 TestApp wants to link to your Flickr account.

This is a third-party service. If you don't trust it with access to your account, then you should not authorize it.

By authorizing this link, you'll allow TestApp to:

- ✔ Access your Flickr account (including private content)
- ✔ Upload, Edit, and Replace photos and videos in your account
- ✔ Interact with other members' photos and videos (comment, add notes, favorite)

TestApp will not have permission to:

- ✗ Delete photos and videos from your account

OK, I'LL AUTHORIZE IT NO THANKS

Your Yahoo! and Flickr passwords will always remain private, but TestApp will have the permissions listed above until you revoke its link to your account. (You can revoke such links at any time in the Extending Flickr section of your account prefs.)

What's going on here?
Flickr encourages other developers to build cool tools for you to play with, but you must authorize these third parties to access your account.

Want to know more?
A wealth of information lies within the Flickr Services page.

11. You should be taken back to Social Link Machine page where you should see 'Re-Authorize' next to your Flickr account, which means it was authorized successfully.
