non-violent "revolution of the spirit" spanning 28 years.

Revolution of the Spirit: Aung San Suu Kyi and Burma's Voices of Freedom, is produced by American-born author, journalist, and World Dharma teacher, Alan Clements. He is widely considered to be one of the world's leading authorities on Burma's nonviolent revolution, and on the country's unique expression of Buddhism. He has been interviewed on ABC Australia, CBC Canada, ABC's Nightline, CBS Evening News, Talk to America, VOA, BBC, New York Times, London Times, Time and Newsweek magazines, and scores of other media worldwide. In addition, he has presented to such organizations as Mikhail Gorbachev's State of The World Forum, the Soros Foundation, United Nations Association of San Francisco, and many others, including a keynote address at the John Ford Theater in Los Angeles for Amnesty International's 30th year anniversary.

Author and activist, Alan Clements' passion for Burma's freedom is rooted in his many years living as a Buddhist monk in a monastery in Rangoon, a passion crystallized with his investigative journalism and human rights work in northern Burma, and "The Voice of Hope", the internationally acclaimed book of conversations with Aung San Suu Kyi, conducted during six months at her home after her first release from detention in 1995. "The Voice of Hope" is the most comprehensive account of the Nobel Peace Laureate's political and spiritual philosophy, acclaimed as "a message the world should hear" by former US President Jimmy Carter and endorsed by Archbishop Desmond Tutu and numerous other Nobel Peace Laureates and world leaders.

With your support we wish to expand the vision by presenting one of the world's most definitive collections of materials in a new book and film highlighting Aung San Suu Kyi and Burma's Voices of Freedom - dozens of courageous men and women who spent up to 20 years in prison for their nonviolent defiance of dictatorship and their unrelenting pursuit of freedom, justice and democracy. Alan Clements and the projects dedicated team have worked for three years to bring both the book and film to the stage that it is – 75% complete.

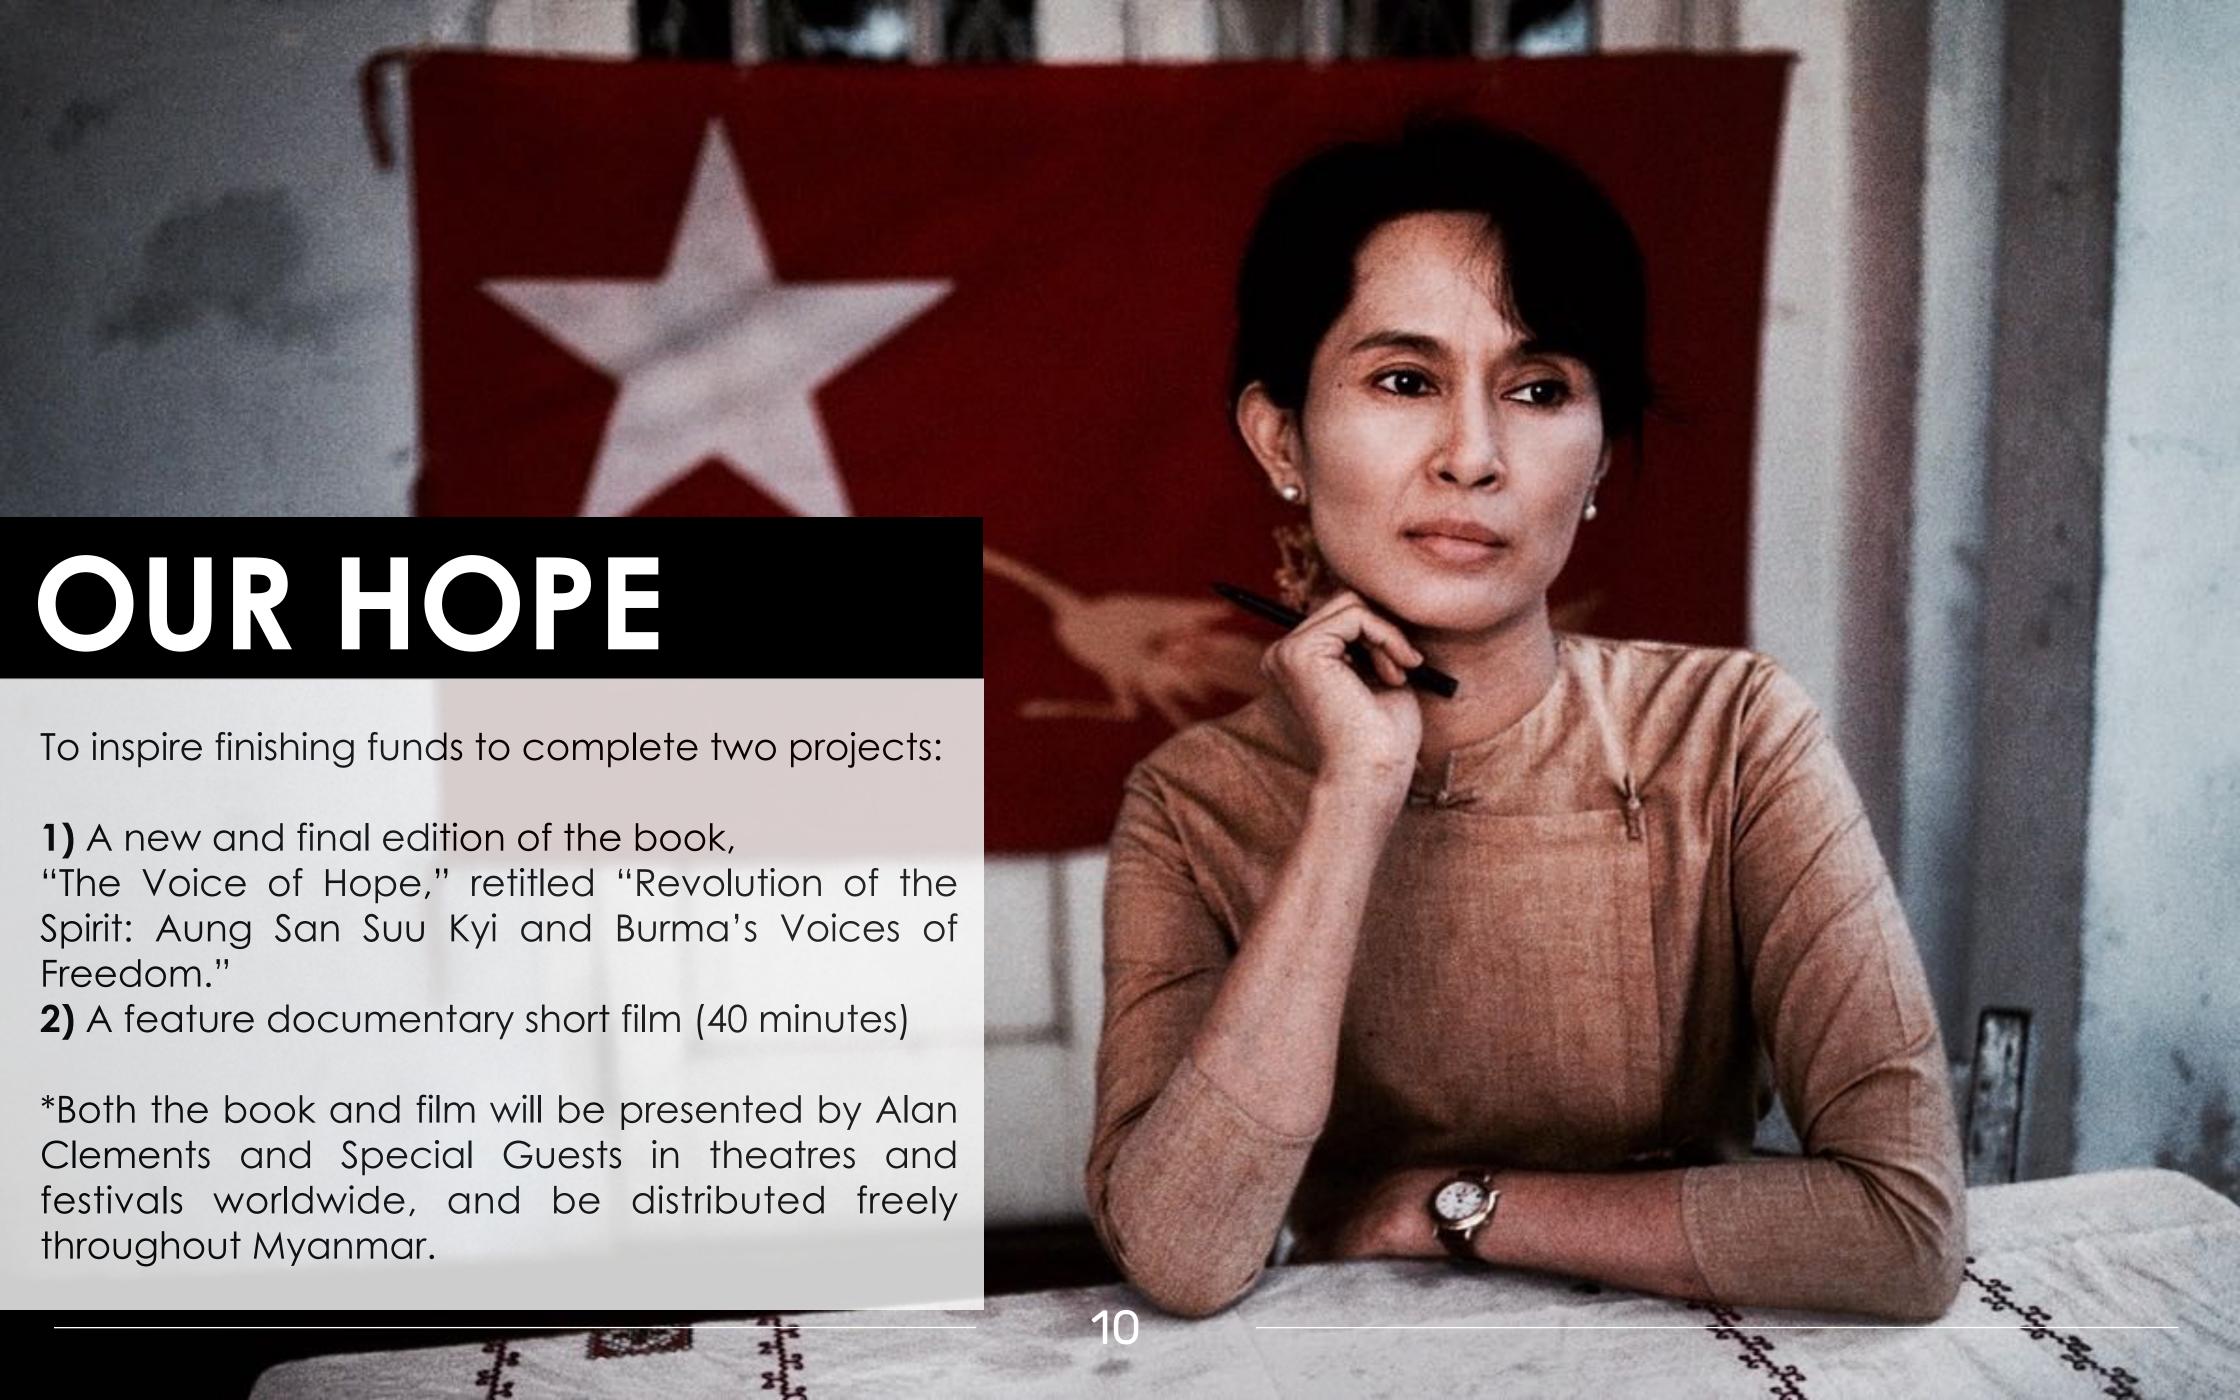

OUR GOAL

To BRING Burma's Voices of Freedom to the World

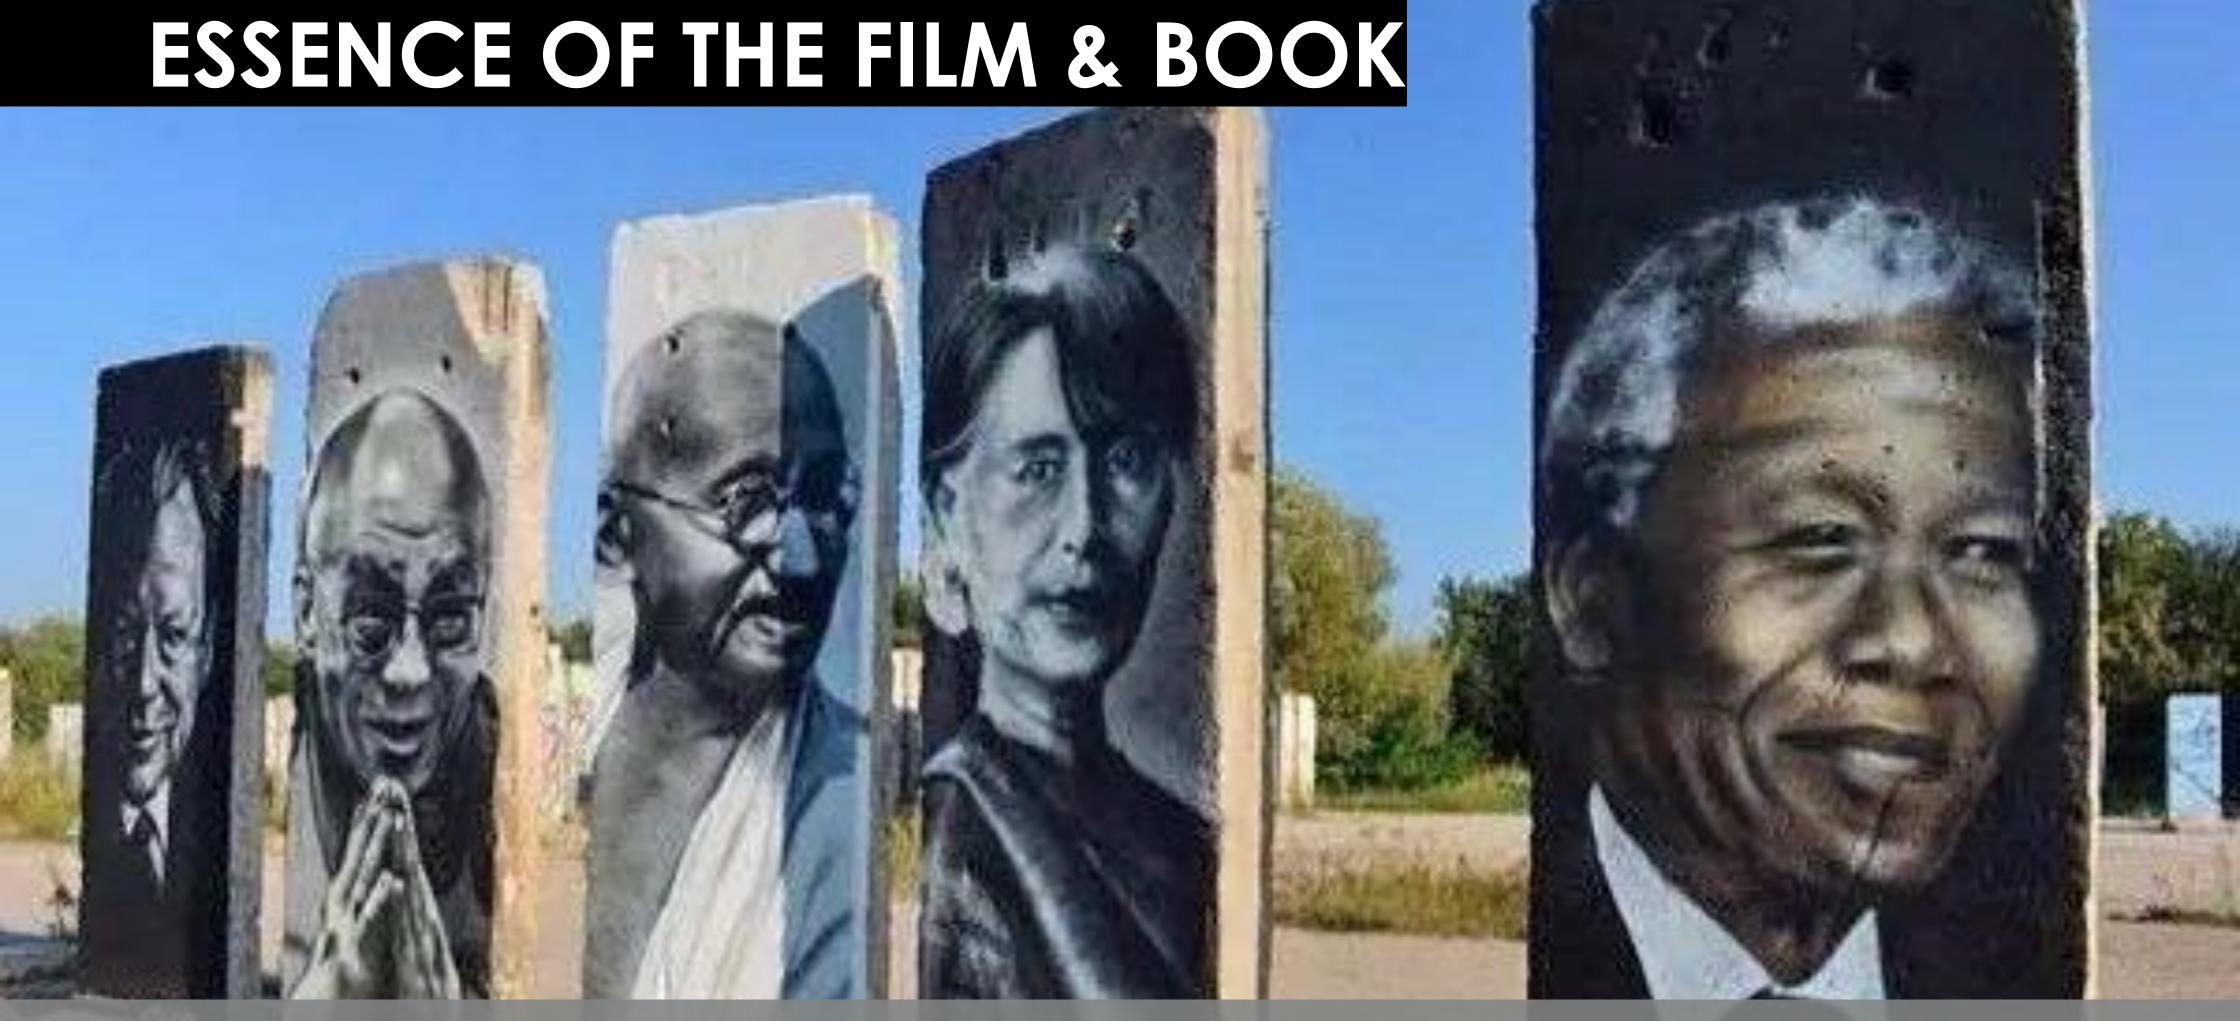

And to GIFT these materials freely to the people of Burma so that these courageous voices might safeguard their emergent democracy for generations to come.

This film and book is not just the story of Burma's archetypal struggle for freedom or a nation's collective despair. Rather, Revolution of the Spirit: Aung San Suu Kyi and Burma's Voices of Freedom is a rallying cry to more deeply understand freedom, especially freedom of expression and access to information, as these are the most vital forces employed to achieve and safeguard individual freedoms, strengthen democracy, and pre-empt oppression, conflict, war and genocide.

HIGHLIGHTS

Over two-hundred hours of unseen historic footage, audio tapes, photographs, and transcripts of numerous conversations with Burma's leading voices of freedom.

A number of these courageous men & women spent decades as prisoners of conscience

U Gambira

Kyaw Zwa Moe Daw Phyu Thin

A FEW OF BURMA'S VOICES OF FREEDOM

Dr. Zin Myint Maung

Kyaw Thu

Zeya Thaw

Zin Mar Aung

Ma Thida

KEY NLD PARTY LEADERS

We have feature interviews with each of these courageous freedom fighters

With your sponsorship of this project, we will prominently highlight you as a person or your foundation, or company, or any other organization you wish, both in the credits of film and on a website designed for the release of the project. In addition, we will include a full page with the same information in all editions, formats, and languages of the book, worldwide. We will also thank you at public events and name you in press releases and when on radio and TV.

It is our intention to gift these materials freely to the people of Burma so that these courageous voices might safeguard their emergent democracy for generations to come.

Dhamma Advice to the People of My Country

The Requisites of Reconciliation

In February of 2016 Alan Clements spent eight evenings interviewing the 94 year old Burmese Buddhist monk, Venerable Sayadaw U Pandita (Aung San Suu Kyi's beloved spiritual guide and meditation teacher) in an exclusive series of conversations titled, "Dhamma Advice to the People of My Country." Among the topics discussed, Sayadawayi illuminated the "Requisites of Reconciliation," the very basis of Aung San Suu Kyi and her NLD government's policy of peace-building by transitioning from dictatorship to democracy (bringing the oppressed and the oppressors together) through the practice of non-hostility or active metta - loving kindness in action. The entire twenty-thousand word conversation will be featured in the forthcoming new book titled, "Revolution of the Spirit: Aung San Suu Kyi and Burma's Voices of Freedom," in addition to the feature length conversations with Burma's many other Voices of Freedom. The 8-part interview with Sayadaw U Pandita was also filmed and will occupy a central place in the short documentary accompanying the book.

The Venerable Sayadaw U Pandita passed away on April 15, 2016.

Dana - the ancient Buddhist practice of unconditional generosity, that of using one's own freedom to support the well-being of others.

If you wish to generously offer Dana - the completion funds - to bring forth this essential work, please contact us, now. It is our intention to Gift these materials freely, as Dana, to the people of Myanmar so that these courageous voices might safeguard their emergent democracy for generations to come.

"You should never let your fears prevent you from doing what you know is right."

Aung San Suu Kyi, NLD Government Leader of Myanmar: State Counselor, Foreign Minister and Minister in the President's office.

"As spiritual and political beings we are all activists at heart. No one is outside of society...lt's about our freedom. That means everybody. We must see that nothing and no one is separate from this freedom. No one is an island in this world."

Aung San Suu Kyi, from `The Voice of Hope," in conversation with Alan Clements